NO MORE LOANS, NO MORE BONDS, TREASURY'S AIM

Houston Announces That Balance of Credit Will Not Be Advanced to Allies.

WOULD DEFER INTEREST

Officials Propose Allowing Debtors 3 Years, Collecting Only $23,000,000 Yearly.

FOLLOW GLASS PROGRAM

Bonds for Bonuses or to Reduce Taxes, as McAdoo Suggests, Will Be Opposed.

WASHINGTON, March 10.—Announcement was made by Secretary Houston today that no further loans would be made to the Allies. This is believed to indicate the adoption by the Treasury of the policy, favored by the debtor nations, of deferring interest payments for the next three years or more.

Under authority granted by Congress to extend $10,000,000,000 credits to the Allied nations, the Treasury has made loans amounting to $9,650,834,040. Secretary Houston said that the remainder of the credits authorized would not be granted as it was thought sufficient advances had been made.

Discussing the question, Treasury officials said that in view of the Exchange situation and the unsettled economic condition of the European nations during the reconstruction period, it would seem advisable to permit them to postpone interest payments for at least three years. Then, it is believed, they would be in a position to meet their obligations.

With the interest on the loans computed at 5 per cent., the total due the United States yearly is about $470,000,000, an enormous sum for the war-weakened countries to pay at present. If interest is funded into long-term obligations, the interest on the payments thus deferred will amount to only $23,000,000 yearly, which can be paid upon the credit of the debtor nations maintained. Treasury officials are working on recommendations to submit to Congress as to the course to be followed if deferred payments are permitted. It has been suggested that the interest on the interest be charged off but the proposal has met with strong opposition in Congress.

America's chief debtors are Great Britain with $4,277,000,000, France with $3,047,074,777, and Italy with $1,621,-638,900. Belgium's debt is $343,445,000 and Russia is charged with $187,729,750. Rumania, Serbia, Greece, Cuba, Czechoslovakia and Liberia are the other countries listed on the books of the Treasury.

Opposed to New Bond Issues.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, March 10.—The United States Treasury Department will adhere to its program to oppose further bond issues which would add to the public debt, either for the purpose of reducing taxation or for the payment of bonuses to soldiers. Neither will it abandon or postpone its plan to create from taxation a sinking fund of $250,000,000 annually with which to buy in existing Liberty bonds and stabilize the bond market. The policies established by former Secretary Carter Glass, who left the Treasury to become a United States Senator, will be followed in all major principles. These facts are now pretty thoroughly established and doubts have been removed as to the attitude the Treasury Department might take toward the proposal which former Secretary William G. McAdoo made to postpone the $250,000,000 sinking fund for two years and issue $1,500,000,000 in new long term bonds in order to reduce taxation by $2,000,000,000 over the next two years.

Mr. McAdoo was in Washington today. He had luncheon with President Wilson and chatted with Secretary of the Treasury Houston. That the Treasury Department as now constituted has not been won over to the McAdoo proposals is accepted here. There are no plans being made to submit such recommendations to Congress and should Congress show any evidence of considering a program involving other bond issues, it will be opposed by the Treasury.

Secretary Houston will appear before the House Ways and Means Committee tomorrow in connection with the agitation for a bonus to soldiers. There is reason to believe he will oppose the payment of bonuses by the floating of bonds.

So far as the tax situation is concerned, Secretary Houston is in favor of readjustment of the tax methods so as to simplify the procedure and remove unnecessary restrictions from business. This, some officials in the Treasury Department believe, can be accomplished in part by the abolishing of the excess profits taxes, a proposal made by former Secretary Glass. It would be necessary to find other means for raising taxes in that event, possibly by an increase in the normal taxes on corporations and in the upper brackets of the surtaxes on personal incomes.

There is a possibility that some readjustment of taxation methods which will eliminate the excess profits taxes will be accomplished more quickly than had been expected. It is reported that some of the leaders in Congress, including Senator Watson and Representative Fordney, the latter Chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee, will get together soon to discuss these problems with a view to making the readjustment during the present session of Congress.

Strikes in France Spreading Throughout the Provinces

PARIS, March 10.—Many strikes are reported in dispatches from the provinces, especially in the building trades at Aurillac, Auch and Angers.

At Chalon-sur-Saone employes in the gas works have declared their intention of striking.

SAYS DRYS PLAN RELIGIOUS SCHISM

DENIES OBSCURING ISSUE

Asserts 'Organized Fanaticism' May Try to Put Sectarianism Into Constitution.

Answering a bitter attack by the Rev. James K. Shields, Superintendent of the Anti-Saloon League in New Jersey, Governor Edward I. Edwards of that State declared last night that this "organized fanaticism," now on the defensive, was seeking to divide the country upon religious issues and "may next attempt by manipulation to write their particular brand of sectarianism into the Constitution—the country will be awake to the danger, and the Anti-Saloon League's late attack on Roman Catholics does not make this at all unlikely, strange as it may sound to an American."

Mr. Shields issued his statement from the Anti-Saloon League headquarters at 207 Market Street, Newark. He said, in part:

"In speaking contemptuously as he does of the Anti-Saloon League, Mr. Edwards is slurring the mighty hosts of American Protestantism, for whom the Anti-Saloon League is the spokesman and the fighting right arm in the battle against the most vicious forces in American life."

Christian Feigenspan, President of the United States Brewers Association and head of the brewing firm of Christian Feigenspan, Inc., of Newark, announced yesterday that an appeal will be taken from the decision of Federal Judge Reilstab, in dismissing in Trenton Tuesday Mr. Feigenspan's application for a preliminary injunction to prevent enforcement of prohibition.

Warns of War on Tobacco.

The Association opposed to National Prohibitions last night issued a statement in which the organization declared against the prohibition referendum as proposed by Republican leaders. "The anti-Constitutional prohibitionists of New York will not be salved or chloroformed by any such procedure," says the statement.

After stating that the proposed program would receive no support from the association, the statement continues:

"Do not the Republican statesmen at Albany know that even now all of the wealth and all of the power of the organization known as the Women's Christian Temperance Union are concentrated on a campaign to make this a tobaccoless country, to annihilate the tobacco business, root and branch, on or before 1924, the year in which the W. C. T. U. will celebrate its semi-centennial?"

Assembly Defeats Child Welfare Bill

ALBANY, March 10.—Despite an assertion by Speaker Sweet that he was in favor of the measure, the Assembly late today defeated the bill of Minority Leader Charles D. Donohue, designed to permit the Board of Estimate of Yonkers to grant allowances to dependent widows regardless of the nationality of their deceased husbands. The vote was 63 to 42.

WOMAN'S SUFFRAGE NEAR, BY VICTORY IN WEST VIRGINIA

CHEERS FILL STATE HOUSE

Defeated Faction Threatens to Contest Vote in Courts on Ground of Procedure.

34 STATES HAVE RATIFIED

Only Two More Needed—Delaware and Washington Legislators Meet March 22.

Special to The New York Times.

CHARLESTON, W. Va., March 10.—The State Senate tonight ratified the Federal Suffrage Amendment by a vote of 16 to 13, ending a long and warmly contested fight and swinging this State into the suffrage column. The House of Delegates ratified the amendment a week ago by a vote of 47 to 40.

Ratification was brought about by the unseating of Senator A. R. Montgomery of Boone County on the ground that he is now a resident of Illinois, and the arrival of Senator Jesse A. Bloch of Wheeling from his Winter home in Pasadena, Cal., after a flying trip across country.

All previous votes in the Senate had resulted in a tie of 14 to 14. The movement to unseat Senator Montgomery was begun yesterday afternoon, when he first took his seat for the extra session. He was an avowed anti-suffrage Senator, and it was charged by the suffragists that he was prevailed on the claim his seat after he had already submitted his resignation to the Governor, in order to offset the vote on Senator Bloch, whose arrival today was expected.

Senator Bloch arrived in Charleston at 2:30 this morning. His luggage included a set of golf sticks and a thermos bottle half filled with coffee. As he left the train he was met by a small group of suffrage leaders and several newspaper men and escorted to a hotel.

Because the House resolution was passed without amending the Senate rules, one week after reconsideration of the Senate's vote defeating its own resolution on the same subject, it was stated by anti-suffrage leaders tonight, the ratification by the Senate would be contested in the courts.

A communication signed by all the Senators voting against ratification was addressed tonight to Miles Poindexter, chairman of the National Republican Senatorial Committee, and Howard Sutherland and Davis Elkins, Republican Senators from West Virginia, demanding that they send to Charleston at once "one Frank Barrows, an official representative of that committee, who in a published statement today, charges that our votes as Senators of the State of West Virginia upon woman's suffrage have been influenced by the use of funds from the liquor interests."

CHARLESTON, W. Va., March 10.—Senator Bloch was enthusiastically greeted when he appeared on the floor of the State Senate this afternoon. Crowded galleries cheered and a suffrage worker pinned a yellow flower on his coat.

The final vote on the amendment was taken at 6:15 o'clock after one of the most dramatic sessions ever witnessed in either House. For several hours suffrage leaders and their opponents fought in an effort to gain a definite advantage. Each step by either party was hotly contested.

Crowded galleries were kept in order with difficulty as each phase of the battle apparently swung in favor of one side or the other. The halls and corridors were thronged with spectators, including hundreds of women, many of whom wore yellow flowers, as well as men. Each Senator had brought to his desk as many chairs as could be crowded about it, the majority being occupied by women. As champions of one cause or the other appeared the spectators frequently broke into cheers. A few minutes after adjournment hundreds of men and women started a demonstration in the corridors, many of them having concealed tin horns.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, March 10.—Suffrage leaders were highly elated tonight over their spectacular victory in West Virginia, which won for them the thirty-fourth State. They held, and it is generally conceded, that the amendment would be ratified by two more States before the end of March. This will give the necessary thirty-six States to make the amendment part of the Constitution.

The Legislatures of Delaware and Washington will meet in special session on March 22 to consider the suffrage amendment and it is practically a foregone conclusion that both will approve it. The Governors of both States called the session for the express purpose of voting on the amendment.

Last of Labor Members Out of Lloyd George Government

LONDON, March 10.—The Labor Party became entirely dissociated from the Government in administrative work with the resignation today of George J. Wardle, Parliamentary Secretary to the Ministry of Labor. Mr. Wardle announces that he retires because of ill-health.

The Food Controller, George H. Roberts, Labor member for Norwich, and George Nicoll Barnes, Minister without portfolio and Labor member for Glasgow, recently resigned.

The press generally has been predicting for some time that labor would sever itself from the Government offices in order to leave itself free to conduct a campaign for the establishment of a labor government.

BRITISH MINERS VOTE FOR A STRIKE

Huge Majority Favors Direct Action to Enforce Coal Nationalization Demands.

UNION CONGRESS TO DECIDE

Meeting Today Expected to Deprecate Extremist Action, Urging Constitutional Methods.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, March 10.—By a majority of 178,000 votes the coal miners have decided in favor of direct action to enforce nationalization of the coal industry. The figures reported to the national conference, held in London today, were: For direct action, 524,000; against, 346,000. This is the largest aggregate vote in the history of the miners' federation.

The final decision on the policy to be pursued will rest with the Trades Union Congress at a specially convened meeting tomorrow. It is believed that the weight of opinion will be against the strike and in favor of political action. The miners vote will be opposed by many other unions, and if direct action is defeated it is likely that nationalization will be dropped by the miners as a strike issue, and a new fight for an increase of wages will be begun.

Delegates of the unions affiliated with the National Federation of General Workers, which has a membership of 1,350,000 votes, met in London today and passed a resolution that it was advisable that the votes recorded at the Trade Union Congress should be in favor of Parliamentary action.

LONDON, March 10 (Associated Press).—Robert Smillie, one of the first advocates of direct action, resigned the Presidency of the Miners' Federation today on account of illness. It is conceded that his elimination will materially weaken the influence of the extremist element among the unionists.

Wireless Device Catches Messages Sent Thousands of Miles.

LONDON, March 10.—Through a London bedroom window there came this evening rapid, automatic, wireless telephonic messages that were being sent out by a Bolshevik operating in Moscow. A newspaper correspondent who listened to these communications heard also messages from Hanover and Carnarvon. They were all received on a new apparatus which H. Powell Rees has invented.

A feature of this is that it is all contained in a tiny box and is apparently so simple in its mechanism that a child can work it. The cost of manufacture is reported small. With three thermionic valves, which may be described in technical terms as magnifiers, messages can be sent from a distance of thousands of miles and heard with distinctness.

Every Sunday between 3 and 6 and 6 and 7 P. M. Rees listens to a telephonic concert in Italy and telephonic conversations from other stations are heard. This would seem to conflict with the theory expressed by a Marconi official the other day that long-distance telephony would probably not be audible to amateurs because of the high wave measures used.

American stations are readable on this tiny set, although the aerial used is only a wire, eighty-five feet long, hung between an upper bedroom window and a tree at the bottom of a garden. Rees has spent some years in experimenting in wireless.

LONDON, March 11.—The names of the members of the delegation from the Co-operative Societies of Moscow who are coming to London to take part in the negotiations for the resumption of trade with Russia are now given as following: Nogin, Rosovsky, Khinchuk, Litvinoff and Krassin.

Of these five it is impossible that Litvinoff will actually arrive, as owing to his propaganda during his stay in London as "Ambassador" of the Soviet Government he is not persona grata with the British Government. Of the remaining four members three are acknowledged Bolsheviki, little known in this country. Krassin is one of the leading Bolsheviki of Moscow. He took part in the Peace Conference at Brest-Litovsk and has a lifetime of revolutionary effort behind him.

REPORT ON COLBY MADE TO SENATORS BY ARMY OFFICIAL

Nature of Information Is Not Divulged, Though Placed on the Records.

CONFIRMATION IS LIKELY

Foreign Relations Committee Members Say Favorable Action Will Be Taken Soon.

POLK'S ROLE ENDS MONDAY

Temporary Acting Secretary Is Not Eligible for Reappointment, but Reverts to Former Grade.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, March 10.—The Senate Foreign Relations Committee today considered the nomination of Bainbridge Colby to be Secretary of State in the light of information furnished by Brigadier General Marlborough Churchill, head of the Army Intelligence Service. General Churchill was before the committee for about an hour, and left with it a large number of books and papers as well as a list of witnesses, some of whom are members of the Army Intelligence Service, and some civilians.

Subpoenas were issued for more witnesses who will be heard by the committee as soon as possible.

Committee members agreed at the meeting not to give out any intimation of the nature of General Churchill's statement. They said, however, that they believed Mr. Colby would be confirmed by the Senate, indicating that General Churchill did not present anything likely to be construed by the majority of the Senate as disqualifying him.

Whatever the nature of the Intelligence Service's interest in Mr. Colby, it was deep enough, one committee member said today, to lead to the keeping of certain records. He would go no further.

The committee may complete its inquiry in time to permit the Senate to pass upon the nomination of Mr. Colby next week, it was intimated.

This question is of considerable interest in the Department of State, inasmuch as next Monday is the last day, under the law, upon which Acting Secretary Polk can serve under his present designation by the President.

After that time, if the Senate has not confirmed Mr. Colby, the President must make a new temporary appointment or the department will have no head. Mr. Polk is not eligible to another temporary appointment. He might, however, continue to function as the head of the department, though reverting to his title of Under-Secretary. He would not then have authority to sign official proclamations, which are required by law to bear the signature of the Secretary of State. So far as communication with foreign governments goes, there need be no embarrassment, it was stated, as Mr. Polk could handle them as Under-Secretary quite as well as if Acting Secretary.

Wholly Uninformed, Says Colby.

Mr. Colby, after considering the news from Washington, contained in the above dispatch and also certain unverified assertions as to what had been testified before the committee, wrote this statement for The Times last night:

"I am wholly uninformed as to the matters engaging the attention of the Committee on Foreign Relations. I have no material out of which I can fashion even a speculation as to the trend or object of their deliberations. The inuendoes and inferences which are suggested by the dispatch which you show me, are absolutely without foundation, and I can only bide my time in silence until I receive some clue as to what is going on.

"From what I know of the character of the committee I feel sure that no member of the committee could have supplied any justification for the inferences suggested or invited by your dispatch."

'NOW COMMENCES WAR,' SAYS COL. D'ANNUNZIO

Will Land Fiume Children in Venice by Warship Despite Italy's Refusal.

FIUME, March 10.—Gabriele d'Annunzio, the insurgent leader, tonight issued the following statement:

"I read in the newspapers the incredible piece of news that the command of the royal troops in Julian Venetia prohibits the passage of the poor children of Fiume into the Kingdom of Italy, while more than 7,000 Viennese children are today housed with tenderness under Italian roofs.

"I will not tolerate this infamy. I am preparing the roughest-edged tool to brand it. Besides caring for Fiume's famishing children on one of my ships, I shall land them at Venice, ready to fire on whosoever dares to obstruct me in undertaking this legitimate reprisal. Yes, now commences war."

Several weeks ago more than 200 Fiume children were taken to Milan. At that time General Caviglia, former Italian Minister of War, said he had opened the doors to children taken to Italy for humane reasons. General Caviglia is now making a tour of inspection along the armistice line.

A letter has been received by d'Annunzio from Said Zegloul Pasha, the Egyptian Nationalist leader, expressing their "common aims for emancipated humanity."

REPORT WILSON WILL POCKET THE TREATY IF PLEDGE UNDER ARTICLE X. IS KILLED; THREATS TO LODGE SET BACK COMPROMISE

Only Two Invitations to Join League Unaccepted; Cecil Rules That Norway Could Abolish Army

LONDON, March 10.—With the official notification, announced today, of the accession to the League of Nations of Switzerland, Denmark, Sweden, Norway and Holland, all but two, namely Salvador and Venezuela, of the thirteen nations, non-signatories of the Versailles treaty, invited to become original members of the League, have definitely accepted.

Salvador has signified its intention of joining the League, but Venezuela has not yet declared its intention.

COPENHAGEN, March 10.—Whether joining the League of Nations is synonymous with the duty of keeping up a standing army to be placed at the disposal of the League to enforce the League's decisions has been for a long time a burning question in Denmark and Norway. The Democratic majority, against the protests of the Conservatives in both countries, read the treaty as giving a member of the League full right to abolish its army and navy.

Lord Robert Cecil, the British representative of the League, in reply to an inquiry by the President of the Norwegian Storthing, says:

"I have no doubt that your reading of Article VIII. of the treaty is right. Undoubtedly it was never meant to put on any member of the League the burden and duty to keep up military forces."

VENIZELOS OFFERS TROOPS

His Urgency of "Sternest Measures" Allayed Military Advisers' Fears of Consequences.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Thursday, March 11.—The Daily Chronicle's Peace Conference representative writes as follows:

"The disciplinary occupation of Constantinople, as it may be called, to distinguish it from the ordinary occupation which followed the conclusion of the armistice, has been definitely ordered by the Allied Powers and will be carried out at once. For the present it will consist in posting Allied contingents at strategic points of the city on both sides of the Golden Horn. For this purpose there are troops enough on the spot, and more can be brought up in a few days.

"Any question of further measures will be answered according as this unsensational demonstration is or is not effective in bringing home to the Turkish Government and the people the determination of the Allies that provincial disorders shall cease and the terms of the Peace Treaty be executed scrupulously.

"A very important meeting of the Supreme Council took place at 10 Downing Street, the sitting being wholly devoted to this subject. It is significant that Mr. Churchill and Mr. Long, with Admiral Lord Beatty and General Thwaites, joined the Council on this occasion, and that Venizelos, the Greek Premier, was present, as well as Mr. Lloyd George, Lord Curzon, M. Cambon and M. Berthelot, Signor Scialoia, the Marquis Imperiali and Viscount Chinda. Several experts were also heard.

"The official communiqué merely states:

"'The Council considered the measures which were being taken to insure the protection of the Armenians and other minorities in Turkey.'

"While the indeterminate attitude of the United States toward Turkey presents evident difficulties, it may be said that the American Government has been urged to take part in the measures for the protection of the Armenians, and that leading statesmen are painfully conscious that without American cooperation no ideal solution of the Turkish problem can be expected.

"England and France are heavily overburdened with the duties they have already accepted and are faced with the possibility—through their efforts to bring some order out of this chaos—of new troubles such as America has never to fear. They will suffer for their faults, but if the remnant of the Armenian race should suffer further some responsibility must fall also upon the nation which, associated with this problem by many fine traditions, is for such a purpose the strongest and freest of all."

Greeks Offer to Coerce Kemal Pasha.

LONDON, March 10 (Associated Press).—The report of the allied commissioners in Constantinople was presented at Wednesday's meeting of the Supreme Council, according to statements current in Peace Conference circles tonight, where it also was said that the Council adopted the main proposals of the report.

These are believed to have recommended very sharp measures to impress upon Turkey that the Allies are determined to have Turkey comply with the armistice terms and treat the Armenians and other subject races in se-

WILSON AND M'ADOO CONFER

Rumors of Firmness on Treaty After White House Luncheon.

SENATE PARLEYS FRUITLESS

Bitter-Enders Tell Lodge He Must Not Yield—Mild Group Also Menacing.

DEMOCRATS DISCUSS BREAK

Confer with Owen—Wilson and Bryan Forces Said to be in Conflict.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, March 10.—Belief that President Wilson will pigeonhole the Peace Treaty if the obligation under Article X. is killed was expressed in Washington tonight, following a day of manoeuvring for compromise in the Senate, at the close of which the prospect for ratification in any form appeared to dwindle.

The impression as to the President's decision developed after he had conferred on the treaty and the political campaign with ex-Secretary McAdoo, who was his guest at luncheon at the White House. It is understood that Mr. McAdoo came away with the view that Mr. Wilson would not deposit ratification if the Senate gave a two-thirds vote for the treaty with the substance of the Lodge reservations on Article X. retained.

Furthermore, it is understood that Mr. McAdoo agreed with the President that the Lodge reservation on Article X. would nullify the effectiveness of the league, and left the White House more nearly in accord with the President's viewpoint in regard to the treaty than had been generally thought previously. The luncheon party is expected, therefore, to have a great effect on the political line-up from this time on. The future developments will remain in doubt until the Senate has taken final action. It would seem now that in so far as action by the Senate on the treaty is concerned, one of two things will happen; that it will be ratified with the Lodge reservations or others which the President will not accept, and be pigeonholed, or that ratification will not be accomplished.

Bears on Campaign Accord.

The full significance of the Wilson-McAdoo luncheon may not be realized before the fate of the treaty in the Senate is known. After that, however, it may become apparent that the talk between the President and Mr. McAdoo was of vital moment in the pre-convention campaign.

Up to this time it has been the gossip that Attorney General Palmer was the only candidate who appeared as the "heir apparent" and that he would be more likely than any other to carry the banner of ratification without reservations or no treaty at all.

The advisability of President Wilson seeking a third term has been discussed among his friends in a serious way in the last few days. The report is current here that these friends are practically a unit in opposing his making the fight. That counsel will probably prevail in the end, especially if Palmer or McAdoo appears in the eyes of the President as equipped in their views on the treaty issue to take the burden from his shoulders.

Friends of Mr. McAdoo do not admit the truth of reports that have been current that when Attorney General Palmer entered the Georgia primaries he had the sanction of President Wilson. Such reports tended to make it appear that the President and Mr. McAdoo were not on friendly terms as regards the treaty issue. It has even been said that Mr. McAdoo's visit to the White House today was expected to end the reports of inferences that the President and Mr. McAdoo were at odds on any topic.

Developments of importance are expected within the next ten days. In that time it is expected that the contest in the Senate over the treaty will be at an end. Bryan is coming to town to stir things up and volunteer advice as to what should be done. It is not improbable also that the question whether the President will seek a third term will be answered.

Compromisers Still at Work.

In the Senate itself today more strands snapped in the tenuous thread of hope to which Senators seeking a compromise on the reservation to Article X. of the Peace Treaty have been clinging.

It was a "day of grace" granted to the compromisers by the Republican leaders, who agreed that a few more hours might be spent in trying to save the Simmons-Watson proposal, or in evolving some other plan which could get the needed votes. But at the end of the day tired, discouraged Senators said that they believed everything was over so far as real compromise was concerned.

The situation has now simmered down to an effort to draft a reservation which Democrats can construe in a manner acceptable to themselves and which Republicans can construe like-

FRENCH DISAVOW MILITARIST AIMS

Declare Firmness Toward Germany Is Due to Lack of Guarantees of Safety.

ROUSED BY WILSON LETTER

Tardieu Says Nation Has Undue Share of Responsibility — British Reserve Comment.

By EDWIN L. JAMES.

Copyright, 1920, by The New York Times Company.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, March 10.—President Wilson's charge in his letter to Senator Hitchcock that France is now actuated by a spirit of militarism controlling its Government has been received in Paris with deep resentment. It appears that the President's criticism will make it more difficult for his opinions to continue to have an important effect upon shaping France's international policies.

French objection to Mr. Wilson's criticism is twofold.

First, Paris regards his reference to a supposedly undesirable change in the French Government as being unwarranted interference by the Chief of one State in the internal affairs of another.

Second, and more basic, the French argue that, if it is true that they now appear to be assuming a firmer attitude toward Germany, it is because they feel that they must do so to protect France, since the guarantees, of which Mr. Wilson was largely the author, namely, the League of Nations and the Anglo-American-French military alliance, do not now promise material results.

A point in Mr. Wilson's argument which has had an especially unfortunate effect here is that after declaring that Article X. as it stands is a guarantee against militarism he proceeds to accuse France of militarism. This is construed in Paris as placing the League of Nations in what is for Frenchmen the entirely new light of being a potential instrument for the correction of France.

The French argue that if it had not been for Mr. Wilson's influence at the Peace Conference they would not now be forced to face promises not made good, but would have material guarantees, which they always regarded as preferable to pledges in words. In other words, Mr. Wilson, they hold, should not blame them for wanting to stay on the Rhine until Germany comes to terms, since the substitute guarantees which he offered have not materialized up to this time.

From the current of expressions in the French capital today it appears possible that instead of having the effect he sought Mr. Wilson's warning may be followed by the formation of a French policy with regard to the Rhineland more positive than any maintained heretofore.

Lausanne Assails Wilson.

The Matin, which for many weeks has carefully refrained from joining in the general French criticism of President Wilson and America, will publish tomorrow morning an article by its editor, Stephane Lausanne, in which he says:

"Colonel Harvey wrote in his terrible weekly the other day, 'No, Mr. Wilson has not become insane; he is just as he always was.' That is the truth. We find in the letter to Mr. Hitchcock the Mr. Wilson of before the war, who asked 'What are the causes of the war?' the Wilson who declared that he was too proud to fight. It is the same university professor, meddlesome and ignorant, turning out phrases pretty in words but bad in meaning. It is the same pedagogue who mixing into the greatest drama in history understood nothing of it and who has learned nothing of it.

"His accusation against France is vague and offensive: 'Throughout the is, the compromise seekers want a reservation which to Democrats will read that there is an obligation upon the United States to preserve the territory and independence of other nations from unjustifiable attack, and which Republicans will read as leaving no such obligation.

To those Senators who stand on the line fixed with President Wilson as friends of the treaty, or with Senator Borah as its enemies, the compromise efforts have lost their sincerity. They are now purely political. Senators declared, did even as politics they are futile and should be repudiated by the leaders.

Want to Fix Responsibility.

The purpose now, according to Republican irreconcilables, is to fasten responsibility on President Wilson for rejection of the treaty. This is as much the Democratic as the Republican purpose, the irreconcilables said. This phase of the compromise efforts is likely to be gone into with considerable frankness on the Senate floor if a compromise reservation is offered.

The decision as to whether it will be offered is expected to be reached within a few hours. Senator Watson, who with Senator Simmons worked it out, has said that he would not now present it, but the intimation was given that it might be offered by some other Senator.

Senators who have watched closely the course of the latest attempt said that the plain truth was that Senators who were sent out with orders to "fix it" failed, because a large number of Senators refused to be "fixed."

A few hours before the Senate met today, it was understood that twenty-eight Democratic votes had been more or less tentatively pledged to the Simmons-Watson compromise. But Senators Borah, McCormick and Walsh of Massachusetts, all irreconcilables, told Senator Lodge that the compromise would not do. They informed him also that as many Democrats would vote for the original Lodge reservation on Article X. as would support the proposed compromise, that number being, in their judgment, not more than twenty-two. Therefore, they argued, Mr. Lodge would sacrifice prestige, and some of his Republican support, to no purpose, if he should assent to the Simmons-Watson plan.

Soon afterward word was conveyed to Senator Simmons that the compromise was "off."

Mild Group Appeals to Lodge.

Then Senators Lenroot, Kellogg and others of the mild persuasion tried to get Mr. Lodge to understand that they might be tempted to go over to the Democratic camp unless he would agree to the proposed modification. This led Mr. Lodge to urge Senators Freling-huysen, Wadsworth, Ball, Sutherland and others of his supporters who have served notice on him that they would not abide his leadership if he weakened on Article X., to support the modification or a modification. Mr. Lodge assured them again that he would be the last person in the Senate to yield on principle.

This group appeared to be unable to discover why any yielding was necessary, if the principle was to be retained, and indicated that its members would not be likely to vote for anything modifying the Lodge plan.

While all these groups were seeing Mr. Lodge and he them, a number of Democratic Senators, fewer than a dozen in all, met in Senator Owen's office and discussed whether it were wiser to follow the President or to desert him. They reached no conclusion, a group. Senators who attended the conference said that there was no indication of a Democratic revolt.

Senators who took no part in the numerous conferences, but who kept close watch upon all of them, said tonight that it appeared as if the Senate was about to get down to brass tacks on Article X. without much more ceremony.

Hitchcock Predicts Failure of Plan.

Senator Hitchcock, the Democratic leader, who is opposed to the Simmons-Watson plan, believed, he said, that there was no question that it would be rejected if offered in the Senate. Senator Borah, leader of the irreconcilables, said that his information was to the same effect. If that should be the case, the Lodge reservation in its original form probably would go through without much more talking, and the ratifying resolution would be set up and knocked down shortly thereafter.

The situation in the Democratic ranks was described tonight by one observer as a clear alignment between the Wilson and the Bryan forces.

The debate today had no bearing on the situation. It was not so intended, but was merely designed to fill the hours allotted to the compromisers for their final efforts. Senator McCormick of Illinois began it by questioning the accuracy of President Wilson's information concerning the French Government, which, in his letter to Senator Hitchcock, he said was in control of militarists.

"The veriest tyro in French politics," said Mr. McCormick, "knows that the militarist forces of which Dr. Wilson spoke found their expression through former Premier Clemenceau and André Tardieu. The President's ignorance of the French language caused him to be misled concerning conditions while he was in Paris."

Mr. McCormick referred to the compromise efforts, saying that "camouflage" was being attempted.

"But in the end," he warned, "surrender there must be by one side or the other and ultimately the people will know who has surrendered."

Senator Poindexter of Washington also criticised the President's letter.

TAFT REGRETS DEADLOCK.

Hopes Democrats Will Ignore the President and Compromise on Treaty

Special to The New York Times.

PITTSBURGH, March 10.—Ex-President Taft, who was in Pittsburgh two hours today, between trains, talked briefly to newspaper men on the treaty situation in the Senate. He said:

"I am very much disappointed at the whole situation. It seems to me there is a failure to look beyond and see the situation as it is going to be in the failure of ratification. When we have nine-tenths of the loaf, which we could get, to throw this away because we cannot get the whole ten-tenths, is, to me, the height of folly.

"I hope the Democratic Senators will not allow the President's message to influence them, and consider whether it is not wise for them to put the responsibility where it belongs. If the President chooses to reject the treaty after ratification let him do it. It is hard to conceive of his deliberately destroying his own work just because it isn't as well rounded as he thinks it ought to be."

SAYS ALBANIA IS SAVED.

Chekrezi Gives Wilson Credit—Asks Part in Peace Negotiations.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, March 10.—The position President Wilson has taken against the partition of Albania in his exchange of notes with the powers over the Adriatic problem has cleared the way for a just settlement of the Albanian problem, in the opinion of C. A. Chekrezi, the representative of the Provisional Government of Albania, who is in Washington on a special mission. He says, in a statement issued tonight:

"The stand of President Wilson in Albanian affairs has deeply stirred up public opinion among the European peoples, who were reluctantly led to believe that the allied disposition of the Albanian problem might, after all, help in bringing about a quick settlement of the Adriatic tangle. This is quite evident by the recent declarations of Signor Nitti that Italy will not make to the Jugoslavs any compensation in Albania, and by the further statement of M. Protitch that Jugoslavia desires that Albania be let alone to look after her own interests.

"The salvation of my country is due, then, I do not hesitate to say, wholly to the action of the United States Government."

DENIES THAT FRANCE IS IMPERIALISTIC

Foreign Office Authority Says She Stands for Status Quo In Europe.

DEFENDS HER POLISH POLICY

Union of Border States Is Imperative, He Says, to Resist Bolshevism.

By WALTER DURANTY.

Copyright, 1920, by The New York Times Company.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, March 9.—"French policy at present has two phases—active and passive, aggressive and stand pat. The first phase concerns the Treaty of Versailles. France will do her utmost to insure its being carried out and resist its revision. The second concerns the French attitude toward other European affairs outside of Germany. In this respect we favor the maintenance of the status quo as far as possible, subject naturally to such modifications as the course of events may render necessary. Logically speaking, this is the corollary of our policy toward Germany. Inasmuch as the relative positions of European States have been more or less determined by the Peace Treaty, it follows that our fight against the alteration of the treaty be accompanied by a desire that said positions remain unchanged."

Such was the definition of the French attitude given to me today by a high Foreign Office authority. He expressly denied that French aims regarding Europe other than Germany were either imperialistic or bellicose.

I suggested that in the case of Latvia, Poland and Rumania, for instance, French representatives had been trying to form a combination of an imperialistic character under French influence and following the line laid down by French advisers. Doubtless this cannot be actually termed French imperialism, but indirectly it comes to the same thing. He replied:

"To begin with, the Letto-Polish and Rumanian combination is more of a hope for the future than the reality you appear to consider it. Secondly, it is rather mutual need and a desire for cooperation in the face of a common danger and common problems than French instigation and advice, which is bringing the three States together. However, in such degree as the French have favored the idea of a combination their action is precisely in accord with the two phases of the policy I mentioned at the outset. For the Peace Treaty expressly guarantees to Poland genuine freedom and independence, which are of course impossible unless based on real strength.

Border Union Against Bolsheviki.

"Secondly, the course of events in Eastern Europe—or, in other words, the recent great access of force by the Bolsheviki—has rendered it necessary to do everything possible to maintain the status quo in the countries bordering on Soviet Russia. Divided, they fall easy prey to the Bolsheviki; united, they may be able to resist. Hence we are perfectly logical in helping to bring about their union, and even in encouraging them by such means as the recognition of the Polish claim to East Galicia or the Rumanian claim to Bessarabia."

This official considers that the result of the discussion over the allied economic manifesto is a triumph for French diplomacy and a vindication of the French attitude regarding the Treaty of Versailles.

"We stood up for our rights," he said, "and the result was that passages in the first edition of the manifesto to which we objected were deleted and other passages whose insertion we requested were inserted. There has been a lot of ink and conversation spilt over this affair, but in point of fact the final manifesto is of no very great importance, and certainly has nothing of a revolutionary nature. Really, it is just a series of desiderata—the expression of pious hopes which obviously every one would like to see realized, but a very different thing from allied decisions or resolutions."

I asked whether there was any truth in the report, which I had heard recently in two or three well-informed directions, that France was contemplating some kind of counterblast to the economic manifesto as it was first conceived in London—that is, to what is generally supposed to be the new Anglo-Italian tendency to revise the treaty in Germany's favor. The official replied that he had not heard anything of the kind and did not quite see what form it could take. There would, however, be something diplomatically nonsensical in his attitude, which contrasted with the complete frankness of the previous conversation. I was left with the impression that there might be something in the report after all.

Hint of Rhine Developments.

It may, however, take a more startling form than a mere expression of the French point of view on the economic or political situation. The British General Robertson's resignation of the Rhine command, coupled with Marshal Foch's recent visit to Cologne, may be indications of something new on the Rhine. No one who was present in Paris during the Peace Conference needs to be reminded how vehemently the French insisted that their frontier be made absolutely secure against Germany. They were told that the League of Nations would guarantee that. They did not satisfy them, and they asked that the league be equipped with a permanent General Staff or permanent army, or both. The Allies refused, but promised a Franco-American and an Anglo-French alliance in exchange. Neither has materialized, and the League of Nations has even less authority as the result of America's absention than the French had imagined.

Meanwhile England and Italy appear to French eyes to be more concerned over Germany's economic recovery than the restitution and reorganization of the French invaded provinces. It does not seem illogical in the circumstances that France should say: "We are all against the revision of the treaty, and you know it. But if you (England and Italy) are determined to revise it in Germany's favor we have a right to insist that there also be a revision in our favor; that is, that the weak point in our armor—our frontier—be strengthened."

PARIS PUBLIC ON STRIKE.

Balks at 100 Per Cent. Increase in Taxicab Fares.

Copyright, 1920, by The New York Times Company.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, March 10.—For two days the streets of Paris have presented a strange appearance. Something of their fussy state has gone from them and unwonted quiet reigns. In long rows on cabstands cabs stand idle and around their drivers gossip over their pipes. At any hour of the day and almost of the night one can get a cab, and the strange phenomenon of a cabman soliciting fares along the sidewalk is even to be seen.

The reason is that the Paris public has come to the conclusion that it is time it struck. By common consent and without the formation of any trade union the long-suffering citizens have agreed that they have reached their limit.

They have put up with most increases in prices with fairly good temper and they have not been over anxious to abstain from their luxuries even at an exorbitant charges, but from every family budget cabs are being struck out, except in cases of most extreme urgence as impossibly expensive luxuries.

On Monday at one bound the cab-owning companies almost doubled their charges. The public, taken by surprise, for one day accepted the situation, but yesterday the strike began. Omnibuses and subways were crowded to bursting, but their discomfort was considered preferable to paying double taxicab fares.

From being a dictator, able to pick and choose his fares, the cabman has shrunk to the position of a humble solicitor for custom.

The increased charges are, of course, based on the increased price of gasoline, which is nearly five times its cost before the war, and at the present rate of exchange they are not, from the foreigner's point of view, unreasonable. But to the French people new rates are ruinously high, and though the cabmen are confident that the strike will not last long, it looks as if the effort to get the golden eggs from the goose is likely to result in its untimely death.

Ball for 23d Precinct Reserves.

City officials and others will welcome new members of the police reserves of the Twenty-third Precinct at the annual ball and entertainment of the organization to be held at the Hotel Pennsylvania on March 18. The police reserves of the Twenty-third Precinct are campaigning for additional members. Residents or persons employed in the district, which is bounded Twenty-seventh and Forty-second Streets, Park to Seventh Avenue, are eligible for membership.

COUNCIL'S CONCESSIONS TO FRANCE APPROVED

Its Economic Memorandum Still Criticised in London Press as Coddling Germany.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, March 10.—The allied economic memorandum is the subject of considerable criticism in this morning's papers and much sympathy is expressed for the French attitude as regards the suggested financial help and concessions to Germany.

The Daily Chronicle says:

"At a time when no international credits have been provided for the restoration of France's devastated regions, and not a penny has yet been paid by Germany toward it, there was something obviously anomalous in singling out undevastated Germany for the benefits of an international loan whose repayment should take priority of all her other debts, reparation included. Granted that some advances must almost certainly be made to her, it seems more consonant with justice to place the whole matter, as the memorandum now places it, under the jurisdiction of the Reparation Commission."

The Morning Post says:

"We confess we do not understand this constant and consuming anxiety for Germany's welfare. At the present time, although Germany is said to have lost the war, she is far richer in actual and potential sources of wealth than most of her enemies, and she is well able to look after herself. Furthermore, we know, and the allied Governments know, that Germany is still carrying on active propaganda for the injury and destruction of the allied nations."

The London Times says:

"We think the Supreme Council has done right in admitting the special claims of France, which should certainly take priority of those of Germany and are of equal economic importance to the restoration of normal trade."

The Daily Mail says:

"It is by no means certain that the Germans are not shamming poverty, and great injustice would be perpetrated if the burden which they ought to bear is shifted to the shoulders of British or French taxpayers. By one of the treaty clauses taxation in Germany must not be lighter than it is in any of the allied States. We should be much surprised to learn that it is today as heavy in Germany as it is in this country. The utmost farthing is being wrung out of unfortunate Englishmen, while the Germans are being encouraged to clamor for remissions of debt."

The Daily Telegraph says:

"It is by placing the relief of Germany under control of the Reparation Commission, of which Poincaré is President, that the objections of the French Government have been met and apprehensions removed that the needs of Germany might possibly be considered to the disadvantage of the work of restoration in France. This was the only practical course, and we are confident that the statesmanship of Poincaré and his colleagues will justify its adoption."

The Daily News says:

"The decision to allow Germany to raise a loan and to limit the indemnity demanded of her to some fixed sum is the keystone of progress. With this concession the task of rehabilitating Europe has begun."

FINE DR. MARY S. MACY $460.

Defendant Denies Her Identity, but is Ordered to Pay.

Dr. Mary Sutton Macy of 155 West Fifty-eighth Street was fined $460 by City Court Justice Meyer yesterday because she refused to appear and testify as to her ability to pay a judgment for $430 obtained by the Yale & Towne Manufacturing Company for locks purchased for a country place in New Jersey.

When Deputy Sheriffs Murphy and Eisenstein went to the defendant's sixteen-room apartment to serve a body attachment signed by Justice Meyer she insisted that Dr. Mary Sutton Macy was her cousin and that she was in Europe. The Deputies took her to court anyhow, and there she still insisted that she was Sarah Macy, although employes of the apartment house said they knew her as Dr. Mary Sutton Macy.

Justice Meyer told the defendant that if she didn't pay the fine in ten days she would be committed to Ludlow Street Jail, but she replied that she didn't know where she would get the money.

DEAD MAN IN STOLEN CAR.

Undertaker's Auto Found Abandoned After Several Hours.

The driver of an undertaker's motor wagon of the Dalton undertaking place at 235 Clinton Street, Brooklyn, drove the body of Thomas Shaw from a hospital last night to his late home at 455 Chestnut Street, Brooklyn, and went inside to make arrangements for carrying the body in.

Hearing the motor start, the driver ran out in time to see the vehicle going rapidly down the street with two men on the seat. He gave chase, but the thieves gained on him. He then telephoned to Brooklyn Police Headquarters, where a general larm was sent out. Later in the evening, Police Sergeant Dannhauser found the abandoned car at Liberty Avenue and Warwick Street, about a mile from the place where it had been stolen. The body was still in it.

By EDWIN L. JAMES.

Paris conference the French militarists sought to gain the ascendancy in France, and although defeated then they are in control now. Whom is he talking about, Marshal Foch and M. Poincaré in the past or M. Deschanel and M. Millerand in the present, or the newly elected Chamber? We do not know of any other powers which govern France. But by what right does the chief of a foreign State apply an epithet which he seeks to make evil to the greatest citizens of an allied country or to a Parliament freely elected?

"When Josephus Daniels is preparing the most formidable naval program of history do we accuse America of militarism? When Mr. Wilson's own son-in-law, the ineffable McAdoo, speaks of appropriating at one blow Bermuda, the Bahamas and Jamaica to liquidate the English debt do we accuse America of imperialism?

"Vehement protests are rising against this intolerable language at the Capitol itself. Mr. Lodge, with his incomparable authority, has well reproved Presidential impertinences. We expect nothing less from the American Senate. And let the American people know well that they still have our profound affection and our fraternal gratitude. It is not their fault if for a few months more they have at their head a 'false' theorist and faulty idealist. Three times he has been solemnly repudiated. We are certain that he will be repudiated once more. More than a sick man in a wheel-chair is needed to create a cloud in the eternal blue sky above two sister republics."

Sees Militarism Only in Germany.

The Temps tonight says:

"We regret profoundly that the health of Mr. Wilson prevents him from revisiting Europe. In France he would see that reconstruction of the devastated regions absorbs all the resources of the nation and dominates its policies. He would see, on the other hand, how Germany has received the interallied commissions which control its disarmament and how a campaign is developing to make Marshal Hindenburg President of the commonwealth.

"If he were before France, which counts on the Treaty of Peace, and before Germany, which is trying to escape it—before France, which is exhausting herself to repair the ruins of war, and before Germany, where a new war is openly preached—the President of the United States would not declare that a military party reigns in France, as he says in the public letter he sent to Senator Hitchcock.

"However, Mr. Wilson was at Paris last year and he ought to know our country. What memory has he of us? 'During all the time of the Peace Conference sitting,' he writes, 'it was evident that the military party was trying to take control in the councils of France.' When one reads the farewell message which Mr. Wilson addressed to France, to thank her for her hospitality, one would not truly think that he was then conscious of having been present at such a fight. We cannot believe that he would have hidden his thoughts at such a moment.

"Has not the evidence of which he speaks reached him rather late? Where did he get it?"

The Temps then goes on to say that whatever criticisms were made of Mr. Wilson's policies during the Peace Conference were only in accord with his own principle of open discussion and should not have given him offense. Continuing, the Temps says:

"We know of but one militarism in Europe. It is that of which Marshal Hindenburg is the symbol and of which Prince Joachim Albrecht of Prussia is one of the most recently discovered supports. That militarism attacked us in 1914; we are living still in 1920, in the midst of the ruins which it accumulated on our soil.

"Its fanfares of revenge reach our ears more and more frequently and more and more insolently. If it did not crush our country, if it did not conquer the rest of Europe, if the peoples of the world are free, to whom is the credit due? To our military leaders it is due. If a new menace arises on the other side of the Rhine, on whom would the world rely to conquer it? On our military chiefs it would rely. We will not tolerate any one's speaking lightly of them."

The Temps argues that it is France which opposed the imperialistic slicing up of Turkey and which advocated asking President Wilson's advice upon the Turkish proposals. It concludes its article thus:

"American opinion feels it has been deceived and it has reacted at once. We are happy to note the sympathy which is being extended to us, and notably the words spoken in the Senate by Mr. Lodge. Our friends of the United States may be certain that nothing will ever make us forget the bonds between the two countries nor the sacrifices of the American fighters who died to stop the German offensive near Paris and to hurl back the invader along the Meuse.

"Not only do we remember, but we look ahead. Whoever thinks knows that the United States and France will have in future more powerful reasons than ever to live in close accord. If President Wilson wishes to help to that end he will speak to France in language more comformable to the desires of our country and of his."

Council Can Only "Advise."

The Journal des Debats says:

"Mr. Wilson declares he cannot permit any reserve to Article X. He considers this article as the sacred arch of the new order of earthly affairs. In this he fools himself. This rampart is only a scrap of paper. Article X. says that in case of aggression the Council shall advise upon how to assure execution of the obligation under it. But it neglects all sanction. The Council shall 'advise!' Good idea! The Council must begin by agreeing and then formulate its opinion. This done, there is no means of execution.

"In spite of the pressing requests of the French delegation the American delegation constantly and with energy opposed the idea that the Council of the League of Nations should be invested with material power to stop aggressions. In case of aggression the Council shall deliberate! What a guarantee!

"In reality the famous Lodge reservation changes nothing in Article X. It says that the United States may decide for or against intervention. That is to say, the American delegate to the Council can proclaim for or against intervention. But that already is provided in Article X. Mr. Wilson, then, is wrong to fulminate against the Lodge reservation. In different words it is not more frankly and without a second meaning, the Republican Senate expresses the same idea.

"Mr. Wilson has faith in the force of verbal stipulations, above all, in his own words. In his eyes the word 'Wilsonian' suffices for all. That is his fundamental error. It makes him unjust toward his compatriots and the associated powers.

"To tell the truth he has had no new ideas since that epoch, so far away now, when he proposed his fourteen points. Written at a moment when everything was confused in Europe, these fourteen points ought to have been adapted to the new situation created by victory. Mr. Wilson ought to have done this himself and proclaimed it publicly. He shut himself up like a mute. He brutally violated first his fourteen points. He worked in darkness and twilight.

"He is very wrong to say that the military party is in power in France. The party in power in France is the party of order which passionately desires to heal the wounds of the country and to protect it against new aggressions. If Mr. Filson had organized a League of Nations which constituted an effective protection against the powers of deceit and of prey, French patriots would never have sought for another combination. If some of us seem to go too far, to fault is Mr. Wilson's."

WILSON UNJUST, TARDIEU SAYS

He Declares That France is Executing Treaty Tasks Nearly Alone.

PARIS, March 10.—André Tardieu, who was a member of France's delegation in the Peace Conference, said today regarding President Wilson's letter to Senator Hitchcock that this was the situation:

"First—We asked that part of the League of Nations create an organized armed force as an essential condition of disarmament in the different countries. Our proposition was rejected three different times.

"Second—The United States promised us their guarantee in case of unprovoked attack, as well by the Treaty of Versailles as by the special treaty between them and us, and neither of those treaties is ratified.

"Third—The Treaty of Versailles imposed upon the allied and associated powers a certain number of common military tasks—occupation of the left bank of the Rhine, Schleswig, Dantzig, Memel, Allenstein, Marienwerder, Upper Silesia and Teschen. Except a few thousand Americans on the Rhine, it is French troops which everywhere bear that charge alone, or nearly alone. The treaty was to be executed by several. We are executing it nearly alone.

"Fourth—the negotiations in Paris had in view participation by all the allied and associated powers in the occupation of mandated territories. Here, again, the United States disappeared, and to protect the populations against massacres in Constantinople, Anatolia, Armenia and Cilicia it was again France that was called upon.

"Therefore, I repeat, it is unjust to accuse us of imperialism. No one in France protests against the continual increase of the American Navy. Our army, like the American Navy, is what circumstances require it to be, and it is not France that created those circumstances.

"It is the debate going on for months in the United States over ratification of the Peace Treaty that created them. Every one knows my respect for President Wilson, but I think that in his last letter to Senator Hitchcock he has been unjust to France."

BRITISH WITHHOLD COMMENT.

Silence on Wilson Letter Is Reported to be Inspired.

LONDON, March 10.—The British newspapers with one accord avoided editorial comment today on President Wilson's letter to Senator Hitchcock, although all give it great prominence in their news columns.

All of President Wilson's previous utterances have been widely commented upon, and the present editorial silence is so striking that rumors have cropped up that it is inspired by influential quarters which do not wish editorializing on a delicate subject before there has been ample time to reach a reasoned and temperate conclusion.

LOCHSPUN suits are ours. We discovered them, introduced them, and established their practicality. But though Lochspun suits are imitated under a variety of names, the copies come no nearer to Lochspun than do the new-fangled names they go buy!

It is the New York woman herself, however, who introduced Lochspun to life on the Avenue, and initiated it into the social and shopping activities of the city, as well as to the golf links and roads of the country. Lochspun suits are fashioned for style and service, not cut to save material in order to be sold at a price.

Lochspun Suits are made of a fine soft knitted fabric, with a smooth brushed surface, that can be rolled up and packed and unrolled and worn, without any trace of a wrinkle or any need of an iron. Tailored beautifully, the Lochspun suit is modelled on lines which extend, rather than limit, the sphere of its propriety for all times, all places, and all occasions.

ULSTER UNIONISTS ACCEPT SEPARATION

Parliament for Six Counties Approved — Carson Says Their Fight Is Won.

SOUTHERNERS AGAINST IT

Unionist Alliance in Dublin Meeting Resolves to Oppose Home Rule by All Available Means.

Copyright, 1920, by The New York Times Company.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, March 10.—The Ulster Unionist Council have accepted Sir Edward Carson's advice and indorsed the new Home Rule bill's provision for a separate legislature for the six Ulster counties. They have instructed their parliamentary representatives to vote for, not against, the second reading of the bill, and to try to amend it further in committee in the interests of the Unionists.

Among the resolutions passed was this: "That the interests of the empire and of the United Kingdom would be better served by the maintenance of the present legislative union than by any form or system of home rule in Ireland."

In view of the fact that the Government's bill contravened that principle, they could not recommend their parliamentary representatives to vote for it, but inasmuch as the Government's bill was put forward as a substitute for the act of 1914, and as it recognized the principle of separate treatment for the six counties of Ulster, and as there was in their view no prospect of a simple repeal of the act of 1914, the Council likewise could not recommend their parliamentary representatives to attempt to defeat the bill. Their endeavor, however, should be to amend it if it reached committee, so as to improve it from the point of view of Ulster and of the southern Unionists.

This attitude on the part of the Ulster Council is a reversion to the position they adopted at the Buckingham Palace conference, when also they declared their readiness to acquiesce in separate treatment for the six counties.

The position of the Government on the Home Rule bill is simplified since Carson will not now take his twenty-five voters into the lobby against it to swell what opposition may be offered in the House of Commons by the Labor Party and Independent Liberals.

BELFAST, March 10.—The Ulster Unionist Council decided today in favor of the six Ulster counties being controlled by the Ulster Parliament should the new Home Rule bill be enacted.

The council declined to accept any responsibility in regard to the bill and it is understood that it will make no attempt to defeat it.

Sir Edward Carson, the Ulster Unionist leader, during a speech today said that if the present Home Rule bill passed, Ulster will win. They would be lucky, he added, in getting without fighting what they had covenanted to fight for.

If the bill had included the whole of Ulster, said Sir Edward, they would have had to oppose it tooth and nail, then, if it were rejected, the 1914 act would come into force, and they would have a Home Rule Parliament in Dublin.

Lord Farnham offered a resolution to the effect that the Council would abide by the covenant and refuse to accept any form of Government which did not include the whole of the Province of Ulster. It called on the Parliamentary leaders to take steps to secure its inclusion in the present Home Rule bill. The resolution was defeated.

IRISH OFFICER IS HELD.

Dublin Is Puzzled Over Raid on Distinguished Airman's Home.

LONDON, March 11.—The latest suspect held in Dublin Castle is Lieutenant-Commander Erskine Childers, whose home was raided by soldiers Tuesday, according to the Daily Mail's Dublin correspondent.

Childers is a Commander in the Naval Reserve and a son of the former Chancellor of the Exchequer. He gave notable service with the air force during the war and, according to the newspaper, the people of Dublin are puzzled over the purpose of the search of his home.

Childers is the author of a book on home rule for Ireland.

Lieut.-Commander Childers is about years old. He received the Distinguished Service Cross during the late war.

TO AID DISABLED SOLDIERS.

Bill Backed by American Legion Provides $20 a Month.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, March 10.—Disabled soldiers will be given immediate relief to the extent of $20 a month, in addition to all other compensation, while remaining residents of the State, under the terms of a bill now being drafted which will be introduced by Colonel Ransom H. Gillett, Republican member of Assembly from Columbia County.

The measure will include Red Cross nurses in its relief provisions as well as soldiers and sailors. It will not include any one inducted into service who performed civilian duties, or those who were injured while performing non-combatant duty "on account of having conscientious objections."

The measure will be a part of the American Legion's legislative program and, according to Colonel Gillett, has a good chance of passage.

If the Legislature passes and Governor Smith approves a bill introduced today by Assemblyman Warren I. Lee, Republican of Kings County, New York telephone subscribers who have to wait more than five minutes for telephonic connection will have the satisfaction of knowing that the telephone company will be penalized $10. Mr. Lee's measure would make the company liable for that amount for each failure of a telephone operator in first class cities to respond to a call within five minutes "after a person gives the proper signal."

Senator John B. Mullan of Rochester introduced a bill making it a misdemeanor for any one to wilfully give a newspaper or any of its employes "any false and untrue statement of a fact concerning any person or corporation with intent that the same shall be published." The prohibition would also be extended to cover magazines and other periodicals.

Senator Peter Abeles would reduce the personnel of the New York City Board of Elections to two members instead of four, as at present constituted, in a bill he offered today. Provision is made for increasing the salaries of Election Commissioners and employes in other counties of the State.

WHITMAN NECKLACE STOLEN

Suits Against Dealers Reveal Theft of Sixty-four Diamonds.

The announcement yesterday of a decision by Municipal Court Justice Genung in five replevin suits brought by Mrs. Jennie Crocker Whitman, wife of Malcolm D. Whitman, against diamond merchants, to recover stones alleged to have been taken from a necklace containing 64 gems, revealed the theft of the necklace from her home at 1 East Eighty-ninth Street, and the subsequent arrest and confession of the thief.

The necklace and other jewelry were taken from Mrs. Whitman's bedroom on September 19 last, by John Reider, a house servant. He was apprehended several weeks later and a package containing seven stones, which Mrs. Whitman identified as similar to the diamonds in her necklace, was found on him. Reider then gave the names of dealers to whom he had sold some of the stolen diamonds, and replevin suits were brought by Mrs. Whitman against Silas W. Neuberger, Martin Feingold, Pauline Trigger, David Gurvich and Siegel & Okunoff, who had disposed of the gems they bought.

In awarding judgment for the plaintiff against each of the defendants the court accepted the testimony of an expert that the stones had increased in value 15 per cent. since they were stolen, and gave judgment for the selling price, with 15 per cent. additional. The sums the defendants were directed to pay were: Neuberger, $460; Feingold, $463.75; Trigger, $452.50; Gurvich, $325.45, and Siegel & Okunoff, $230.

Mrs. Whitman, who is the daughter of the late Charles F. Crocker of San Francisco, from whom she inherited $10,000,000, married Mr. Whitman in 1912. She received bridal gifts worth more than $100 000, some of which were among the articles stolen by Reider and later recovered.

Ask Women to Aid General Wood.

A campaign to enroll women voters in the movement to make Major Gen. Leonard Wood the Republican Presidential nominee, was begun here yesterday at the Wood headquarters in the Hotel Imperial, by a committee composed entirely of women. These women will carry their campaign throughout New York and other Eastern States.

NITTI REORGANIZING ITALIAN CABINET

Count Sforza Expected to Succeed Scialoia as Minister for Foreign Affairs.

SOCIALISTS ASKED TO JOIN

Turati, Now Generally Looked Upon as Coming Premier, Outlines Vast Reform Scheme.

Copyright, 1920, by The New York Times Company.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

MILAN, March 10.—On returning to Rome Premier Nitti has lost no time in beginning the difficult task of reconstructing his crumbling Ministry, a task which is desirable before Parliament reassembles.

Count Sforza, actual Under Secretary of Foreign Affairs, will probably replace Scialoia as Foreign Minister. Nitti has invited two Independent Socialists, Bissolati and Bonomi, to form a section of the Cabinet.

Signor Meda, the Catholic leader, whose services are solicited as Minister of Finance, has made his acceptance dependent upon the consent of the Popular Party and on a formal undertaking on Nitti's part to recognize syndicalist organizations, to abstain from the introduction of a divorce bill and to uphold the liberty of denominational teaching in State-aided schools.

According to the Rome press Giolitti hopes shortly to seize the reins of office with the co-operation of the veteran Socialist Reform Party leaders Treves and Turati. Now generally looked upon as coming Prime Minister, Turati has issued a concrete program for reform of home and foreign policy. His internal measures include improvement of national agriculture, regional adaptation of water power throughout Italy for needs of industrial progress, abolition of socially unproductive landlordism and requisition of uncultivated and badly cultivated areas for transformation into vast national agricultural domains under the trusteeship of peasant groups and of co-operative labor associations.

Ample financial backing and skilled technical management for these is to be provided by the State, which under pain of expropriation will require owners and exploiters to proportion agriculture produce as regards both kind and quantity to ascertained needs of consumption. Hence the State will exercise scientific control over the production of cereals, wine, vegetables, &c., as well as over the rearing of livestock.

Turati's scheme for foreign policy is summed up under the heads of war against war, general disarmament, open ports, wholehearted adoption of the free-trade system, international facilities for exchange of raw material and colonial reform on the basis of humane co-operative management.

ROME, March 9 (Associated Press).—Premier Nitti had a long audience with the King today and communicated to him the text of President Wilson's last reply to the Allies.

The Premier, according to the Tribuna, also discussed with the King the reconstruction of the Cabinet which seems inevitable.

Signor Tittoni left for Paris today to participate in the work of the League of Nations Council as the representative of Italy.

FIVE-STORY BUILDING BURNS

Poor Water Pressure Hampers Firemen at Eighty-first Street Blaze.

Fire last night destroyed a five-story brick building at 522 and 524 East Eighty-first Street, occupied by the firm of E. Eistelhorst, wood workers, and a number of doll and novelty manufacturers. The police say that quantities of excelsior, paints, varnish and wood-finishing materials were stored in the building and caused the blaze to spread with great speed.

Tenants in the five-story tenement houses adjoining the burned building, at 520 and 526 East Eighty-first Street, were driven from their homes by black smoke.

Fire Chief Kenlon, speaking of the poor water pressure, said:

"This is one part of the city where the water mains are too small. We were drawing on the full capacity of the mains and the pressure would not carry the water above the second story. Later, when we took off some of the hose lines, the pressure was stronger and the water reached the upper parts of the building."

ALLIES TO OCCUPY STAMBOUL AT ONCE

cordance with the ideals of Western civilization.

To this end the Council is believed to have ordered certain important points in European and Asiatic Turkey occupied by allied naval and military forces. It seems doubtful whether any direct punitive action against Mustapha Kemal Pasha, the Turkish commander in Asiatic Turkey, has yet been decided on, but it seems likely that such action is to be held in abeyance until the effect of the occupation of the strategic points indicated above is observed.

Should a decision be made to round up Kemal and his forces, however, it is thought likely that the task will be intrusted to the Greek army now occupying Smyrna and the surrounding district, whose services M. Venizelos, the Greek Premier, is said to have offered the Council on behalf of his Government. This army is estimated at 90,000 men, while it is presumed Kemal's forces do not exceed 40,000.

Meanwhile the Turkish treaty seems far from completed, and it is reported that the existing draft will be materially amended.

Venizelos for "Sternest Measures."

The Peace Conference spent the day trying to work out the details of military and naval plans in connection with Turkey, giving particular attention to Armenia. Admiral Beatty, Winston Spencer Churchill, Secretary for War, and others were called in to give their opinions. Premier Venizelos of Greece was also present and again insisted that the Allies should take the sternest measures against the Sultan.

The general plan of action was not changed, however, as a result of the conference. It became known today that the military demonstration at Constantinople would probably take the form of allied military control of certain Turkish governmental activities—very likely of the War Department, among others.

The conferees were careful to make it clear that this did not mean the taking over of the Turkish Government at the outset and would not in the future if Turkey showed an inclination to abide by the terms of the armistice and cease massacres.

The fears of some that the conference's military demonstration at Constantinople would lead to further massacres among the unprotected in Armenia and Cilicia have been considerably allayed by the attitude of M. Venizelos. He is represented as being confident that a stern show at Constantinople would bring the Turk to his senses. Those joining in this attitude are certain that the Turkish Government has enough control over Mustapha Kemal to prevent his troops from committing excesses in Asia Minor.

Should this policy be adopted, the Greeks will risk more than any other nationals, as there are a million and a half Greeks in Asia Minor.

A French force is bound for Cilician territory to the number of 7,000.

PARIS, March 10.—The Temps says it appears clear that the Allies propose to take certain measures against Turkey because of the recent massacres of Armenians. These, the newspaper believes, will consist of an effective occupation of Constantinople and certain important strategic positions and the exercise of Allied control over all telegraphic communications.

OUR CONSUL AT ALEPPO ASKED FOR WARSHIPS

Cabled Washington Feb. 28—Hedjaz Reported to be Plotting with Turks.

Copyright, 1920, by the Chicago Tribune Co.

ALEPPO, Feb. 28 (Via London, March 10).—J. B. Jackson, American Consul at Aleppo, today wired the United States State Department to send a squadron of warships to Alexandretta to save the lives of Americans in the districts where Kurds and Turks were attacking the French garrison, in many places massacreing all Christians, regardless of nationality.

American relief workers in Marash, Aintab, Urfa, Mardin, Diabekir and other places are surrounded by bandits, and have been unable to communicate with the outside world for weeks. They are known to be in serious danger.

It is definitely established that the attacks are part of an organized plot to paralyze the strategical plans of the Allies.

Recent attacks on British troops by Arabs in Anan, Aboukemal and Mesopotamia, are a part of the same anti-foreign movement sweeping Turkey, Syria, Afghanistan, Persia and the Caucusus and receive support by the Bolsheviki.

Among prominent Americans at Urfa is Mrs. Richard Mansfield, the widow of the American actor. Although twenty Americans were in Marash during the fighting from Jan. 21 to Feb. 10, when the French evacuated the city, all are safe, as are the four who left Marash with the French.

News of the Urfa attack came after the receipt of reports that Prince Feisal of Hedjaz had arranged with Kurdish chiefs and Mustapha Kemal Pasha for support against the French and British. The Prince recently sent deputies with presents and an Arab flag to Ismail Bey, Khalil Bey, Tamo Bey and Abdul Rahman Bey, sons of Ibrahim Pasha, all chiefs of the hill tribes located near Urfa and other parts of Upper Mesopotamia, and Rasrauy Pasha, chief of the Besazi tribe, near Jerablus.

Turkish spies handed a British official, it is alleged, the correspondence between Mustapha Kemal and Feisal, in which the latter asks Turkish support, hinting at a possible union of Syria, Hedjaz and Turkey.

INDIAN MOSLEMS WANT MARASH INVESTIGATION

Warn Lloyd George of "Frantic Efforts" to Force His Hand in Turkey.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, March 10.—Strange phrases occur in a telegram sent to the Premier from the All-India Moslem delegation now in London. It refers to the "frantic efforts made in certain quarters to force the hand of his Majesty's Government and the Supreme Council by published reports of massacres alleged to have been perpetrated by the Turks." It invites the Government and Council to arrange for "a competent and impartial commission of inquiry, including representatives of the All-India Moslem Conference, to be sent out to investigate the allegations," mentioning the fact that the Turks themselves have asked the United States to send a commission to investigate the massacres said to have occurred at Marash.

The Memorial expresses deep concern at the rumors of the contemplated occupation of the seat of the Caliphate by British naval and military forces, and it "respectfully warns His Majesty's Government of the extreme seriousness and probable consequences of such ill-advised and provocative action."

It adds that, in view of the disturbed and excited conditions of Moslem feeling consequent upon the threat of the expulsion of the Turk from Europe, "it would not be surprising if some regretable incident occurred."

The Rev. Harold Buxton, speaking at a meeting of the Lord Mayor's Fund for Armenian Refugees, on behalf of which he spent the Winter in Armenia, said that Armenians had been massacred during the past few weeks, despite the most solemn pledges of protection given them by the Allies.

"Primarily I hold the French responsible for the immediate situation," added Mr. Buxton. "They must have been aware of the trouble brewing, and they should have taken more adequate measures to deal with it. In another sense I hold the Americans responsible. President Wilson led us to believe that America would accept at least some official responsibility for Armenia—if not for all Asia Minor. It may be we were wrong to take the President's utterances as representative of the opinion of the American people."

SALI PASHA FORMS CABINET.

New Turkish Ministry Strengthens the Influence of the Nationalists.

CONSTANTINOPLE, March 10.—Sali Pasha, the new Grand Vizier, has announced, with the Sultan's approval, the formation of a new Cabinet, the eighth since the armistice. Diplomats in this city attach little importance to the changes made, considering the Cabinet to be virtually powerless to oppose the Nationalist group in the Chamber, which is directed by Mustapha Kemal from Angora.

Only three new members were appointed to the Cabinet, they being Djelal Bey, President of the Council of State; Zia Bey, Minister of Commerce, and Omar Houlousse Bey, Minister of Religious Funds. The Ministers of Finance and Justice were not appointed, while Sali Pasha will be Minister of the Navy as well as Grand Vizier.

HOTEL OUSTS SARI.

"Pearl of Stamboul" Can Recover in a Studio, Says Manager.

Sari, the "Pearl of Stamboul," who was alleged to have disappeared from Constantinople and to have been found on Tuesday, after a fifteen months' search, in a tenement house on the east side, was requested to leave the Hotel Majestic yesterday with her rescuer, Ben Mohammed, son of the Shereef of Hedjaz, his four dismal Turkish attendants and his two servants. They passed the night in praying to Allah that Sari, who was hysterical when found, might be returned to normal condition.

Copeland Townsend, manager of the Majestic, rather unkindly suggested that Sari could recover from her hysteria in a motion picture studio just as well as in the hotel.

DECIDES BOUNDARY AFFECTING $300,000,000

Federal Judge Fixes Oklahoma-Texas Line Along Red River in Oil District.

ENID, Okla., March 10.—Judge F. A. Youmans, in the Federal District Court today, decided in favor of the Judsonia Development Company, owned by Oklahoma men, in their suit, asking an injunction against Samuel Sparks and other Texas claimants in the Red River oil land dispute, when he fixed the south bank of the river as the boundary line between Oklahoma and Texas. The decision affects property valued at $300,000,000, all in the Red River valley.

Ownership of the property has been the subject of a controversy for months. The Court ordered the United States Marshal to serve papers on the Texas men, forbidding them to hold the property.

Judge Youmans declared that the south bank of Red River and not the centre of the stream was the boundary line between the States.

DALLAS, Texas, March 10.—Contentions of Texas that the State boundary followed the middle of the Red River and the counter-contention of Oklahoma that it followed the south bank created a disputed area of approximately 6,500 acres, forming a strip four or five miles long and 200 yards to half a mile wide.

Discovery of oil in this strip led to the controversy over the line, and it is this oil that has made the land immensely valuable.

SECRET 'JOHN DOE' VICE HUNT ORDERED

Blocking Mayor's Plan, District Attorney Starts Gunson Case Inquiry Today.

CITY RECORDS TO FIGURE

Grand Jury Will Deal with Every Phase of the Police Graft Situation.

A sweeping secret "John Doe" inquiry into allegations of graft in the Police Department will begin this morning. Assistant District Attorney James E. Smith will examine witnesses before the March Grand Jury, which indicted, on charges of bribery and extortion, John J. Gunson, a detective on the staff of Inspector Dominick Henry of the Fourth District.

Among the first witnesses will be Chief Police Inspector John Daly and Inspector Thomas McDonald. Other witnesses expected are Jennie Carello and Kitty Daly, detained under $15,000 bail, who are relied on by the District Attorney to furnish interesting revelations. Five witnesses are to be called today, it was said. Subpoenas were issued last night for the witnesses, and it was stated that important city records, of material value in the case, also would be requisitioned.

It is understood that, should it be deemed necessary, the Grand Jury will sit all Summer in order to inquire into every phase of the police situation placed before it. No other investigation of a similar nature can be held without interfering with the inquiry beginning today, it was indicated at the Criminal Courts Building. This, it is said, disposes of the plan of Mayor Hylan and Police Commissioner Enright to have a public "John Doe" investigation before Chief Magistrate William McAdoo.

The Mayor's idea was opposed by Mr. Smith and Judge Malone, to whom the March Grand Jury reports daily. There was a conference between Judge Malone and Foreman Nelson Robinson in the investigation yesterday.

At the first session today Mr. Smith will lay a foundation for an inquiry into certain conditions which the Gunson case is said to have revealed. It was the developments in this case that caused the Mayor and Mr. Enright to demand an open inquiry. Chief Magistrate McAdoo was asked to take action, and he told the Mayor that certain information would have to be filed with him before he could begin. The Mayor transmitted the facts in the case to District Attorney Edward Swann.

In his letter, which Mr. Swann received yesterday, the Mayor said:

"I can assure you that the people have little confidence in some of these Grand Jury investigations which are held behind closed doors."

"As we get the evidence against individual police officers we are going to present it to the Grand Jury," Mr. Swann said. These cases will be moved for preference on the calendar in order that it may be possible to try a case two weeks after an indictment is returned, added the District Attorney.

The broadened scope of the Grand Jury investigation into the Gunson case comes as a result of statements made by Rebecca Melyado, complainant against the officer, and two associates, Rose Gonzales and Estelle Young. Mrs. Melyado accused Gunson of accepting money from her in order that she be unmolested on the streets of the Fourth Inspection District. She charged Gunson with receiving about $5,000 in bribes from her in three years.

Judge Malone refused to lower the bail of Jennie Carello and Kitty Daly from $15,000 to $5,000 yesterday when application was made by their counsel. Mr. Smith filed affidavits in which he said it would be against public policy to make known to Gunson "and to others who are closely associated with him" names of persons who have furnished information to him.

If allowed to remain at large, or unless put under substantial bail, the women, the affidavit stated, would "be spirited out of the jurisdiction of this court or persuaded to leave the State," so that their evidence would be unavailable to the prosecution.

Under the name of Ruth Cole, Rebecca Melyado appeared in the Women's Court in a case pending against her. Adjournment was granted by Magistrate Jean Norris until March 26.

JELLICOE ADVISES ON CANADIAN NAVY

Urges Establishment of a Naval Board—Outlines Building Plan.

OTTAWA, March 10.—Canada should have for the protection of her ports alone "three light cruisers, one flotilla leader, twelve torpedo craft, eight submarines and one parent ship," Admiral Viscount Jellicoe stated in his report to Parliament on the Dominion's naval needs, made public in the House of Commons today.

He recommended administration of Canada's navy by a "naval board" similar to the present Militia Council, with a "Minister for the Navy," responsible solely for that fighting arm of the Government service and answerable for his administration to Parliament.

He made four suggestions on a possible naval building plan for Canada, ranging from a $35,000,000 fleet to one costing $5,000,000. He emphasized the importance of naval air service, stating that any navy to be complete must possess its "proper complement" of aircraft.

As a basis for the Dominion's naval establishment, Admiral Jellicoe suggested the "fleet unit" of one battle cruiser, two light cruisers, six destroyers, four submarines and two fleet mine sweepers.

Naval assistance of the United States during the war, in the shape of cruisers, destroyers and other small vessels, in assisting in the convoy of trade ships allowed Great Britain to pursue "some of her overseas expeditions," Admiral Jellicoe said.

He recommended continuation of the Royal Naval Canadian Volunteer Reserve under the name of the Royal Canadian Naval Reserve.

The Admiral's report was tabled by C. C. Ballantyne, Minister of the Naval Service.

NEWBERRY OPPOSED TRADING ON HIS RANK

Ordered Campaign Manager Not to Use His Naval Position for Publicity, Letter Shows.

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich., March 10.—Letter reading was the principal feature throughout today's session of the Newberry elections conspiracy trial.

Paul King, chief witness for the defense, was still confined to his bed from the effects of yesterday's nervous collapse. Today's letters pictured his campaign activities in 1918 in detail. They also served to bring into the record admonitions from Newberry that his position as naval commander and chief personnel officer of the Third Naval District was not to be used for political purposes.

Newberry called Henry Ford "the Hearst-Wilson candidate." In another letter Newberry wrote that Will Hays had asked him to talk with Colonel Theodore Roosevelt concerning numerous letters which the latter had received on the Michigan primary fight.

Newberry said he supposed "there had been criticism of the amount of publicity which had been found necessary." He told Hays he had no "favors to ask of Colonel Roosevelt, and no object in going to Sagamore Hill." Hays insisted, and Newberry added that "of course" he would go.

James W. Helme of Adrian went on the stand in his own behalf, insisting to attorneys for the defense that he did not need their aid in conducting his own examination. Helme is the Democratic defendant who James O. Murfin, chief counsel, said in his opening statement was "worked" into the 1918 Democratic primary as a rival of Henry Ford in order to keep Democrats from voting for Ford in the Republican polls.

Mrs. Milton Oakman, wife of the Detroit political leader, was not allowed to testify, the court ruling that a wife was not competent to testify for her husband. She was to have sworn that Oakman was home on primary night 1918, until 10 o'clock. This was offered in opposition to testimony for the Government by Henry Montgomery that Oakman told him that night that the Newberry interests had promised him $20,000 for his part in the campaign.

Nothing so adds to a woman's well groomed appearance as the tailored frock. The craft of man tailoring is joined with the art of designing to a degree that achieves a finesse in dress that is not surpassed.

Straightline, belted, peplum, blouse, tunic, redingote, short and long sleeve types, distended hip lines establish distinguished silhouettes.

To distinguished silhouettes are added checked gingham collars, frills and chemisettes, ribbon treatments, bead embroidery, silk floss embroidery, touches of eyelet batiste, punch work, crystal and worsted embroidery.

MISSES' TRICOTINE SUITS

NOT TO BE GAUGED BY THEIR PRICE BUT BY THEMSELVES, FOR A PRICE SO REASONABLE SIMPLY DOES NOT INDICATE THE HIGH QUALITY OF THESE SUITS

75.00

SOMETIMES suits may be visualized by their descriptions, but these suits could not be imagined even from a list of "specifications." For no matter how minutely they were described, they would still have to be seen for the quality of the tricotine and the fineness of the tailoring to be appreciated.

These twelve Spring models in suits illustrate the variety of specialization—a seeming paradox, but a brilliant truth—for Franklin Simon & Co. have here specialized in value, and have chosen these twelve ways of indicating the result of that specialization.

Franklin Simon & Co. believe these suits are beyond doubt the best obtainable at their price!

LABOR'S FIGHT HIS, PALMER ASSERTS

Attorney General Says He Is a "Radical Friend" of American Workers.

OPPOSES WAGE REDUCTIONS

Tells Richmond Audience That Is Not the Way to Cut Cost of Living.

Special to The New York Times.

RICHMOND, Va., March 10.—Discussing labor problems in an address here to-night, Attorney General Palmer described himself as a "radical friend of labor" and said that he once was a "strike leader." He would continue to fight the battles of labor, he declared, but would insist that they be fought according to the rules of the American game. Mr. Palmer also discussed the activities of the Department of Justice against communists and anarchists.

"We cannot deny," said Mr. Palmer, "that in the United States many classes of labor have been ground down in an un-American fashion by conscienceless employers who suck their own profit out of industry and nothing else; we cannot deny the proposition that the time has come when labor, organized and unorganized, is entitled to a larger proportion of the wealth which labor, in combination with money, produces.

"I am strong for reducing the high cost of living, but I have no hope of doing it by a reduction of wages. I do not want wages reduced and I do not think it would be wise or proper for us ever to get to a lower level, for we must make certain that labor shall have a larger proportion of what labor produces. We shall never reach the standard of equal justice, which the world war has made us better see and comprehend, until we make up our minds that labor shall have its just—and that is a larger—share in the joint production of money and labor.

With the Under Dog.

"A good many years ago—I think it was thirty years ago—when I was a boy in college, I wrote a thesis on 'Capital and Labor.' Boys will be bold. And I settled the problem. Like every college boy, I was a radical chap; I sympathized with the under dog in any fight. I studied everything there was to be studied about the relations between capital and labor.

"I dug that old thesis out some months ago and I discovered that my whole argument was this—and that was all that labor was asking for in 1890. Labor was asking for a hearing and the right to have its troubles with capital adjusted and settled by an impartial tribunal; and capital, arrogant in its great power and strength under American conditions, was refusing to give labor a hearing. A great deal of water has gone under the bridges since that day; a great many things have happened; capital is no longer so arrogant as it was then; the arrogance of capital has been broken.

"But thirty years have passed and I found myself, in the Fall of 1919, in the interesting position of compelling labor, by the use of the injunctive process in the courts, to give capital a hearing. Labor had become so strong in the meantime that she denied the right of capital to have the dispute adjusted by an impartial tribunal.

"Every interest in America is entitled to a hearing and entitled to a settlement of its troubles by an impartial tribunal, honestly selected. That is all that it was sought to do in the coal strike case. Thirty years ago capital used its great power and all the force in its possession to accomplish its purpose by exploiting the people. We shall not permit now any other interest to use its power to injure the people, much less destroy their lives and happiness. Both must submit to the supremacy of the law.

What the Coal Strike Meant.

"And yet the coal strike presented this situation: Five hundred thousand men in a desire to get better conditions for themselves—entirely justified and proper—proposed to take that action which would have paralyzed the nation and brought hunger and famine, death and destruction to the great cities, to the people of America; they would have kept the milk from the babies in every city in the United States.

"I deny the right of any interest in any part of the country to do that which will cause widespread suffering and death to Americans generally. This Republic cannot live if it does not have the power of self-defense and if it cannot, in the exercise of its great power of self-protection, use every power that it may desire which is lawful to save itself and the lives of the people whom it was built to serve. And I say that as a radical friend of labor.

"All of my political life I have been fighting for labor. I was a strike leader once. I have fought the battles of the coal miners in my State and of the steel workers in Bethlehem, and I shall continue to fight their battles, but I shall continue to insist that the battles shall be fought according to the rules of the American game, and that rule is as the old Poet Shelley told all Englishmen a hundred years ago:

"'Let the laws of your own land,
Good or ill, between ye stand,
Hand to hand, and foot to foot,
Arbiters of each dispute.'"

MAYOR OF SCRANTON IN FIGHT AT MINE

Is Refused Admission by Company Charged with Illegal Mining Operations.

SCRANTON, Pa., March 10.—Arrest of officials of the People's Coal Company, owners of the Oxford Colliery in West Scranton, where Mayor A. T. Connell and a force of policemen attempted to force an entrance today to investigate alleged illegal mining, is under consideration by the city authorities. Following a conference this afternoon of the Mayor, his Cabinet and the five engineers who have been inspecting the mine workings, it was announced that warrants probably would be issued for Frank P. Christian, President, and John G. Hayes and George E. Stevenson, consulting engineers.

Policemen who were on duty at the mine were withdrawn late this afternoon after Engineer Carl Rittenhouse, who disappeared into the depths of the mine early in the morning, returned. Rittenhouse came out by way of workings of the Bellevue mine, and denied that he had been held prisoner in the mine, as at first reported. After reaching the bottom of the shaft he found that all means of communication with the surface had been cut off, so he could not notify the men who lowered him when to hoist him up the 350 feet of shaft.

Whether he would make another attempt to enter the mine or not, Mayor Connell would not say tonight.

The Mayor was refused admittance to the shaft yesterday. Heading a detail of forty policemen, he again demanded admittance today. Being refused, he ordered city employes to take charge of the engines and boilers.

A conflict ensued, but the company's engineer and firemen were ejected. Thereupon the miners at the foot of the deep shaft spragged the carriage, making it impossible to hoist it. A rope was procured and Rittenhouse was lowered down the shaft.

Mayor Connell is proceeding under the mine cave law passed by the last Legislature. It is contended the company is illegally removing coal from under city streets and private property. Mine cave-ins have been so frequent of late that they have become a menace to the city.

In the scuffle with the men at the boiler house George Stevenson, consulting engineer of the mine company, was arrested by order of the Mayor, charged with disorderly conduct and making threats.

REPUBLICANS SHY AT DRY REFERENDUM

Liberals, Hostile to Senate Leaders' Plan, Strong for Beer and Wine Bill.

VETERANS PLAN CAMPAIGN

Assemblyman Cuvillier to Move for Expulsion of Anti-Saloon League Counsel from Chamber.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, March 10.—Republican legislative leaders' proposal for a prohibition referendum this Fall has not been well received even among their own members, and there appears to be a growing sentiment in the Senate and Assembly for the enactment of some bill that would legalize the sale of beer and light wines.

In the Senate there has been a majority in favor of such a measure since early in the session, which has delayed action because the outlook for favorable action in the Assembly was regarded as hopeless.

Now that the sentiment in the Assembly seems to have turned with the proposed investigation of the Anti-Saloon League, Senators who favor liberal legislation are preparing to assert themselves to compel the abandonment of the proposed referendum in favor of some of the pending beer and wine bills upon which an agreement may be reached with the liberals in the Assembly.

The thirty-five ex-service men who are members of the Assembly, thirty being Republicans, are preparing to hold a conference on Monday, at which they will decide on some plan of united action in support of the beer and wine bill introduced by Colonel Gillett, or some similar measure. It was stated tonight that they would not under any circumstances support a referendum.

The outlook at the Capitol has caused alarm among the advocates of rigid enforcement. Mrs. Ella A. Boole, New York President of the Women's Christian Temperance Union, and the Rev. O. R. Miller, State Superintendent of the New York Civic League, were here today interviewing legislators and urging the enactment of the enforcement bill proposed by the Anti-Saloon League. The Rev. Mr. Miller, according to a report tonight, may be called as a witness against Superintendent Anderson if the Anti-Saloon League inquiry is held. It was said he would be in a position to shed light on the methods employed by agents of the league in their campaign against the re-election of Speaker Sweet in 1914.

Assemblyman Cuvillier today refuted a statement accredited to Mr. Anderson that the Rev. William H. Freeman, who will be one of the principal witnesses at the inquiry, at one time had been in the liquor business.

The Assemblyman gave out another batch of letters commending him for advocating the investigation. One was from Louis L. Coudert of Coudert Brothers, who wrote:

"Please allow me to express my hearty approval of the investigation of the Anti-Saloon League which you are forcing. If this league has nothing to conceal, it won't hurt them, but if it has, it is high time that the citizens of this country know it. From conversations with my friends and acquaintances here I judge that many citizens, regardless of creed or party, are heartily in favor of this investigation and earnestly hope that it will be as thorough as possible."

Another letter from H. E. Holden, manager of the American Nursery Company, with offices in the Singer Building, urged an investigation of Superintendent Anderson's reasons for leaving Maryland, where he was engaged in the anti-saloon propaganda.

Mr. Cuvillier announced that he would move in the Assembly tomorrow to have Robert G. Davey, counsel for the Anti-Saloon League, expelled from the Assembly chamber.

"He was in here today and I caught him in what I regard as an attempt to get members to obstruct the investigation of Superintendent Anderson," said Mr. Cuvillier.

Two more bills legalizing the manufacture and sale of beer were introduced today. Senator James J. Walker, minority leader, who has already sponsored a 2.75 per cent. beer bill, presented a local option measure applying to such beer, and Assemblyman Maurice Bloch, Democrat, of Manhattan, presented a measure defining intoxicating beverages as those containing more than 2¼ per cent. alcohol, modeled, he said, on the measure adopted by New Jersey.

SAYS FREEMAN RAN SALOON.

Anderson Asserts Testimony of Accurer Would Help League.

In reply to Assemblyman Cuvillier, W. H. Anderson, State Superintendent of the Anti-Saloon League of New York, issued a statement yesterday in which he said:

"If Mr. Cuvillier had not apparently been bitten by the same bug he would know what is the matter with Mr. Freeman, his star witness. We knew the Wets were stupid, but they will excel themselves if they go to the bat with that kind of stuff. If the Judiciary Committee accepts his statements as prima facie evidence of justification for an investigation without finding out what we know, and they can find out about Mr. Freeman's standing both as a preacher and a lawyer, and the circumstances of his leaving the league after ten days, the committee will have only itself to blame. In addition to running for the Legislature on the Democratic ticket it is a matter of court record that Mr. Freeman * * * also ran a saloon. * * *

"Whether Mr. Freeman was in the employ of the liquor interests at the time he came to the League, or was out on a fishing expedition to find something that he could later dispose of at a good profit, or thought the League was a soft snap and is sore because he was checked up on and expected to earn his pay, still even if he had abstracted the entire files of the League office he would have failed to find anything that would do the wets any good or the League any harm. The reason is the simple one that Mr. Cuvillier is congenitally incapable of understanding, viz.: That the League does not do anything discreditable. The more of the Freeman ilk that are mixed up in this case the more it will help the League.

"Mr. Cuvillier claims to have other preachers. We are familiar with the type. A preacher may be honest in not liking the Anti-Saloon League, but we have never found any exception to the rule that there is something wrong with either the hand or the heart, or both, of preachers who bob up in the wet camp. It is a remarkable testimonial to the ministry that the wets have been able to find so few ministerial tools."

ASSAILS DRY DOCTRINE.

Father McMahon Declares Prohibition is a Religious Error.

The Rev. Joseph H. McMahon, pastor of the Church of Our Lady of Lourdes, at 472 West 142d Street, told a Catholic audience in Delmonico's yesterday afternoon why Catholics were opposed to prohibition.

He spoke before the Catholic Library Association and his subject was "History, an Organized Lie."

"The answer to the question of why the opposition to prohibition is that prohibition is a religious error founded on the Protestant doctrine of the total depravity of man," he said. "It is also based upon the doctrines of the corruption of human nature. Another answer is that it would deny to men the right to exercise their own will and that it asserts the principle of Manichaeism, which is a doctrine condemned by the Catholic Church since the beginning.

"There are other reasons that can be quoted, for it is aimed at the individual freedom of man. It would destroy the evangelical virtue of temperance and substitute legal compulsion in place of personal virtue.

KILLINGS AND THEFT IN WHISKY CASES

Masked Gang at Baltimore Bind Three Watchmen, Take $25,000 Worth.

SMUGGLER SHOT AT BORDER

Man with $3,000 for Moonshine Liquor Robbed and Slain in Taxi Near Newcastle, Pa.

BALTIMORE, Md., March 10.—A party of men entered the Mount Vernon Distillery here early today, bound and gagged the Government agent and two watchmen in charge of the plant and hauled away between forty and fifty barrels of whisky, worth, at Government valuation, about $25,000. The three men said the robbers were all masked and that the whisky was taken away on three or four automobile trucks.

The Mount Vernon Distillery is situated in the extreme eastern part of the city, with several other distilleries, all owned by the Wineke-Arey Company. Today's robbery is the fifth that has occurred among them since July 1 last.

VAN BUREN, Me., March 10.—Candide Dumais of this place was shot and killed here early today by a customs officer named Vanier, who caught him in the act of smuggling thirty gallons of alcohol across the Canadian border, between Frenchville and Madawaska. Another man made his escape.

NEW CASTLE, Pa., March 10.—Emil Hadasy of Girard, Ohio, was murdered and robbed of $3,000 in a taxicab while on his way to this place last night to buy moonshine whisky. Alexander Ross, driver of the taxicab, also was robbed of $800, according to the story told to the police by Ross.

Hadasy, the police say, met two men in Youngstown, Ohio, and arranged with them for the purchase of the liquor.

TO URGE WHISKY STATIONS.

Legislators Pledge Aid to Circumvent Drug Profiteers.

United States District Attorney Leroy Ross of Brooklyn announced yesterday that United States Senator Calder and Representatives Cullen, Cleary and Hicks had promised they would do everything possible to establish stations in Brooklyn where whisky could be sold for medicinal purposes. Mr. Ross had informed them that druggists were charging an exorbitant price for inferior whisky, in some cases $7 for a half pint.

Internal Revenue agents yesterday began to round up Brooklyn druggists accused of selling liquor without a prescription. Arthur Banks, clerk, and Herbert Rubenstein, managing clerk, in the drug store of Edward A. Banks, 331 Atlantic Avenue, were charged with selling a pint of whisky at $5 without a prescription. They were held in $2,500 bail for examination March 16.

End Dry Acts Arguments.

WASHINGTON, March 10.—Determination of the validity of the prohibition amendment and parts of the Enforcement act now rests with the Supreme Court. Arguments were completed today in appeals brought by the Kentucky Distilleries and Warehouse Company, following the presentation yesterday of the Rhode Island and Massachusetts cases. A decision by the court is expected before adjournment in June.

TAX BRIBE WITNESS ASKED ABOUT PAST

Accuser of Pictorial Review Secretary Questioned Regarding Politics and Auto Rides.

BANK SLIPS EXHIBITED

Former Revenue Agent Was Member of Hylan and Mitchel Clubs at Same Time.

Nathaniel W. Gropper, former Internal Revenue Agent, the Government's chief witness against Jay A. Weber, Secretary of the Pictorial Review Company, on trial on the charge of having attempted to bribe Gropper to approve the company's income tax returns, was cross-examined yesterday by John B. Stanchfield regarding his personal affairs. The purpose was to destroy the credibility of his testimony that Weber had offered him a $25,000 bribe. Mr. Stanchfield had just started an examination into Gropper's accounts at the Greenwich Bank when the session ended.

During the Mayoralty campaign of 1917, Gropper admitted, he was a member of the Hylan Andrew Jackson Club in Brooklyn and, at the same time, of the Mayor Mitchel Club at 3,785 Broadway, Manhattan. From the latter, he testified, he had received about $45 for his campaign work.

"The address you gave to the Mitchel Club was a vacant lot, wasn't it?" asked Mr. Stanchfield.

"So I understood."

"And you introduced Milton Gropper, a Brooklynite, at the Mitchel Club as a resident of Manhattan?"

"I did. That was false."

"While examining the books of the Chevrolet motor car for the Government did you not obtain from the company an automobile for your private use?"

"Yes, they gave me a machine."

"And while you were running about in it, you ran down a woman in Central Park?"

"I did."

Mr. Stanchfield asked if Gropper, while going over the books of the Greenwich Bank, did not borrow money from that institution.

"I invested in Liberty bonds, and after making the initial payment gave the bank notes for the remainder of the subscriptions," was the reply.

"Were you employed by a man named Brownstein to examine his books?"

"I was."

"And did you discover while doing so that a man named Burgias had paid a certain account twice?"

Gropper at first denied any recollection of the incident, but later admitted it, saying he had not understood the name.

"Didn't you go to Burgias and tell him about the payment and didn't you get $25 from him?"

"I don't remember the amount. I got something from him."

Mr. Stanchfield questioned Gropper in detail about his transactions with Weber. He asked if the revenue man had not told Weber that he was in poor health and was burdened with paying doctors' bills. Gropper acknowledged that he had said his health was not good.

"Didn't he hand you some money—$200—on May 29, and, after taking the money, didn't you jump into a taxi and go away with a girl, who was not Mrs. Gropper?"

"He tendered me some money. I went away with a friend of mine in a taxi."

Mr. Stanchfield showed to Gropper deposit slips that he had subpoenaed from the Greenwich Bank, bearing Gropper's name. Gropper said that many of the slips were not in his handwriting and that he had no recollection of them. He wrote his signature on a blank piece of paper in the coutroom and then Mr. Stanchfield submitted his acknowledged signature and the signature on the slips to the jury to determine whether they had been written by the same person.

OPPOSES ESPIONAGE TRIALS

Senator France Would End Prosecutions and Free Political Prisoners.

WASHINGTON, March 10.—Senator France, Republican, of Maryland, introduced today a joint resolution, expressing as the opinion of Congress that prosecutions under the Espionage act should no longer be conducted, and recommending that the President and Attorney General give "careful consideration" to the proposals to grant general amnesty to persons convicted under it.

The measure was referred to the Judiciary Committee.

F. D. Roosevelt Undecided on Race.

WASHINGTON, March 10.—Assistant Secretary Roosevelt authorized the statement today that the question of his entering the race for the Senate from New York was contingent upon so many things that "he does not wish to state positively that he will or will not be a candidate at this time."

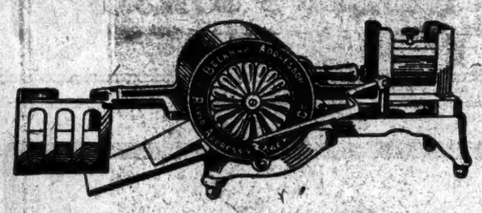
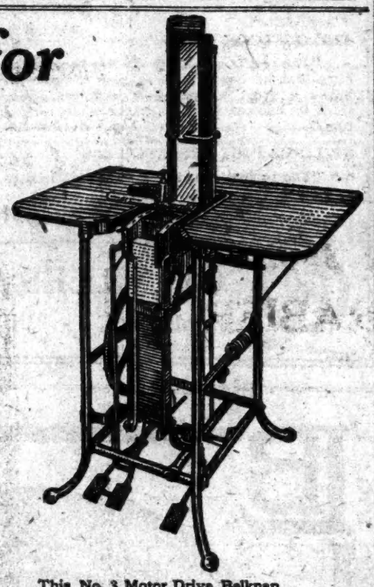
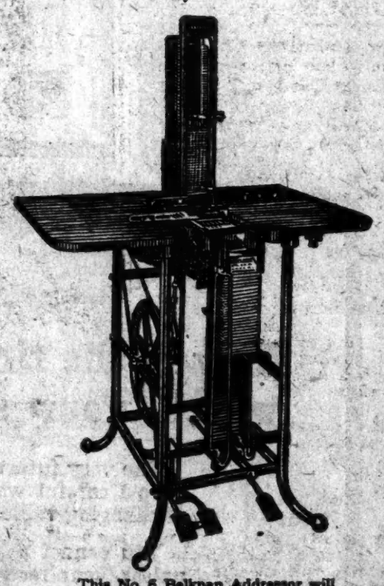
You are Paying for One of These Machines!



This is the No. 4 Rotary Belknap Addressor, a hand machine for small businesses. Speed 1,300 to 1,800 per hour.



This No. 3 Motor Drive Belknap Addressor addresses 15,000 to 25,000 names a day.



This No. 6 Belknap Addressor will handle an addressing job at through-express speed—2,000 to 4,000 per hour.

YOU are paying for it not once, but many times over, in leaks and losses due to old-fashioned bungling methods in handling lists and names.

Which particular machine you are paying for depends on the size and nature of your business, and to a certain extent on your present method of handling your addressing problems.

But we know you are paying for one of them—literally, truly. We are just as sure of it, as we are certain that there is a way to check this waste.

How to effect this important saving is not such a long story, but we prefer to make it pertinent to your business rather than general.

So, if you request it, we will ask one of our expert Service Men to call and explain the newest, most efficient and economical systems of handling and listing names for all sorts of addressing; and the heading of statements, pay sheets, route lists, shipping forms, etc.

This representative will call entirely at your convenience; but meantime we will gladly forward you an interesting book about Belknap Addressing Systems for careful consideration. It is well worth reading. You are paying for the addressing efficiency it tells about, so why not have it?

Ask your secretary to arrange the interview or request the book today.

Terror!

Five uninterrupted years of it!

Of brutal, beastly persecution. Of cruelties innumerable and unnamable, such as only the mind of a Turk can conceive and carry out. That is the black shadow which has hung over the Armenian nation ever since the World War began.

To tell the whole story of the sufferings of Armenia would require as much space as this entire newspaper. And no newspaper would print it all.

Of 5,000,000 Armenians, only 1,250,000 remain—and these are in a most deplorable condition. America's task—their rehabilitation—is a big one.

ONE POLICEMAN HELD IN ASSAULT CASE

Charles Homolka Must Answer in Special Sessions Charge of Brutal Attack.

OTHER OFFICER IS FREED

Women's Testimony of Thrusting Victim Through Plate Glass Window Called "Joke."

After an examination lasting over two hours Magistrate Koenig in the Yorkville Court held Probationary Policeman Charles Homolka in $500 bail for Special Sessions on a charge of assault in the third degree. Policeman Joseph Murphy, who was arrested with Homolka Feb. 14 on the same charge, was discharged, as the Magistrate found he was acting in accordance with his duty, and the force of the attack he made upon William J. Leader, the complainant, was not excessive. Homolka was paroled in the custody of Captain William W. Duggan of the Twenty-ninth Precinct, in which both officers served.

Having heard other witnesses, Magistrate Koenig said the statements of Miss Lillian Salmon of 317 East Fifth-fifth Street and Mrs. Anna Foster of 922 Third Avenue were "a joke and were probably the result of a hysterical imagination." They both declared Policeman Murphy deliberately dragged Leader to the window of a store at Third Avenue and Fifty-sixth Street and thrust him through a plate-glass window, and repeated the action. Other witnesses testified that in a scrimmage in which Leader and the officer were engaged the defendant was accidentally thrown against the window, thereby smashing it.

Dr. Benjamin Levine, an ambulance surgeon at the Flower Hospital testified that he treated Leader in the police station for a laceration on the side of his head and contusions about the eyes. The patient was under observation at the hospital for three days the physician said, and then was discharged. Dr. Levine said Leader was acting as if under the influence of liquor and he admitted that he had taken "a few drinks." When on the stand Tuesday, the defendant testified that he did not drink.

The story of Homolka was to the effect that Leader assaulted him first with both fists, and then kicked him in the groin, after accusing him of being a "big stool pigeon for the cops." Leader, who weighs about fifty pounds less than Homolka and comes up to his shoulder in height, knocked him to the ground, Homolka testified. He then called to Policeman Murphy, and did not see anything else after that, Homolka said.

Policeman Murphy denied having hit the defendant on the head with his nightstick, but admitted hitting him on the shoulders.

Testimony of Joseph Donohue of 743 Third Avenue and Michael Curtain of 228 East Fiftieth Street showed that while Homolka had attacked Leader, Murphy struck only in self-defense.

CALLS MANY IN DOLAN CASE

Swann Aid Investigates Policeman Cleared of Assault.

Assistant District Attorney James E. Smith was assigned yesterday to investigate the case of Detective Thomas A. Dolan, who was freed on Tuesday after witnesses who swore he assaulted them testified before Magistrate Schwab in the Washington Heights Court that they were not sure that he was the man.

A preliminary hearing will be held by Mr. Smith at 4 o'clock this afternoon. Subpoenas were issued calling for the witnesses in the case. Mr. Swann is interested in learning whether Joseph Dolgoff, a chauffeur, of 116 West 113th Street, the chief witness, who swore to a full complaint Sunday morning and who was "not sure" forty-eight hours later, swore to a false complaint.

If evidence of a crime is found it will be submitted to the Grand Jury at once. Dolan and a fellow detective, William Sullivan, according to witnesses in court Sunday, assaulted patrons of a restaurant at Lenox Avenue and 114th Street, using their blackjacks. Dolgoff appeared in court with his head bandaged and charged Dolan with felonious assault. No charge was made against Sullivan. Forty witnesses were in court on Sunday and two on Tuesday.

BARGAIN RUSH' HURTS MANY

Six Women in Hospital After Store Balustrade Breaks.

In a "bargain rush" of women and girls at a charity sale on Madison Avenue yesterday morning six women were seriously injured and minor hurts were suffered by a score of others. A heavy stone balustrade, giving way before the surging crowd, toppled over into an area ten feet below, carrying with it a struggling group, upon which fragments of the broken stone were thrown by the rush of those behind.

The sale, held in a vacant house at 523 Madison Avenue, near Fifty-fourth Street, for the benefit of the District Nurses' Association of Somerset Hills, N. J., was in charge of a committee including Mrs. C. Ledyard Blair, Mrs. Walter D. Bliss, Mrs. T. Hunt Talmage, Mrs. Clarence Blair Mitchell, Mrs. P. R. Pyne, Mrs. Ramsay Turnbull and Mrs. Dean Sage. It had been advertised to begin at 10 o'clock, but long before that hour Madison Avenue from Fifty-third to Fifty-fourth Street was crowded with bargain seekers.

When the doors opened there was a wild rush up the steps. The stone railing immediately gave way, throwing many of the women at the head of the line into the area.

The police reserves from the West Fifty-first Street Station were called out and ambulances were called from several hospitals. Many slightly injured refused medical attention.

Those taken to hospitals were Bessie Murray, 724 Cortelyou Road, Brooklyn, concussion of the brain and internal injuries; May Murray, same address, shock and possibly internal injuries; Annie Harmod, 28 Barford Street, Long Island City, left arm fractured; Mrs. William Zinke, 328 West Forty-seventh Street, internal injuries; Mrs. Annie Collins, 520 West 160th Street, shock and severe bruises, and Mary Boland, 146 West Ninety-second Street, possibly concussion of the brain.

WHITE HOUSE,
WASHINGTON.

June 21, 1904.

Dear Quentynad:

The other day when out riding what should I see in the road ahead of me but a real B'rer Terrapin and B'rer Rabbit. They were sitting solemnly beside one another and looked just as if they had come out of a book; but as my horse walked along B'rer Rabbit went lippity lippity lippity off into the bushes and B'rer Terrapin drew in his head and legs till I passed.

New York Never Fails at Anything

"Sure, I'll Stand by You."

Father Knickerbocker has taken a line from Herodotus to describe his Postal service: "Neither heat nor cold nor gloom of night can stay these couriers from the swift completion of their appointed rounds."

Today this motto is even more descriptive of the Visiting Nurse Service administered by Henry Street Settlement.

These Visiting Nurses, Couriers of Helpfulness to Thousands, Ask Your Support Today

Influenza—Grippe—Pneumonia—are three sinister figures, stalking through thousands of homes today. An adequate nursing service can help to overthrow them. 500 more nursing recruits are needed if we are to win the grim battle against the ills of this great city.

We are fighting to protect your home against the attacks of all communicable diseases. Your support of a nurse to help others may save the expense of one in your own home.

New Yorkers! It is up to YOU. Will You Stand by the Nurse? At Least $1,000,000 Is Needed

If everyone who reads this page will give just a little more than he can afford, will make some small sacrifice for the sick and heavy-laden, New York will go on record again as the city that never fails at anything.

BERGDOLL COUNSEL COMPLAIN TO COURT

Prisoner's "Bodyguard" Illegally Questioned in Private by Prosecutors, They Assert.

PROTEST IS OVERRULED

Alleged Threat of Army Officers to "Get" Philadelphia Witness Is Cited by Defense.

Charges of irregular procedure by officers of the Judge Advocate Corps prosecuting Grover C. Bergdoll on Governors Island for alleged desertion, were made yesterday by Captain Bruce R. Campbell, Bergdoll's military counsel, in a letter to the court of officers trying the case.

Captain Campbell asked the court to direct the prosecution to justify themselves in actions relative to James Romig, a former Philadelphia Magistrate, who was brought into the courtroom Tuesday as an "exhibit." The defense maintained that the trial Judge Advocates had sworn and questioned Romig outside the courtroom illegally, when it was known that he had appeared as a witness for the defense before the Board of Medical Officers appointed to determine Bergdoll's mental condition.

"We have stated to the court," Captain Campbell wrote, "that it was practically impossible for the defense to get witnesses from Philadelphia to state freely to the court facts within their knowledge, due to the attitude of the press, and it has come to my knowledge that it has been published in a Philadelphia paper, given out as a statement by army officers, that they intend to 'get' Mr. Romig as a perjurer."

The court ruled that Lieut. Col. Charles C. Cresson, Trial Judge Advocate, was within his rights in questioning Mr. Romig, because, by the defence's own statement, it was admitted that Bergdoll's self-styled "bodyguard" had been subpoenaed as a witness for the prosecution.

Nearly a score of objections, raised for the most part by Harry Weinberger for the defense, slowed the progress of Bergdoll's trial yesterday. The Judge Advocates are apparently satisfied that they have established the contention that Bergdoll was inducted into the army and therefore subject to trial as a deserter. Yesterday's and today's witnesses have been summoned to show Bergdoll's "intent" to desert.

Miss Ima Dayhoff, clerk of the New Vivian Hotel at Hagerstown, Md., continued her testimony yesterday after having identified Bergdoll the day before as a guest at the hotel during 1918 and until December, 1910, registered under the name of "James Carson." Elmer Gorterman, a Hagerstown garage keeper, also identified Bergdoll as a man who had stopped at the hotel for several months.

Yesterday's session was adjourned after a futile attempt by the prosecution to bring out evidence as to Bergdoll's "intent" to desert by the testimony of John Bauder, President of the Tenth National Bank of Philadelphia, who was expected to tell of money drawn from his bank by Bergdoll just before his flight. Harry Weinberger's objections on the ground that Mr. Bauder was unable to give direct testimony on this matter were sustained.

How a turbo-generator paid for itself

Manufacturer buys $13,000 power-machine from Du Pont surplus for $7500 and saves $7488 on current besides.

A Boston manufacturer who bought a turbo-generator from among our surplus equipment for almost half price, also saved two months power expense by getting immediate delivery.

Before calling upon us, this manufacturer had tried to buy a new generator. He was willing to pay the $13,000 asked for it, but could not wait two months for delivery. Then he came to our plant at Carney's Point and found just the generator he needed for only $7500. The money he saved on two months power cost, which was $7488, almost paid for the generator.

While at Carney's Point, this manufacturer also bought other machinery he needed at decided bargain prices. He told us later that he had saved his firm $21,000 on the equipment he purchased.

You, too, can take advantage of this unparalleled sale, and buy the equipment and material you need for your business, at a great saving.

This is a good opportunity to reduce your production cost by buying efficient used equipment, ready for immediate delivery, in place of expensive new equipment for which you will have to wait.

"A BUSINESS ADMINISTRATION."

Governor LOWDEN of Illinois tells some of the Brooklyn Republicans what all Republicans and all Democrats need to be told often. "You "can't reduce the high cost of living "until you reduce the cost of gov- "ernment, and you can't reduce taxes "until you reduce the high cost of "government." There must be a Federal budget system. The thousands—the hundreds of thousands, the New York Chamber of Commerce says—of unnecessary Federal officeholders must be sent back to private life and productive labor. "The place to be- "gin reconstruction is at Washing- "ton." Every candidate for President, be he Republican or Democrat, ought to dwell on this imperatively necessary, this primary, work of cutting off extravagance at Washington.

Apparently the Republicans in Congress have forgotten all about Republican promises of economy. They can't be reminded of them too loudly or too frequently. It is so easy to make large promises when you are out of power, so easy to forget them when you are in power.

THE ASTOR REALTY SALE.

"The greatest sale of improved properties ever held," in the words of the auctioneer, is an incident for the real estate market of New York to date from. The sale of 141 parcels for $5,150,075, at prices ranging in many cases above assessed values, is both heartening to owners and helpful to the city's tax officials. The departures from assessed values in either direction are no occasion for reproach, for realty is something hard "to get a line on," in the absence of anything like authoritative quotations of the market, except chiefly through such sales as this. Buyers in the regular way dislike to name their prices lest the record embarrass them in future bargains either to sell or buy, and some other buyers have other reasons for naming other than actual prices.

There can be no such question of prices made at public sale, and their significance in this case is that an entire region of the city is to be remade, through the influence of the subways. Other regions will follow in due course for the same reason, but more slowly, for no other region is so favored by the addition of social influences to transit considerations. In these days of distavor for small residential properties in preference for multi-family buildings, and in a neighborhood particularly suited for reimprovement with buildings for trade or theatres or flats, it is clear that the sites would be, as a rule, worth more without 16 to 20 foot dwellings. Old-fashioned tenements are not an attractive form of property, and the city as well as the buyers will profit by their rebuilding.

The selling of a number of parcels together to single buyers is a sign that there will be an important building movement soon on a scale indicated by the payment of $790,000 for one theatre site, assessed for land and building at $960,000, and of another for $350,000, assessed at $455,000. These are not low prices, for the land lease alone was sold, but they are indications of what taxes the fortunate buyers are likely to have to pay to the fortunate city, whose authorities are now engaged in harassing the source of its great real estate prosperity. It is a pity that some of these properties were sold over the heads of their occupants, who now will have to move in some cases, and in others will have their rents brought into line with the prices paid over the assessed values. They were bold buyers who bought into the anti-landlord agitation at a time of deflation. But they need no guardians. They know their business as well as anybody, and already there are specific cases of resale at profits to others who must have even better ideas of the use to which they will put their purchases. No suitable improvement goes begging these days, and unsuitable improvements are destined to quick removal.

Although there is no other part of the city which offers such rich opportunities as this, there are others which will respond more modestly to ventures along similar lines. Wherever the subways focus, the neighborhoods will be altered sooner or later as surely as plowland responds to fertilizing culture. As that occurs there will be a demand for transit betterment which can be had only through the prosperity of those in command of the situation. For independent subways there is no hope. It would be contrary to the interest of the city, the owner of the present subways, and to those who advanced the funds which enabled the city to build them in advance of the city's capacity to pay for them. If it were possible to compel the existing subways permanently to carry passengers at a nickel fare, it would restrict the city's growth by assuring that there would be no more ventures into a field made so forbidding by such a mistaken view of the city's true interests.

HOOVER AS A CANDIDATE.

On the same day on which New Hampshire elects a district delegation pledged or favorable to Mr. HOOVER, a letter from that gentleman is published which must prevent his nomination by the Democratic Party. There will be a good deal of argument and confusion of the issue before this result is manifest, but it can be foreseen now. If nominated at all, it would seem that Mr. HOOVER must be nominated by the Republican Party.

It is plain, too, that whatever Presidential ambition he may have lies in this direction. He was "a progressive Republican before the war." He was a non-partisan during the war, and is now an "independent progressive." His non-partisanship during the war is to his credit, but does not enter into the question. The point is that he has been a progressive Republican and is now an independent progressive. The words are not in the Democratic dictionary. They have been in the Republican dictionary since 1912.

When one examines Mr. HOOVER'S claim to be considered an "independent progressive" rather than what he was before, a "progressive Republican," it will be found to consist chiefly in that he objects to "the "reactionary group in the Republican "Party" and the "radical group in the Democratic Party." This puts him in the class with many ardent Republicans of unquestioned party standing, such as Senator CUMMINS. He is doubtless more independent than he was six years ago, but there is nothing in his record and position to make him an unacceptable Republican candidate any more than there is in that of Senator JOHNSON, who not long ago was a Progressive, violently opposing the Republican Party and running for Vice President in order to defeat it—and accomplishing his design—and who now is a "progressive Republican." It is plain enough that, if Mr. HOOVER would like any nomination, it is that of the Republicans, and on their ticket he would run as a progressive. There are two other candidates in the same position, Senators JOHNSON and POINDEXTER.

Mr. HOOVER will accept a nomination, but he will not lift a hand to get one. He is "one of a group" which "resents the manufacture of officials by machine methods." That is too sweeping an indictment of the part which party organization plays in the election of officials from President down. The American system favors such a participation and the recent political legislation has given the people themselves potentially all the power they need to curb the activity and correct the errors of the organization. That they have not chosen to avail themselves of it in many instances, and that they have sometimes treated it as a joke, as in the case of the 15,000 votes given to ROBERT ROSS, the Nebraska liveryman, for President in 1916, is their own fault. It is also a proof that the ideas of the "group" to which Mr. HOOVER says he belongs are somewhat in advance of this age, or of any that the world is likely soon to see. He and his group would have the people make up their minds for themselves who is best qualified to serve them and elect him without the aid of any party machinery at all. That was the theory of the Constitution-makers when they created the Electoral College, fancying that it would be a council of sages lifted above all party passion. What the Electoral College immediately became, the most obedient organ of party organization, is proof that the theory ran counter to the American spirit, which is all for organization—organization sufficiently curbed by the power of the people when they do not approve its methods.

There is a certain similarity between Mr. HOOVER'S position and that of General GRANT. He was not known to have any party ties; he had voted at least one Democratic ticket, but, like Mr. HOOVER, during the war he had been a non-partisan. Both parties talked of nominating him, but the Republicans, with a better organization, got to him first. Whatever he may have meant to do, whether he intended to be a non-partisan President or not, the situation in which he found himself immediately made him one of the most partisan of Presidents and ultimately aligned him with that faction which, from its out-and-out Republicanism, was known as the "Stalwarts."

As for the Republican primaries in New Hampshire, they end, as was expected, in a Wood victory, while on the same day the General wins the first delegates to be elected from Tennessee. While the political prophets continue to find evidences of the "waning of the Wood boom," the General goes serenely on capturing delegates.

FIFTH AVENUE WEEK.

That sodality of public-spirited citizens, the Fifth Avenue Association, is planning an annual festival to be called Fifth [illegible]e Week. The first celebration will last from next April 5 to April 10. The theory implies a happy marriage of commerce and art. In its main outlines this six-day spectacle will consist of elaborate and artistic shows in the windows of the merchants, of special exhibitions of the fine and applied arts, of co-ordinated decoration of the Avenue and its cross streets and neighbors, and of their illumination at night. In addition there are to be lectures and exhibits in co-operation with the Board of Education and the city colleges, to demonstrate and illustrat[illegible] "the re- "lationship of commerce to art and "to civic ideals."

How stately, how multifariously beautiful Fifth Avenue can be millions who saw it turned into the Avenue of the Allies remember vividly. Even less ambitiously or artistically decked, it is a delight to the eye. The Advisory Committee of the Fifth Avenue Association proposes a uniform color scheme, based on the blue and yellow of our municipal flag. Distinguished artists and architects are planning the decorations. The art societies and art dealers are at work. The Avenue is sure to be lovely by day and lovelier at night. There is no street in the world to be compared with it. New York cannot celebrate or enjoy it too much. Fifth Avenue Week will be a worthy addition to the New York calendar.

ADMIRAL SIMS'S CHARGES.

An inquiry into the strategy and tactics of the navy during the war became necessary when Admiral SIMS on Jan. 17 read to the Senate Naval Affairs sub-committee which was investigating awards of decorations his memorandum dated Jan. 7 entitled "Certain naval lessons of the Great War." The inquiry then going on appeared to be of little moment compared with the duty of examining into Admiral SIMS'S charges directed against those officials of the department and those officers of the navy who were responsible for the conduct of the war by that service. The Admiral in his memorandum extended to fifty-one paragraphs his criticisms and his exposition of what should have been done to win the war quickly. The testimony he is now giving before the Senate committee goes more into particulars, is bolder and more challenging. There may be dissent from some of his judgments, but the Admiral's qualifications as an authority Secretary DANIELS himself vouched for in his report of last December:

> In the Allied Naval Council Admiral WILLIAM S. SIMS, who had been the able representative of the navy in Europe during the entire war, displayed ability of the highest order. His brilliant services abroad won worldwide admiration. * * * In March, 1919, after receiving deserved and distinguished honors and many expressions of the esteem in which he is held, Admiral SIMS set sail for home, to become the President of the Naval War College, where he has already set a new and higher standard, which will insure an enthusiasm and zeal and knowledge on the part of the naval officers privileged to attend the War College which will be reflected in a more efficient navy of the future.

Secretary DANIELS as a civilian could approve, but he could not initiate and plan a strategic policy. The officer selected for that function was Admiral WILLIAM S. BENSON. As Chief of Naval Operations, he took upon his shoulders the burden of conducting the war for the navy. Admiral SIMS in his testimony yesterday declared that the operations of the sea service were not directed energetically nor with sound judgment during the six months following the entrance of the United States into the war. He complained that his warnings were not heeded, that his advice was disregarded, that his requisitions were not honored. But Secretary DANIELS also had a good opinion of the talents of his aid and adviser. In his annual report of December, 1917, covering the first six months of the war, the Secretary said:

> As Chief of Naval Operations, Admiral WILLIAM S. BENSON has shown ability of the highest order, and, with capable associates in that organization responsible to the Secretary for the operations and readiness of the fleet, has given full proof of capacity, resource and initiative.

But the fact will be seized upon as significant by supporters of Admiral SIMS'S charge of dilatory methods during the first six months of American's participation in the war that Admiral BENSON was not sent to Europe until November, 1917, his "detail" then being to attend "a conference of "naval experts of all the countries "engaged in war against Germany." The conference was held in Paris, and Admiral BENSON was in France and England for some time. Admiral BENSON will, of course, be called by the Senate committee to explain his direction of the American naval forces from the beginning to the end of the war, and both the Admirals will have their defenders and partisans. It promises to be a controversy as earnest and vehement as that between SAMPSON and SCHLEY after the war with Spain, but, let us hope, not so bitter. What Admiral SIMS asserts is that victory could have been achieved by July, 1918, if American naval operations had been conducted in accordance with the advice that he pressed upon his superiors. Admiral BENSON cannot endure the imputation of having been backward and inefficient in the performance of his professional duty. It is not a pleasant prospect for the navy and its admirers.

CONCURRENT POWER.

One of the many things which the Supreme Court will have to decide in connection with the Eighteenth Amendment is what "concurrent power" really means. It is plain enough what the Anti-Saloon League intended; concurrent power meant that if a State passed an enforcement law more liberal than that of Congress the Federal law should prevail; whereas, if the State went even further than Congress in promoting dryness, the State law should take precedence. The Federal Government is supreme over wet States, but a dry State is supreme over the Federal Government.

It may be doubted if the Supreme Court will adopt this particular interpretation. But until the court defines concurrence we shall have a sad confusion of opinion. For example, two widely different explanations were made yesterday by Federal officers, both of whom might be supposed to know what the law means. Judge RELLSTAB in the United States District Court at Trenton said:

> The use of the word "concurrent" gave the States no power to engage in a legislative conflict with Congress. The States possess power granted by this amendment as they possess all other concurrent powers; dominant, when they alone exercise it; subordinate, when it is exercised by Congress.
>
> If the State enacts legislation, whether under the Eighteenth Amendment or in the exercise of its police power, and it authorizes or permits the doing of anything already forbidden by acts of Congress, such authorization or permission will be rendered unlawful and will afford no protection to any who may violate the Congressional statute.

This will doubtless please the most ardent drys. But on the same day Solicitor General KING, in defending the amendment against the suit of complainants from Kentucky before the United States Supreme Court, is reported as arguing that

> The amendment did not interfere with the functions of the States, but gave the Federal Government power to act with the States in enforcing prohibition, and resulted from a general demand upon Congress to assist dry States in enforcing prohibition laws.

Mr. KING is presumably solicitous for the welfare of the Eighteenth Amendment, but his view of it, so far as can be judged from this summary, is different from that of Judge RELLSTAB. Mr. KING says it gave the Federal Government power to act with the States. Judge RELLSTAB says it gave the States power to act with the Federal Government, if they acted in a certain way. The King interpretation would seem to give a liberal State some rights; that of Judge RELLSTAB would uphold the centralizing argument.

If Congress could be induced to repeal or amend the Volstead act, no dry State would suffer, except on the theory advanced by Mr. ANDERSON that the existence of the liquor traffic anywhere in the world is a menace to prohibitionist purity which must be wiped out by a great crusade. But until concurrent power is finally interpreted some States will probably insist on supposing that it means that States still have something to say about the definition of intoxicating liquors.

ALBANIA.

At least some Jugoslav statesmen seem to have agreed with the Italian proposal in the memorandum of January to compensate Jugoslavia at the expense of Albania. The principle of this, as the President remarked in his note of Feb. 10, is thoroughly bad; although his criticism of the proposed division of Albania passed over one item which deserves to be considered by itself. The districts of Korytsa and Argyrocastro, in the south, are claimed by Greece on the ground of self-determination, and so far as can be judged from this distance the claim is a just one. It happens also that Greece needs these districts for economic and strategic reasons, and the Greek argument is of weight on those grounds alone; but aside from this the bulk of the population seems to want to be Greek. Greece ought to get Argyrocastro and Korytsa.

The Jugoslav claim to Northern Albania, including Skutari, is another matter. The Italian reasons for making the offer are somewhat dubious; the mere element of compensation for Southeastern Istria does not explain it all, and there remains some suspicion that it is an effort to alienate the Slovenes by favoring the Serbs. Those Jugoslavs who favor the annexation say that the Montenegrin part of their country needs a seaport in this neighborhood, and that anyway they ought to have it if Italy has Valona. Italy needs Valona as a matter of self-protection, for the defense of the Adriatic—not the defense of the Adriatic against the Jugoslavs, who have as much right in it as the Italians and who will not be a naval Power, but the defense of the Adriatic against a possible danger from without. In a world where wars are still possible she thinks this demand is reasonable.

How far a port in Northern Albania would give an outlet to neighboring Jugoslav districts better than they will have at Saloniki is somewhat doubtful, and it is likely enough that a commercial outlet could be provided, if needed, without political sovereignty. Albania is a problem hard enough, and the Italians will have their hands full if they take a mandate for the whole country. The Albanians are patriotic enough, though a good deal of their patriotism seems to be local rather than national, but there is no evidence as yet that more than a tiny minority is fit for self-government. Times have changed since a series of Albanian Emperors saved Rome. The Italians are doing a great work of material reconstruction in the country, and despite considerable Albanian opposition it seems that the best hope of improvement is an Italian mandate. If Albania is capable of ultimate self-government, the whole country ought to be kept together to give it a chance.

The use of Albania for compensation was undoubtedly convenient, and the settlement of the Adriatic question will doubtless be deferred still longer if such an arrangement is impossible. But the settlement will be unsatisfactory enough at best; there is no use adding trouble to trouble.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

A Threat Implies Negligence.

Now it is Dr. COPELAND, the head of the Health Department, who announces something between the purpose and the desire to rescue suffering tenants from the clutches of ruthless landlords by threatening the latter with a drastic enforcement of the sanitary laws and ordinances if they do not give up the evil practice of raising rents.

Again one cannot help seeing the strangeness of the position thus taken—an executive official frankly admitting the non-enforcement of the laws it is his special duty, sworn and paid, to carry out. For if there were not now a general, or almost general, violation of exactly the sanitary and hygienic regulations upon which the health and safety of the city's inhabitants are rightly supposed in no small measure to depend, the owners of tenement and apartment houses could snap their fingers at Dr. COPELAND and his menace of prosecution and, for all of him, do precisely what they pleased in the matter of rents.

Those landlords whose buildings are in what the law considers a good condition can defy him. As for the others, they are, of course, open to his attack, but before they succumb to it there is likely to be much embarrassing questioning as to why he waited till now to exercise his beneficent powers, and as to what section in what statute authorizes him to use his discretion in deciding when to act and when not to act against those whose buildings are not safely habitable.

He Really Does Have a Defense.

It is only fair to note that Dr. COPELAND, in evident realization that his announced policy is in need of some excuse, makes one. He says, and nobody can deny it, that these are times when a poor roof is better than none, and that living in a house with unsatisfactory plumbing is certainly more comfortable, and probably no more dangerous, than camping out with the whole family under a bridge, which would be the present alternative for many New Yorkers if every house where a sanitary ordinance is violated were to be vacated and closed until a thoroughgoing inspector from the Department of Health pronounced it perfect from his official point of view.

Dr. COPELAND might have added, too, that this state of affairs existed when he became Commissioner, and that never since could he have ruled his domain with implacable rigor without creating more hardships and dangers than have resulted from a judicious lenience.

Theoretically that is a poor argument, but practically it has some merit if not pushed too far nor used too often. Its risks are obvious, however, and there is no need to forget that, if buildings are in an unsanitary condition, the landlord who is made to obey the law is not really injured, even in his pocketbook. He is subjected to immediate expense, indeed, but profit will come to him later from tenants of a better class than those who are content to take chances with their health.

A "Folkway" Deserves Consideration.

In the earnest appeal of the Supreme Council to the whole world to show industry and economy—to produce more and waste nothing—there is a statement to the effect that now, as generally has been the case after great calamities, there is to be seen an intensified consumption. This the Council severely reprehends as a particularly injurious and untimely form of extravagance, but it also admits that the phenomenon almost invariably has been observable.

If so, the reprehension and the admission do not go very well together, for phenomena of which as much as that can be said must have resulted from the operation of some presumably beneficial instinct. Otherwise, the race that exhibits it—the human race, according to the Council's assumption—would not have recovered from its innumerable disasters, but would have succumbed to them and have disappeared long ago.

Reasons can be imagined for intensifying consumption after long and severe deprivation, and it might be claimed that they are reasons as potent as are those prompting the Supreme Council to urge us all to work hard and save. That certainly does seem to be the best, if not the only, way of escape from the difficulties of the troubled world. In favor of that way, too, is the fact that instincts sometimes survive their utility, while changed conditions make them even fatal. The older an instinct is, the more likely is it to be in need of regulation or even of suppression, and it may well be that, though the intensified consumption condemned by the Council is but the following of a custom once essential to racial welfare, it now has lost all merit.

One Little Gleam of Sunshine.

For the first time since last September, Bradstreet's "index number," derived from the combined cost of 106 articles in common and general use, shows a decline. The decrease is minute—only from $20.8690 to $20.7850—but even for small blessings and favors the harassed public will be sincerely grateful, and a reversal of movement in living cost is important if it is real and permanent.

Unfortunately, such computations as these deal with wholesale prices. They must do so, as retail prices vary from shop to shop and street to street. But the consumer's relation to wholesale prices is not close nor immediate, and his household bills are slow in revealing the motions of an "index number." They are slow, that is, when the number goes down; they respond to its advances with a speed far more interesting than agreeable—to the consumer.

THE SOVIET PEACE DRIVE.

An Attempt to Reach the People Rather Than Open Commerce.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

The significance of the Bolshevist "peace drive," as I see it, is that the tremendous military machine built up by the Bolsheviki is breaking up from internal weakness and its leaders realize that the blood lust which has characterized their campaign for the last two years has overshot the mark. The Bolshevist leaders realize they are sitting on a volcano and that they are under the suspicion of the world.

The Bolshevist army has been able to spread over so large a territory due to the terrorism of its leaders and to the further fact that the loyal Russians were widely separated, with Denikin in the south and Kolchak in Siberia, both unable to communicate freely with each other and with the Government at Archangel.

It should be borne in mind that the State Department has not received the "peace offer" dated Moscow, Feb. 24, and signed by Chicherin, People's Commissary for Foreign Affairs, which the Soviet authorities claim to have transmitted formally to Washington.

The fact, as pointed out in a Washington dispatch, that Chicherin is now making a special request that publicity be given to this so-called offer of peace to a country which is not, and has not, been at war with Russia indicates that the Bolshevist Government is more interested in reaching the American people through the press for its own ends than in getting any action from our Government.

Due to conditions of unrest and the high cost of living throughout the world, there is a movement to reopen trade with Russia. Viewed from a strictly economic angle the United States is not called upon to join this movement, because its own resources make it independent of Russia, and morally it would be impossible to do so.

Even if trade were reopened, the demoralization of the Russian transit system is such that it would be impossible for this commerce to have any effect on the cost of living. If Europe could obtain vast supplies from Russia it would ameliorate conditions and would be a positive gain. The trouble is that the supplies obtained would not be sufficient to compensate for the effort expended.

Payment for goods sent to the Bolshevist Government would have to be made in stolen gold or Bolshevist credit, which could not be accepted on a business basis, owing to the instability of the Government and the improbability of its currency being stabilized.

This is entirely aside from the loss of self-respect which we would sustain in entering into negotiations with criminals whom I regard as unworthy of a place in the councils of the nations.

The advance of the Bolshevist armies and the overrunning of regions heretofore under the control of the loyal Russians have greatly increased the problem of caring for the thousands of refugees who are now scattered all along the fringes of Russia. They have also fled into Japan, China, Rumania and Serbia. These are the better element of the Russian people—the school teachers, business and professional men and others of the educated classes who must be depended on to regenerate Russia.

In this time of many problems and many worries we are apt to forget these people who stood out against Bolshevism and who have been its chief sufferers.

MONTGOMERY SCHUYLER.
New York, March 8, 1920.

UNSIGNED.

A strong man armed, we walk alone, aloof.
The blinded stumble, whom we will not lead.
The hungry perish, whom we will not feed.
The lawless work their will without reproof.
Secure (the road to Jericho is wide!)
We pass unheeding on the other side.

Our work is over, though the earth resound
With growing evil that our hand might stay.
Exempt, exalted, move we on our way
As though God made the ocean for a bound
To Duty's field! Our answer to her call,
"Let Europe stand alone, though Freedom fall!"

Cold are we, to the weariness, the wrack,
Of wasted nations—now that conquered seas
Invite our commerce—though we owe to these,
Long shielded years of profit? Looking back,
We know who barred the peril from our shore
With broken bodies—who our charges bore!

Late, late to kindle, yet we took the fire!
When noble passion, like a prairie flame,
Swept through the nation, did it leave the same
Swift-fading embers? Had it, mounting higher,
Consumed the narrow spite, the selfish greed
That curse our councils, it were well indeed!

Still hesitant, we stand to count the cost,
To glean advantages, or to view with dread
Some far, contingent peril seen ahead,
Till Valor sickens, and the cause is lost.
O God! Those voices from the fields of sleep!
"We died to seal the faith they will not keep!"

GAIN IN NEW YORK READERS

Public Library Shows Large Increase for 1919.

In his annual report to the trustees yesterday, E. H. Anderson, Director of the New York Public Library, furnished interesting figures for the year 1919.

The total number of visitors to the Central Building, known as the Reference Department, was 2,478,658. Thousands of books are read each year without any record being made of the reader's application; therefore, the actual use of books is always much larger than figures indicate, but readers were recorded as using books in the Reference Department during 1919 to the number of 892,288, making use of 2,244,452 volumes. This represented an increase of 137,711 in the number of readers, and 181,191 in the number of volumes, over the previous year's recorded service. In the Branch Libraries, Extension Division and the Library for the Blind, comprising the Circulation Department, 5,692,048 volumes were issued for use at home, a gain of 295,143 over the 1918 record.

TO DROP WAR CLAIMS BOARD

Its Adjustments Have Saved Millions to the Nation, Says Baker.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, March 10.—Secretary Baker today announced that on June 30 the War Department Claims Board will end its work.

"Shortly awter the armistice there were nearly 30,000 claims arising from munition and supply contracts which had to be adjusted," said Secretary Baker today. Out of this number approximately 24,000 have been adjusted in a manner acceptable to the contractors, and with full protection for the interests of the United States. Other claims have been withdrawn. The remaining cases, to the number of about 2,500, will, it is believed, be settled in a few months' time.

"To complete the 24,000 contracts which have been settled would have cost the United States nearly two and one-half billion dollars, yet the adjustment on these contracts has been made for $304,000,000, or about 12 per cent. of the total cost if completed. In other words, the contracts have been settled for about 12 cents on every dollar that would have been spent had they gone to completion," the Secretary stated.

DENIES PACKER CONTROL.

Swift Official Asserts There Is No Agreement on Prices.

WASHINGTON, March 10.—L. D. H. Weld, head of Swift & Co.'s department of business economics, testifying today before the House Agriculture Committee, defended the packing industry against charges made by the Federal Trade Commission and opposed pending legislation for Federal regulation of the industry.

Packers do not control prices, either of live stock or meats, he said, and the regulations proposed would harm both the consumer and the producer, since it would tie the hands of the great companies and lower their economy and efficiency of operation.

VOTE ON DAYLIGHT SAVING.

Assembly Advances Repeal Bill, but Senate Conference Fails to Agree.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, March 10.—Passage of the bill to repeal the daylight savings law by the Assembly appeared probable when, after nearly three hours' debate that body today by a vote of 60 to 56 advanced the bill to order of final passage.

In the Senate, however, a conference of Republican Senators failed to reach an agreement to pass the measure and it is understood that there are only twenty-five votes in favor of the repeal in the Upper House.

Legislative leaders are practically agreed that the State must go back to standard time, but there is a possibility that the Legislature will pass a companion bill to give cities the right to determine locally whether they want daylight saving or not.

BORDEN OPPONENTS LOSE.

Canadian Commons Gives Premier a Vote of Confidence.

OTTAWA, March 10.—Agitation for the retirement of Sir Robert Borden's wartime Coalition Government, which started soon after the armistice, was signed, collapsed, temporarily at least, when the House of Commons early today voted its confidence in the Premier by a majority of 34.

The vote, which was taken after an all-night debate, was on the proposal to amend Sir Robert's address in reply to the speech from the throne. The amendment was moved by W. L. M. King, the opposition leader, who demanded the dissolution of Parliament. The subject had been continuously before the House since Feb. 26, when Parliament assembled.

TO INVESTIGATE RADICALS.

Civic Federation Appoints Committee of Inquiry.

Alton B. Parker, President of the National Civic Federation, announced yesterday that the organization had appointed a committee to inquire into the objectives and tactics of revolutionary forces in this country. The committee also will undertake an industrial survey.

In addition to Judge Parker those appointed include Lawrence F. Abbott, Cyrus Adler, President of the Jewish Theological Seminary of America; Miss Helen Varick Boswell, of the Republican National Women's Committee; Thomas N. Carver, Professor of Economics at Harvard, and Major Elihu C. Church of the Chamber of Commerce of the State of New York.

NEW YORK MAY BUY RADIUM

Bill Authorizing $250,000 for Two Grains Favored by Legislators.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, March 10.—New York State may purchase two of the 100 grains of radium said to be existent in the world. The Senate Finance Committee, after a hearing this afternoon on the Gibbs bill authorizing such a purchase, is expected to recommend that the Legislature appropriate $250,000 for the purpose.

The radium would be used by the State Institute in Buffalo for the study of malignant diseases in an effort to find an effective cancer cure. Two grains, it is said, would allow the treatment of 1,000,000 persons.

DOUBTS INCREASE IN ROAD VALUATIONS

Commerce Board Looks for No Change Now as Result of Kansas City Southern Case.

NO EFFECT ON RATE MAKING

Commissioners Say Final Valuations of Roads Cannot Be Completed for Several Years.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, March 10.—Officials of the Interstate Commerce Commission who had to do with the commission's side of the case in the suit brought by the Kansas City Southern Railway Company to mandamus the commission to consider certain elements of value as prescribed by the statute in arriving at a valuation on the property of the Kansas City Southern do not construe the decision of the United States Supreme Court to mean that the valuation of railroad property will be necessarily greatly increased thereby, nor that it will have an important effect on the immediate execution of the rate-making provisions of the new transportation act.

In Section 19 A of the Act to Regulate Commerce the elements of value which the commission must consider are set forth. Among those elements are the following:

"Second—Such investigation and report shall state in detail and separately from improvements the original cost of all lands, rights of way and terminals owned or used for the purposes of a common carrier, and ascertained as of the day of dedication to public use, and the present value of the same, and separately the original and present cost of condemnation and damages or of purchase in excess of such original cost or present value."

In reporting the valuation of the properties of the Texas Midland Railroad Company and the Kansas City Southern, the commission declined to hear testimony as to the latter part of the paragraph quoted above, namely, the "present cost of condemnation and damage or of purchase in excess of such original cost or present value."

The commission construed these words to call for a finding as to the cost of reproduction of the carrier's lands. It decided that the direction of the statute was "incapable of rational ascertainment." It said the estimate required could be made only upon inadmissible assumptions and upon impossible hypotheses, and that it was the duty of the commission to "abstain from reporting as an ascertained fact that which is incapable of rational ascertainment is clear."

In the opinion of those at the commission who were connected with the case, the effect of the decision is that the commission must hear the testimony on the "present cost of condemnation and damages, or of purchase in excess of such original cost or present value" of the carrier's lands. It will still be within the discretionary powers of the commission, it is believed, to say what weight shall be given such testimony and how much value shall be added because of it.

As to the effect of the decision on rate making, it is believed at the commission that it will not affect to any material degree the basis of valuations for the return of 5½ per cent., as prescribed by the new transportation law.

MAY BE LOWER BY FALL.

But Retailers Think Prices of Clothes Will Stay Up for a Year.

No one should be misled into waiting two or three months before buying materials or clothing with the idea of obtaining them at a lower rate, according to the opinion of a half a dozen retail clothing leaders who met at the recent convention of the Retail Clothiers' Association of the State of New York at the McAlpin Hotel. All seem agreed that the prices of clothing will remain at their present level at least, if they do not experience a slight upward tendency, until the Fall of this year at the earliest.

"There will be no fall in price in our trade for at least a year," said William Goldman. "Woolens now in our stocks have cost us from 50 to 100 per cent. more than they have ever cost us before and it is necessary for us to sell these goods at a comparatively high price. It will be the late Fall at least before any noticeable decrease will take place. Silks are three times more expensive now than they were three years ago. This, coupled with the fact that the general public is demanding quality, leads me to believe that this line of goods also will continue at the present high rate for at least a year.

"I must say, however, that it appears to me we have reached the primary stage in the turn of the corner in prices. For four years we have not been able to see the time when prices would be reduced. Now it appears likely that one year will end the present scale."

CITY TO BUY 200 BUSES.

Estimate Board Committee to Urge $1,140,000 Appropriation.

The Finance and Budget Committee of the Board of Estimate will recommend to the Board on Friday an appropriation of $1,140,000 for the purpose of buying 200 buses to be operated by the city. That the recommendation will be adopted and the establishment of city-owned bus lines follow soon is assured, because the votes represented by the membership of the committee are sufficient for the purpose.

The plan of operating the buses was prepared by Grover A. Whalen, Commissioner of Plant and Structures, at the suggestion of the Board. It provides for the purchase of 200 buses at $5,500 each. Each bus is to have seating capacity for twenty-seven passengers. Mr. Whalen figured that the enterprise would yield the city a net profit of $278,064 annually. If this is the result more buses will be bought.

INDEPENDENT ART EXHIBIT.

600 Artists Represented in Display to Open at Waldorf Tonight.

The annual exhibition of the Society of Independent Artists will open tonight at the Waldorf-Astoria and the public will be given their fourth opportunity to pass upon "American art, unhampered and untrammeled by juries or contests." About 600 artists have entered pictures and their work will be hung in alphabetical order.

Among the exhibits are 100 water colors depicting Indian life and tradition in Arizona and New Mexico, painted by the Indians themselves. These were included in the exhibition through the courtesy of the Santa Fé Museum and Mrs. Mable Dodge Sterne, and were transported to New York through the fund left by the late Morton Schamberg. John Sloan and Walter Pach, Directors of the Independents, are in charge of the exhibition.

PLANS FOR FETE APPROVED.

Fifth Avenue Week Observances to Have Many Features.

At a meeting of the Board of Directors of the Fifth Avenue Association yesterday at 542 Fifth Avenue plans for the observance of Fifth Avenue Week, April 5 to 10, were presented by Frederick N. Sard, chairman of the Observance Committee, and approved.

Every store window will be decorated. The New York Central Railroad, the committee reported, is willing to name the new special train between Chicago and Chicago, the Fifth Avenue Limited.

There will be an elaborate display by the music trades, tableaux of industrial art and historic interest and community singing each day at the plaza at Fifty-ninth Street. The basis for the scheme of decoration will be blue, orange and white—the colors of the city. At night the avenue will be the "Golden Way," and thousands of electric lights will be used.

MRS. H.K. STEVENSON WEDS F. B. THORNE

Daughter of Late Gustav Kobbe, Writer, Marries Son of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Thorne.

MISS BROUWER A BRIDE

Wed to Dr. Charles Harbeck in Marble Collegiate Church—Nuptials of F. C. Tenney and Miss Banks.

Francis B. Thorne, a son of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Thorne of 558 Madison Avenue, and a grandson of Mrs. Samuel Thorne, and Mrs. Hildegarde Kobbe Stevenson, a daughter of Mrs. Gustav Kobbe, were married yesterday afternoon at the home of the bride's mother, 120 Fifth Street, Garden City, L. I. Mrs. Thorne's father, the late Gustav Kobbe, was on the staff of The New York Herald for many years, and was killed two years ago at Bayshore by a hydro-airplane. Mrs. Stevenson's brother, George M. W. Kobbe, gave her in marriage, and the Rev. C. Wallace Petty of New York performed the ceremony. Mr. and Mrs. Thorne are going South and West on a long bridal trip, and next Summer will make their home in Islip, L. I.

Mrs. Thorne's first husband was Joseph H. Stevenson, a son of Mrs. Richard W. Stevenson of Cedarhurst. They were divorced. Mrs. Thorne has two children, Carol and Hildegarde Stevenson, aged 10 and 7 years respectively. She is a sister of Mrs. Raymond D. Little, Mrs. Gerald V. Hollins and Miss Carol Kobbe.

Mr. Thorne is a Yale graduate, class of 1914, and during the war served on the Wainwright, a destroyer, as a Lieutenant in European waters after a special course at Annapolis. Landon K. Thorne, who married Miss Julia A. Loomis, is his brother.

Harbeck-Brouwer.

The wedding of Dr. Charles Harbeck of Los Angeles, Cal., a son of Charles Harbeck of his city, and Miss Irene Brouwer, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. T. A. Brouwer of Pinewold, Westhampton, L. I., took place yesterday afternoon at 4 o'clock in the Marble Collegiate Church, the Rev. Dr. David J. Burrell performing the ceremony. The bride was attended by Mrs. Archer Nelson and Guernsey Price was the best man.

Dr. Harbeck was a Major in the Medical Corps and served with the A. E. F. during the war—was also a member of the U. S. Military Mission at Berlin during the armistice. Dr. Harbeck and his bride will live in Los Angeles.

Tenney-Banks.

The marriage of Frank Chester Tenney of Duluth, Minn., formerly a Captain in the Coast Artillery Corps, and Miss Alida Oddie Banks, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Fisher Banks of New Hamburg, N. Y., took place yesterday, at The Cedars, the home of the bride's grandmother, Mrs. James Lenox Banks, in New Hamburg. None except the family and a few intimate friends were present.

Mr. Tenney served in France with the 103d Trench Mortar Battery, and returned last Spring as an artillery detachment. Miss Tenney has been prominent in New York society since her début here several years ago.

Eisenbach-Albert.

Howard Eisenbach, a son of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Eisenbach of 490 West End Avenue, this city, and Miss Edyth Albert, a daughter of Jacob Albert of the Hotel Bossert, Brooklyn, were married last evening at the Bossert. The honeymoon is to be spent in Asheville, N. C., and on their return they will live at the Bossert. Mr. Eisenbach is a Yale graduate and a member of the Yale Club. He was a Second Lieutenant in the artillery during the war, receiving his commission in Louisville, Mrs. Eisenbach was in the Motor Corps during the war.

PAGEANT AT ASTOR TONIGHT

Society of Beaux Arts Architects to Portray Ancient France.

What promises to be the most brilliant entertainment of the season will be staged by the Society of Beaux Arts Architects at the Hotel Astor tonight, the night of Mi-Carême. Over four hundred people, including women prominent in the social world, will take part in a pageant of ancient France, for the portrayal of which all of the leading architects and artists of the city have combined in artistic effort.

A ball will follow the pageant, and no one will be allowed on the ballroom floor unless in a costume that harks back to the days of ancient France up to the time of Louis XVI.

Franklin Riker Sings Own Songs.

Franklin Riker, tenor, gave a matinée recital yesterday at Aeolian Hall, as he has in other seasons, singing to a large audience, which redemanded the song, "May Night," a setting of Tagore's poem by Richard Hageman, who accompanied the entire program. Mr. Riker himself was the composer of two airs, one a sea piece and the other an Italian text; his diction in that language, as in French and English, was among his best traits, obscured at times by a forced tone or falsetto top note of a voice most free in middle register.

FROM BEGINNING TO END

(A Medley of events which every one of us experiences in our journey thru life)

First we're born—nothing strange about that; later sent to school; a few years hence society's the thing; and then we're engaged, object—matrimony. MESDAG ART SALE YIELDS $68,872

Johannes Bosboom's "Cathedral Interior with Figures" Sold for $1,750.

"A Ram's Head," by Matthys Maris, Brings $1,075, and Israels's "A Fisherman's Wife" $1,250.

At the closing sale of the pictures, studio furnishings, tapestries, &c., of the late Henrik Willem Mesdag, the Dutch artist, at the Hotel Plaza last evening under the auspices of the American Art Association, returns were $41,710, making a grand total, with the returns of the two previous sales, of $68,872. Rousseaus, Daubignys and the work of Josef Israels with the tapestries, brought some of the best prices, a landscape by Rousseau bringing one of the top prices, $1,500, the highest price, $1,750, being given by E. Berger for Johannes Bosboom's "Cathedral Interior with Figures."

One interesting picture sold was the large head of a ram by Matthys Maris, the animal wearing a benevolent expression. It was said it was such a favorite of the artist that on entering his studio each morning he saluted it. It was sold to J. H. Heidring for $1,075.

Other interesting features of the sale were panels from doors in the studio of the artist which had been decorated by his many artist friends. These had been removed and framed. One, a good-sized picture, very charming, "Cows at the Brook," by William Maris, went to Kraushaar for $1,050; a Blommers, "Le Nourrisson," went to W. J. Wilkinson for $400, and a strong portrait by Josef Israels, "A Fisherman's Wife," an aged face under a white cap, went to E. Berger for $1,250.

MI-CARÊME CELEBRATION.

Washington Society at Dinner Dance in Aid of Somme-Py Memorial.

WASHINGTON, March 10. — Mrs. George Barnett, wife of the commandant of the Marine Corps, acted as hostess this evening at the Café St. Mark's for a dinner dance given in aid of the proposed memorial at Somme-Py where a number of American marines gave their lives in the late war.

The entertainment to mark Mi-Carême was under a committee consisting of Mrs. Harry H. Rousseau, Mrs. Henry Price Wright, Miss Porter and Mrs. Claude B. Mayo. Dinner was served at 8:30 with dancing until long after midnight.

In addition to General and Mrs. Barnett and the members of the committee, the subscribers, most of whom entertained large parties, included the Argentine Ambassador and Mme. Lebreton, the Chilian Ambassador and Mme. de Mathieu, the Peruvian Ambassador and Mme. Pezet, the Swiss Minister and Mme. Marc Peter, Rear Admiral and Mrs. Niblack, Mr. and Mrs. George Eustis, Mr. and Mrs. Franklin Ellis, Mr. and Mrs. Ishall Langhorne, Mr. and Mrs. Henri di Sibour, Mr. and Mrs. Gist Blair, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Wilson and Franklin Macveagh.

Participating in the dancing were most of the younger diplomats, with the belles of this and last season.

SEMINOLE SUN DANCE ENDS.

Vast Throng Attends Final Festivities at Palm Beach.

Special to The New York Times.

PALM BEACH, Fla., March 10.—The final day of the Palm Beach Seminole sun dance brought here the largest crowd ever known, fully five thousand additional people being in town, the visitors mostly coming in automobiles from neighboring resorts. Among those in the boxes were Mr. and Mrs. Richard Croker, who had as their guests Mr. and Mrs. Edward T. Stotesbury, Mrs. Frederick Edey had a box party for her daughter Mrs. Douglas Paige. Mr. and Mrs. James King Clarke and Mrs. E. Gray Pendleton entertained box parties.

Mr. Kenan, one of the Trustees under the will of the late Henry M. Flagler, whose accomplishments in founding the chain of Florida east coast resorts were celebrated, attended in a box with Dr. and Mrs. George Morgan Ward.

After the festivities many people went over to the Woman's Club, where there was a private view of paintings of the National Society of Woman Painters and Sculptors. Those receiving were Mrs. Edey, Mrs. Jerome Bonaparte, Mrs. H. B. Bingham, Mrs. Robert Dun Douglass, Mrs. Ashton Henry, Mrs. E. R. Thomas and Mrs. Delos O. Wickham.

PREDICT GASOLINE JUMP.

Oil Men Say Price May Be 40 or 50 Cents a Gallon Next Year.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, March 10.—Predictions that gasoline would increase in price during 1920, possibly to 35 cents a gallon, were made today by delegates attending the National Petroleum Congress at the Congress Hotel. This time next year the price may be 40 cents a gallon and possibly 50 cents, they say. Fred W. Lehmann, Jr., general counsel for the Western Petroleum Refiners' Association, declared that protective measures must be taken if the country is to avoid an oil famine with prohibitive prices.

"The price of gas in England is $1.78 a gallon," he said, "and a Government commission has recommended $1.30 as a fair price. So, you see, Americans don't know anything about high prices yet. In 1915 there were 2,500,000 automobiles in this country and 288,000,000 barrels of crude oil were produced at a cost of 53 cents a barrel. In 1919 there were 7,400,000 automobiles and 376,000,000 barrels of crude oil were produced at a cost of $2.25 a barrel. Today crude oil is $3.50 a barrel. Figure it out for yourself."

SCHROEDER AT AIR SHOW.

Breaker of Altitude Record Greeted —Wireless Telephone Heard.

The announcement that Major Rudolph Schroeder, who broke the world's altitude record in an airplane recently at Dayton, Ohio, was to visit the National Aircraft Show in the 71st Regiment Armory brought out a large crowd yesterday afternoon. Major Schroeder, apparently recovered from the effects of his 36,020-foot trip and his five-mile drop, was surrounded by admirers, who plied him with questions regarding his experiences.

An added attraction was a demonstration of the wireless telephone. Communication with an army truck stationed at Bryant Park was maintained. By means of a voice magnifying instrument the crowds were able to listen to the conversations. Today a wireless telephone conversation with the pilot of a blimp "which will hover over the city will be held.

As a result of the premature announcement of the navy's transpacific flight plans, Secretary Daniels sent an official of the naval air service to the city to ascertain where the leak came from, it was learned. The official visited the show and queried many of the aircraft manufacturers and exhibitors.

COAST AIR TRIP FOR JULY 1.

Date for New York-San Francisco Service Set.

July 1 was announced yesterday by Alfred W. Lawson, President of the Lawson Airplane Company as the date for starting the operation of a New York-San Francisco passenger airplane line.

The first airplane is scheduled to leave this city at 1 A. M., Mr. Lawson said, with accommodations, including sleeping berths, for twenty-six passengers. The schedule calls for a thirty-six-hour trip with stops at Syracuse, Buffalo, Cleveland, Toledo, Chicago, Des Moines, Omaha, Cheyenne, Salt Lake City and Reno.

Mr. Lawson said that ten representatives of the company were making arrangements for the landing fields and sites at 100-mile intervals for lighthouses to project shafts of light skyward. The airplane is fifty feet long and six feet wide. The interior arrangements are like those of a sleeping car, and the ceilings are eight feet high.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

THE HAGUE, March 9.—Another proof of great Bolshevist activity in Holland is the opening of a new Sunday Communist school at The Hague, where Bolshevist children from the age of 10 are instructed by Bolshevist intellectuals, anarchists and students in Bolshevist theories. It is stated that propaganda for this Sunday school is also carried on in day schools by teachers.

Church to Place $50,000 Mortgage.

By a vote of 102 to 12 the congregation of Calvary Baptist Church of West Fifty-seventh Street decided last night to place a mortgage of not more than $50,000 on its property in West Thirty-third Street, between Eighth and Ninth Avenues. Of the money obtained $40,000 will be used to meet notes against Calvary Church and the rest for advance work to be undertaken. This property was formerly the Collegiate Baptist Church and two years ago it was absorbed by Calvary Church.

Six Cents for Lost Affections.

A verdict for 6 cents and costs was returned late yesterday afternoon in the $75,000 alienation suit of Mrs. Anna M. A. Altenbach of 146 Herkimer Street, Brooklyn, against Mrs. Rhoda Hunt Fonda of 122 Brooklyn Avenue, which was tried in the Kings County Supreme Court before Justice Squiers yesterday. Mrs. Altenbach charged that Mrs. Fonda, widow of a wealthy civil war veteran, had stolen the affections of her husband, the late John A. Altenbach, a Police Lieutenant, who died July 28, 1919.

MARY ELLIS ROBBED OF WEDDING GIFTS

$6,000 Worth of Jewels and Presents Taken from Opera Singer's 57th St. Apartment.

HUSBAND'S WAR CROSS LOST

Theft Is Discovered by Bernheimers on Their Return Home Monday Afternoon.

Mary Ellis, a member of the Metropolitan Opera Company, reported to the police yesterday that she had been robbed of jewels and wedding presents valued at $6,000 taken from her apartment at 17 West Fifty-seventh Street, between Fifth and Sixth Avenues. Several of the articles were family heirlooms. The thieves also took a Belgian war cross, presented by King Albert to the singer's husband, Louis G. Bernheimer, while he was in the French aviation service.

Mr. and Mrs. Bernheimer discovered the robbery on returning to their home Monday afternoon. When detectives from the East Fifty-first Street Station investigated they found no clue to the thieves. A maid who had been in one of the rooms of the apartment at the time of the robbery, with the door closed, had not heard the thieves at work and did not know of the loss until her employers entered, it was said.

None of the locks on the hall door and apartment doors had been forced, according to the police inspection. The detectives believed the thieves had made duplicate keys or had used master keys in opening the doors.

Mr. and Mrs. Bernheimer were married on Feb. 6 at the Municipal Building, and the wedding presents taken were the gifts they had since received from friends. Mrs. Bernheimer is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herman Ellis of 33 West Eighty-fifth Street. Mary Ellis made her opera début a year ago and has appeared in "Parsifal" and as Mytyl in "The Blue Bird."

INCOME TAX REFUNDS MADE.

Non-Residents' Payments Returned, Says Travis—Edwards's Busy Day.

Controller Travis said yesterday that every cent paid into the State Treasury by non-residents and persons employing non-residents, who were affected by the recent income tax decision of the United States Supreme Court, had been refunded. "The State has, therefore, completely complied with the directions in the recent decision," the Controller added.

"While thousands will be affected by the recent general extension to persons who received pay from departments under Government control or as members of the military or naval forces of the United States, it should be clearly borne in mind that the law contemplates no excuses for failure to return," he said. "Those who cannot put their reports in before March 15 must apply for extension."

Collector Edwards reported that yesterday was the biggest day of the year in the receipt of income taxes at the Internal Revenue offices in this city. Ten additional revenue agents have been assigned here to aid taxpayers in the preparation of returns, Mr. Edwards said. The Collector promised his entire force a "big party" after the work of receiving and totaling the returns has been completed. Every one of the 700 employes will be in on the party, Mr. Edwards promised.

Charles H. Duell Estate $300,000.

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., March 10.—The will of Charles H. Duell, formerly a Magistrate in Manhattan, was filed for probate in the Surrogate's office today. The estate is valued at about $300,000. A brother, Richard C. Duell, received an income of $900 a year, while the remainder of the estate was divided equally among the testator's four children.

BONESTEEL IS ACQUITTED.

Judge Directs Verdict Freeing Accused Kidnapper of Girl.

Frank Bonesteel was yesterday found not guilty in Kings County Court of kidnapping six-year-old Ruth King, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard R. King of 5,622 Fourth Avenue, Brooklyn. Judge Dike directed an acquittal, and the jurors returned their verdict without leaving the jury box.

Bonesteel said Ruth was placed in his care by her parents when she was about a year old, and that he brought her up with tender care. Last December, at the request of the parents, Bonesteel took Ruth to their home in Brooklyn for a visit. When Bonesteel returned to his home in Jersey City he took Ruth with him. A complaint of kidnapping was then made against him by the parents.

YANIGAN TEAMS OF YANKEES AND GIANTS AGAIN DEFEAT THE VETERANS

YANKEE YANIGANS SHUT OUT REGULARS

Ruth Fans Twice with Men on Bases, and Ward Hits First Home Run of Series.

PITCHING IS IMPRESSIVE

Mogridge, Shore, Shawkey and Thormahlen All Show to Advantage in Nine-Inning Game.

Special to The New York Times.

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., March 10.—The batting eyes of the Yankee regulars are not yet sharpened to the sort of pitching they have faced the last two days. Curves and other deceitful flinging by the Yanigan pitchers have the regulars out on a limb, so to speak, and they were beaten again by the Yanigans this afternoon. They were beaten 5 to 0, and have made one run and eight hits in the two days, which is a somewhat anemic attack.

The regulars have had good pitching, too. The fact is the form of the boxmen of Hug's staff is much more advanced than that of the batters. The second team, however, is playing more aggressively, is profiting by misplays and making its hits with men on bases. The first team isn't any howling pack of devouring wolves so far, and played mechanically today. Huggins says he will match his Yanigans against any second team in the big leagues, and let the Red Cross or some other society take the proceeds. He thinks he has the kingpin second team. So do his regulars.

The pitching by both sets of moundmen this afternoon was the best part of the exhibition. Shawkey and Thormahlen pitched for the first team, and the former was a bit more effective. All had excellent control, and Shawkey in the first inning fanned Gleich after the count had gone to three balls and no strikes.

Ruth Fans Twice.

Gleich slumped after his good hitting of yesterday, but he had distinguished company. Babe Ruth struck out twice and knocked one high fly. Mogridge whiffed him twice, and there were men on bases when he heaped this indignity on the Babe. Mogridge had that whippy curve of his, and a tidy bit of speed in addition. Ernie Shore pitched effectively. His arm was free and plastic, and he put a good deal on the ball without much lessening effort to do so. His curve had a good break.

Huggins rearranged his Yanigans. Whether he did this to weaken them so as to bring them nearer to equality with the first team he did not say. He had Ward at short, in Rice's place, and moved Meusel across from first to third. He had Fred Hoffman, the catcher, on first, and in right used Warren Collins, the pitcher, instead of Benny Geiser, the Shipyard's star. Collins is a fast man afoot. He burned up the cinder path in Penn's college days. Meusel played third capably, barring a low throw to first. He did no hitting.

Bleimiller scratched a bunt on Shawkey in the third inning and started trouble. Murphy forced Bleimiller, but when Mogridge trundled gently to first the latter made a wide throw to second for a force. Gleich struck out, but O'Doul, who is no respecter of pitchers, waded into one and doubled to centre, bringing in two runs.

Ward Hits for Circuit.

After a base on balls and a force in the sixth, with Thormahlen pitching, Ward, the leader of the Yanigans, drove over Bodie's head in left to the fence. Seeing that Ping was not any speed marvel in retrieving the ball Ward sprinted as he neared third and made a round trip of it. Therefore, in starting home-run operations Ward had beaten Ruth to it. The Babe isn't in slinging trim yet. Fewster made a poor throw on Hoffman in the seventh inning, and Dan Murphy chased in his mate with a two-bagger to left.

Hugh Duffy, the Toronto manager, is on his way to the Yankee camp to look over the supply material and see if he can find something with which to buttress his team.

The score by innings:

	R.	H.	E.

KLEM INSTRUCTS ROBINS.

Umpire, on Tour of Camps, Explains Pitching Rules.

Special to The New York Times.

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., March 10.—Umpire Bill Klem bobbed up in the Dodgers' training camp here this afternoon and after watching the game between the regulars and Yannigans the arbitrator assembled the athletes and read the new rules of the game for their benefit. Klem is making a tour of the National League training camps and is instructing the pitchers as to the methods they will have to use next season.

Klem arrived here from Miami, where the Reds are going through their workouts, and left tonight for Columbus, Ga., where the Boston Braves are training. His tour will come to an end March 17 at the Giants' camp in San Antonio. Klem is of the opinion that the new pitching rules will not cause any wrangles on the field if the players cooperate in enforcing them.

The game played at Barrs Field went nine innings and when Manager Robinson stopped the affair each side had scored two runs. The players were favored with sunshine and Uncle Robbie used six pitchers in the contest, each working three frames. Conlon, Heitman and Marquard took turns on the slab for the regulars and Mamaux, Mohart and Smith twirled for the Yannigans.

While Mohart was hurling the regulars failed to score off his right-handed shoots, but he was found for two hits. His record for the Spring training games is thirteen consecutive scoreless frames and he has been found for only four scattered hits.

The regulars scored their first tally in the opening frame when Johnston tripled to right centre and scored on a wild pitch Al Mamaux. Their second run was made in the eighth chapter off Sherry Smith. Johnston opened the session with a single and advanced to third on two infield outs. Marquard scored Jimmy with a single to right.

Conlon, a young left hander, and Heitman, who is the property of the Buffalo Club of the International League, held the Yannigans scoreless during the first six frames, but in the eighth session they bunched three hits off Marquard and scored both their tallies. Miljus cracked a single to left and Smith followed with a single to right, Kilduff forced Smith and Miljus moved to third, Baird doubled and Miljus scored, Kilduff reaching third. Schmadt's sacrifice fly to Mitchell scored Kilduff.

Rube Marquard covered left field during the first five rounds for the regulars, but when they took the field for the sixth frame the rube was busy warming up and not until Kilduff was thrown out at first by Johnston was it discovered that no one replaced Marquard. Conlin was ordered to the vacant territory and Kilduff took another turn at bat. He was tossed out by Beyers.

The score by innings:

	R.	H.	E.
Regulars	2	6	1
Yannigans	0	4	2

Batteries—Conlon, Heitman, Marquard and Beyers; Mamaux, Mohart, Smith and Krueger.

Fordham Nine Will Meet Yale, Harvard, Princeton

Fordham University's baseball schedule, which is as exacting and comprehensive a list of games as has been arranged for any college nine this year, received its finishing touch yesterday afternoon when it was announced by Manager Aloysius F. Arthur that negotiations have just been completed for a game with Yale. The contest will be staged at New Haven on Wednesday, April 14.

For the first time in the history of the Bronx institution its baseball aggregation will meet the "Big Three" during the same campaign. Games have already been booked with Princeton for April 21 and Harvard for June 16.

GIANTS SLOWED UP BY HUMID WEATHER

Recruits Defeat Regulars in Listless Game, 6-3—Two Players Join Squad.

Special to The New York Times.

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., March 10.—The misty atmosphere had its effect on the Giants today, and for the first time since they came to Texas, the work of the players lacked ginger and aggressiveness. The humidity this afternoon was oppressive and slowed up both the morning and afternoon practice. The regulars got another jolt this afternoon from the recruits in a six-inning fray, the youngsters winning by a 6 to 3 score.

Jim Garton, the Tulsa southpaw, got his first trial when he was sent in to pitch for the regulars, relieving Hubbell, Garton was an improvement over the Idaho Adonis, and the recruits got only one run, while the Tulsa lad was on the mound. Hubbell was laced for two home runs, one by White and the other by Lee King. Ryan and Ross did the pitching for the youngsters, and the only serious damage was a three bagger by George Kelly. Benny Kauff contributed the circus play of the day when he made a one-handed grab of Snyder's drive in the fourth.

Larry Doyle Does Good Work.

Larry Doyle got into real action and showed a lot of youthfulness in his work around second. The game, however, was a listless affair, and even McGraw's efforts to instill some life into the proceedings brought little result.

It was a good day for the players to take off weight, and the big fellows all were active enough to perspire freely. After the practice the veterans all ran around the field several times. All the pitchers worked out today, but no attempt has been made yet for them to extend themselves.

The teams lined up today as follows:

Regulars—Burns, lf.; Young, rf.; Frisch, 3b.; Kauff, cf.; Kelly, 1b.; Doyle, 2b.; McCarty, c.; Moore, ss.; Hubbel and Garton, p.

Recruits—Sickling, 3b.; Kinsella, lf.; Statz, rf.; King, cf.; Cooney, ss.; Snyder, c.; Herie, 1b.; White, 2b.; Ryan and Ross, p.

The score by innings:

	R.	H.	E.
Recruits	2	1	2
Regulars	0	0	1

Batteries—Ryan, Ross and Snyder; Hubbel, Garton and McCarty.

Home runs—White, King. Three-base hits—King, Kelly. Two-base hits—Sickling, Kinsella. Umpire—Jess Winters.

Two Recruits Join Squad.

Two new recruits joined the Giants today. One is a catcher named White, who comes from Simmons College in Texas, where Winters came from. There are so many pitchers that another catcher was needed to work with the flingers. White looks just like Earl Smith.

The other recruit is a little third baseman named Thomas, who played last year with Dallas. Thomas is a tiny bit of baseball talent, but he has lots of speed.

Arthur Nehf, the pitcher, is the longest fungo hitter of the crowd. Nehf batted out flies so far this afternoon that many of his smashes carried to the clubhouse.

Mathewson's skill as a checker player has long been known in Texas, and every evening the Giants' coach has been playing with some of San Antonio's checker masters. Matty has had no trouble in holding his own.

Ross Young, whose home is in this city, is a sort of local hero. Young has been playing Winter golf here and is in good shape. He has a large touring car, and his teammates have enjoyed several trips around the city.

Arthur Fletcher went out to his old place at shortstop this afternoon during the fielding practice after the six-inning game and took part in a little speedy work for the first time this season. In order to give Ed Sicking a trial at third Manager McGraw shifted Frisch back to second.

HEADS OF BASEBALL HERE.

Heydler and Johnson Will Hold Conferences This Week.

Presidents John Heydler of the National League and B. B. Johnson of the American League will hold several conferences here this week on many questions perjaining to the two major leagues. Johnson arrived yesterday, and plans to remain here several days. One of the important subjects to be discussed is the Chairmanship of the National Commission, made vacant by the resignation of August Herrmann.

It was said last night that a positive announcement on Herrmann's successor might not be made this week, but both Heydler and Johnson are hoping to reach an agreement.

POLY PREP SWIMMERS WIN.

Close Successful Season by Defeating Erasmus, 41—12.

The Poly Prep swimmers ended their schedule of dual meets yesterday afternoon at their own pool, in Brooklyn, and celebrated the close of their second successful season by trouncing the Erasmus Hall watermen, 41 to 12. Poly Prep took the 200-yard relay event with ease and went on through the meet winning every first place, two seconds and two thirds. Erasmus scored from three second places and three thirds.

Seattle Gets Jack Adams.

PHILADELPHIA, March 10.—Jack Adams, who last season was first string catcher for the Philadelphia National League team, has been purchased by Seattle of the Pacific Coast International League. Adams came to Philadelphia in 1915 from the New York Giants. He was involved in the deal which brought Demaree, Stock and Adams here in exchange for Lobert. Now that the Phillies have Wheat and Tragesser, Manager Cravath decided to part with Adams.

Eddie Roush to Sign Contract.

CINCINNATI, March 10.—Eddie Roush, centre fielder of the world champions, Cincinnati Nationals, announced here today he would sign his contract for the coming season at the Reds' training camp in Miami, Fla. Roush arrived here after an arduous motor trip from his farm at Oakland City, Ind. President Herrmann left for Miami today.

Bob Martin Scores Knockout.

KALAMAZOO, Mich., March 10.—Bob Martin, heavyweight champion of the A. E. F., scored a technical knockout over Jack Riley of Fort Wayne in the first round of their scheduled ten-round battle tonight.

Leader, De Ruyter. Record, 1,505 miles and 1 lap, made by Goullet and Grenda in 1914.

Frenzied efforts by the other thirteen teams to dislodge Maurice Brocco and Charles Deruyter from the one-lap lead secured by them on Monday evening furnished plenty of thrills for the 10,000 fans gathered for the close of the third day's proceedings in the six-day bicycle race at Madison Square Garden last night. Throughout the morning and afternoon hours yesterday the leading pair were compelled to fight off continual assaults on their privacy, but when the evening sprints had been completed, the Italian-Belgian team was still in front.

The hot pace that was maintained in the official evening sprints resulted in the withdrawal at 9:15 of one cycler, John Stahle, who has been showing signs of distress for the last two nights. Weber, his partner, had four and a half hours in which to find a new team mate, and if unsuccessful, under the rules, would be compelled to withdraw.

Other riders were beginning to show the strain last night. Oscar Egg, who received a nasty fall on Tuesday evening, returned to the grind early in the morning. The Swiss Veteran, however, was not through with the jinx and his bad luck kept right on his heels. At the end of the fourth official sprint Egg and Joe Kopsky got into a tangle on the Fourth Avenue curve with the result that both riders went down.

Kopsky and Egg Collide.

Kopsky started the melee when he shot out from the pack and took a slight lead, with Egg at his heels. As the pair rounded the curve in front of the press box Kopsky's machine slid down the embankment to the flat, and the Swiss slashed into him head on. Attendants rescued the pair, and a few minutes later Egg relieved his partner, Madden, and won the fourth sprint.

In a sprint for the final lap of the race, Alfred Goullet and Jake Magin and Egg and Madden came the closest yet to regaining the lap lost to Brocco and Deruyter on Monday. Goullet started the jam by catapulting himself from the pack and like the proverbial bronco from the hills. He quickly increased the initial advantage until he was a half a lap in the van.

At this juncture Egg left the pack in pursuit, overtook Goullet and passed him on a curve, while the crowd shouted and whistled. A row went into the most frenzied demonstration of the evening. Egg not only kept out in front, but steadily drew away from the other racers until he was more than three-quarters of a lap ahead. At this point he was relieved by his partner, Eddie Madden, and the latter lacking the steam to keep up the breakneck pace was soon caught and surrounded by the field. The jam lasted ten minutes.

The Score by Points.

The point score at the end of the ten official sprints last night was:

Brocco-Deruyter	220	Coburn-Kopsky	70
Goullett-Magin	194	Lang-Chapman	60

The team of Egg and Madden won a $100 prize offered by a fan for the team scoring most points in the evening sprints. Brocco and Deruyter, whose one lap lead automatically makes them winner of six points in every official sprint, were put on a par with the other racers, the officials deciding that the title should be lifted for the special award. Egg and Madden scored thirty-three points, carrying off the $100, by winning four firsts and four thirds, besides a number of lesser places.

The most exciting sprint of the evening was the fourth, in which Egg went down for his second spill. Maurice Brocco shot away from the pack for a quarter-lap lead and maintained the advantage by some top speed pedaling. On the Madison Avenue curve, however, Jake Magin swooped down from the top of the saucer and wrested the lead from the Italian. After making two turns at a high clip, Magin was overtaken, and the pace slowed down again to a leisurely speed.

At 1:15 A. M. Fred Weber, whose partner, John Staehle, had withdrawn four hours earlier, was officially declared out of the race. Weber reported to the officials that he had been unable to find another team mate in the time allowed him by the rules. Staehle's trouble was given as nervous indigestion caused by an old injury to the spine.

Valparaiso University Added to Harvard Football Schedule

Special to the New York Times.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., March 10.—Valparaiso University, one of the five institutions desirous of filling the Oct. 9 date on the Harvard football schedule, was notified today of local acceptance by F. W. Moore, graduate manager of the Harvard Athletic Association. Little is known of the prospects of the Western team for next Fall. In seven games last Fall only one reverse was met by Valparaiso, the Notre Dame eleven winning by a score of 7 to 0. Among the unsuccessful candidates for the open date were Marietta College, Washington and Jefferson, Haskell Institute, and Detroit University.

TEAM OF 8 CYCLISTS TO REPRESENT U. S.

Olympic Program This Year Will Include Track Races as Well as Road Events.

A team of eight cyclists, composed of the leading amateurs of the country, will wear the Old Glory emblem in the seventh Olympic games at Antwerp, Belgium, next Summer. Harold J. Dibblee, a member of the Cycling Committee, a subcommittee of the American Olympic Committee, divulged this feature of the plans for the coming world classic last night at Madison Square Garden. Dibblee is Chairman of the Board of Referees of the six-day cycling race.

According to Dibblee the final tryouts will be held in the East, presumably at Vailsburg, N. J., on the outskirts of Newark. These tryouts will follow a series of sectional tryouts which will be held in the different parts of the country where the sport thrives.

With respect to the road racing tryouts, officials are in somewhat of a quandary. Difficulty is being experienced, because of automobile traffic, in finding favorable roads where the cyclists can compete for the honor of going to Belgium. When road tryouts were held prior to the 1912 games at Stockholm the riders raced over Long Island roads and it is possible the same section will be selected for the coming events.

Subscriptions have already been received for the fund which will be used in defraying the expenses of the team abroad. On the basis which is being employed in estimating the expenses of other teams the outlay will be $1,000 a man, or a total of $8,000.

In considering the field of likely candidates for positions on the team Dibbee named the following riders as among the leading track and road stars of the country: Anthony Young, Syracuse Wheelmen; Fred Taylor, New York A. C.; Fred Laux, Empire City Wheelmen; Walter Stein, C. R. C.; Jerry Nunziata, Anthony Attardi, Unione Sportiva Italiana, and Fred Lake, New York A. C.

The team will lack one member of being as large as the team which went to Stockholm. On that occasion nine riders were sent abroad for the road race at 200 miles, the only cycling event held. C. O. Schutte of Chicago was third, the first American to finish. In our struggle America finished fifth, third behind Sweden and Great Britain.

INTER-CITY TENNIS MATCH.

New York and Boston to Meet on Indoor Courts at Longwood.

An intercity indoor tennis match will be played at the Longwood Cricket Club, Boston, next Saturday and Sunday, March 13 and 14, with New York and Boston as the contenders. The New York team has already been tentatively picked, and includes Beals Wright, Watson M. Washburn, Dean Mathey, Leonard Beekman, Ichiya Kumagae, S. Howard Voshell, Frank T. Anderson, Samuel Hardy and Julian S. Myrick. Some of these players are still in the South, but it is thought that most of them will be available by the end of the week.

On the Boston side will be the former national champion, Richard Norris Williams, 2d; Richard Harte, Harry C. Johnson, N. W. Niles and other stars of national prominence. This will be the first intercity match played this Winter in which the contestants are not limited to a single club on each side. The Longwood covered courts are generally considered the best in America, and some first-class tennis should result.

Strangler Lewis Wins Match.

ROCHESTER, N. Y., March 10.—Ed. (Strangler) Lewis, heavyweight wrestler, threw Jack Edwards, Pacific Coast champion, twice here tonight in an hour and thirteen minutes, using the headlock for both falls.

MUNROE DEFEATED IN SQUASH MATCH

Loses to Richards in Harvard Club's Class B Winter Handicap Tourney.

Another high ranking squash tennis player dropped out of the Harvard Club's Class B Winter handicap tournament yesterday afternoon, when J. A. Richards defeated John Munroe in three close games by scores of 5—17, 15—10, 18—15. Both of these men were carrying the same heavy impost of minus five, and, therefore, played on even terms, and there was little to choose between them as the match progressed.

Munroe was slightly steadier at the outset, and took the opening game after extra points had been called, chiefly by refusing to make errors in the crucial rallies. Richards, who was a semi-finalist in this year's national Class B tournament, then began to employ all the court tactics at his command, placing the ball with great cleverness and changing pace constantly, so that his opponent seldom had a chance to get set for a kill. After some exceedingly brilliant play the match was all square at 15—10.

The rubber was a toss-up all the way, the two contestants alternating in taking the lead, and extra points being forced again at thirteen all. In a desperate finish, in which speed was added to accuracy, Richards pulled ahead in the additional hands and clinched his victory by the narrow margin of 18—15. His success placed him in the fourth round of the tournament.

J. W. Burden, also handicapped with the top-notchers of the event, came through to the same round, as did Murray Taylor, playing from scratch. The former had the more difficult assignment of the two. He first had to dispose of B. Pitman, who enjoyed a start of ten points and one hand, and it required three hard games to accomplish the feat. Burden lost the opener at 11—15, but reversed matters in the second, and squared the match by the same score in spite of his rival's big handicap. The rubber went into extra points, but once Burden had caught up he had no trouble in running off the five aces needed for victory, holding Pitman scoreless meanwhile.

In his third-round meeting with R. H. Cobb, the winner faced a task of almost equal magnitude, and again three games were required to reach a decision. The opener was an extra-point affair, Burden eventually putting it to his credit at 18—15. He seemed to tire in the second, and lost it at 11—15, but rallied strongly for the rubber and claimed the match by a reversal of the same score. The summaries:

Second Round—F. H. Babcock (plus 9) defeated A. C. Smith (plus 9), 15—6, 15—4; John Munroe (minus 5) defeated A. Richard (plus 6), 15—11, 18—15; J. W. Burden (minus 5) defeated B. Pitman (plus 10 and one hand), 11—15, 15—11, 18—13; R. H. Carson, Jr., (plus 6) defeated G. N. Richard (minus 5), 15—0, 15—12; H. Munroe (plus 6) defeated A. J. Lowrey (plus 6), 15—13, 15—10.

Third Round—J. A. Richard (minus 5) defeated John Munroe (minus 5), 15—17, 15—10, 18—15; J. W. Burden (minus 5) defeated H. Cobb (plus 10), 15—10, 11—15, 15—11; Murray Taylor (scratch) defeated J. Elliott (plus 10), 5—15, 15—11, 18—13.

ARMY BEATEN AT POLO.

West Point Riders Yield Again to Durland's Trio.

The excellent horsemanship and accuracy of Herbert Wynn enabled the Durland polo trio to conquer the team from West Point again in the return match, which was played at Durland's Riding Academy last night, the final score being 19½ to 9. The Durland team had won the first match played at West Point a little more than a week ago.

Although the Pointers were well mounted and played a very fast and strong game, they were never able to make the contest close. From the very start, the Durland trio had the lead and continued to increase it in the course of the four periods played. Wynn was the star of the match, and time after time won applause with his shots. He scored twelve goals of the total made by his team, and penalized half a point for a foul committed against Brown.

On the other hand, Rafferty played a strong game for the visitors, and was responsible for three of the goals made by the visitors.

The score:

DURLANDS (19½).	WEST POINT (9).
1—George Sherman.	1—Pat Rafferty.
2—Archie Kelly.	2—Owen Nelson.
Back—Herbert Wynn.	Back—Capt. Brown.

Goals—Durlands: First period, Sherman (2), Wynn (5); second period, Sherman, Wynn (2); third period, Sherman (2), Kelly (2), Wynn (3); fourth period, Sherman, Wynn (2). West Point: First period, Rafferty; second period, Rafferty, Nelson (3), Brown; third period, Rafferty; fourth period, Nelson, Brown. Penalty—Durlands: Wynn, ½ for foul.

Referee—Earl Hopping.

Canada's Challenge for Davis Cup Is Rejected by Australians

SYDNEY, N. S. W., March 5.—The Australian Lawn Tennis Association has rejected Canada's challenge for the Davis Cup, the world's premier tennis trophy, on the ground of its having arrived after the expiration of the time limit for challenges. It is suggested, however, that Canada apply to the other challenging nations for a redraw.

The challenges received before the time limit expired were from the United States, England, Holland and South Africa. It is not likely that any of the challenging countries would object to Canada's being admitted into the competition. Strict adherence to the rules governing the Davis Cup play is undoubtedly the only reason for the refusal of Canada's entry on the part of the Australian Lawn Tennis Association.

PICK FIVE GUNNERS FOR OLYMPIC TEAM

Officials Choose Arie, Troeh, Wright, Henderson and Clark —Must Pay Own Expenses.

Five of the seven amateur trapshooters who will represent the United States in the Olympic games at Antwerp in July have been chosen. These five will be the regular shooters in the individual events, and with a sixth man will comprise the team that will compete in the team matches. Those decided upon are: Mark Arie of Illinois, Frank Troeh of Vancouver, Frank Wright of Buffalo, the amateur champion; Woolfolk Henderson of Lexington, Ky., and Jay Clark of Worcester, Mass.

Clark was appointed Captain of the team at the recent meeting of the American Trapshooting Association held at the headquarters in this city. At the same time it was decided to give Clark full power to select the shooters to make the trip, and at that time Clark stated that he would select two amateurs and two professionals to assist him in making the choices.

It has been learned that Clark will name these men as well as the two others allowed under the rules governing the Olympic games at the meeting of the American Olympic Committee in this city on Saturday. These are undoubtedly the strongest amateur shots in this country. Arie led the amateurs during the season of 1919, while Henderson was second, Troeh third and Wright fifth. Clark was among the first fifty and had an average of about .96. Arie, Henderson, Troeh and Wright all averaged better than .97.

It has also been decided to ask each of the shooters selected to pay his own expenses. This is not a satisfactory an arrangement as the officials hoped for, and no doubt when the official announcement is made, it will be greeted with much adverse criticism. But those in charge are of the opinion that it is the only feasible way, because the time before the team will have to sail for Belgium is so short.

The advisability of staging one large tournament or a series of tournaments to raise the money was given consideration, but the idea was finally discarded. It is understood that several of the shooters have expressed their willingness to dip deep into their own pockets. It is estimated that the trip will cost at least $7,000, or about $1,000 a man. In spite of the willingness of the men to pay their own way, shooters in general regard it as unfair. Of all the other representative teams that are sent to Antwerp as units of the American Olympic Team it is probable that only the trapshooters will be asked to pay their own expenses.

This individual tax on the shooters would have been unnecessary had the original plan proposed last year been carried out. At that time it was proposed to tax each shooter in every registered tournament a quarter of a cent for each target shot at. In this way the money would have been easily raised and no individual would have felt the tax. For some reason or other this plan miscarried.

Each of the individuals who will make the trip will be asked to begin practice on the European style of trapshooting as soon as possible.

ENGLAND IS SEEKING $150,000 FOR GAMES

Olympic Officials Optimistic Over Prospects for Strong Team—King Gives $500.

LONDON, March 2 (By mail).—Britain will be able to send a team to the Olympic Games in Antwerp in August, of which this country may be proud, it is declared by the British Olympic Association in a public appeal for the equivalent of approximately $150,000 to finance the undertaking.

"The time for preparation is short, as it is for all the countries engaged," says the statement. "But thanks to the magnificent training through which our young manhood has passed in the years of war we have, in spite of our appalling losses, rich material upon which to draw if properly developed.

"We have little to guide us as to the measure of our success in competition with other countries, but we have no doubt of being able to send a representation of which the country may be justly proud, provided the means of doing so are placed at our disposal.

"All that is needed is that we should be able to give encouragement to every promising athlete, without withdrawing him from his ordinary occupation, or doing anything which could impair the full integrity of his status as an amateur."

The King is taking an interest in the preparations for the games, and has expressed the hope that every effort be made to insure the United Kingdom a representative team of athletes. Incidentally, he has subscribed one hundred pounds ($500) to the association funds.

New York Boxer Outpoints Lightweight Champion of England.

DETROIT, Mich., March 10.—Eddie Fitzsimmons, New York, defeated Johnny Sheppard, lightweight champion of England, in a ten-round bout here tonight. The English champion was severely punished in the closing rounds, being knocked down five times in the eighth round and twice in the ninth.

Tommy Robson, Malden, Mass., outfought Chip of New Castle, Pa., in ten rounds.

Matt Brock of Cleveland knocked out Babe Picato of Chicago in the third round of a scheduled ten-round go with a left hook to the jaw.

WEDDING CROWD HOAXED.

Paris Police Call Carpentier to Disperse Throng at the Church.

PARIS, March 10.—An announcement that the religious marriage ceremony for Georges Carpentier, the heavyweight pugilist, and Miss Georgette Laurentia Elasse would be celebrated at a Paris church Tuesday proved to be an error. Crowds appeared before the church, blocking the street, and finally the police requested Carpentier and his bride, whose civil marriage took place in the City Hall Monday, to appear and disperse the throng. This they did. Later Carpentier said the date for the church wedding had not been set.

N. Y. U., RUTGERS AND CRESCENT A. C. BASKET BALL TEAMS WINNERS IN NATIONAL TOURNAMENT

NEW YORK FIVES WIN AT ATLANTA

Crescent A. C. and New York University Basket Ball Teams Score in National Tourney.

RUTGERS ALSO A VICTOR

Defeats University of Georgia by Great Rally at End of Game by Score of 35 to 33.

Special to The New York Times.

ATLANTA, Ga., March 10.—The national basket ball tournament, under the auspices of the Atlanta Athletic Club, opened here this afternoon. Five games were played in the afternoon and three at night. There is much enthusiasm over the tourney, at least 4,000 spectators crowding the great auditorium, where a court has been constructed.

Today's games resulted as follows:

Crescent A. C. of Brooklyn, 45; Northern Paper Mills, Green Bay, Wis., 20.

New York University, 86; Houston, Texas, Y. M. C. A., 21.

Rutgers College, 36; University of Georgia, 33.

University of Utah, 61; Charlotte, N. C., Y. M. C. A., 20.

Kansas City A. C., 65; Spartanburg, S. C., Y. M. C. A., 26.

Los Angeles A. C., 45; Kentucky-Indiana Terminal Railroad, Louisville, Ky., 22.

Atlantic Athletic Club, 37; University of Tennessee, 29.

Young Men's Order, Detroit, 53; Union Club, Belvidere, Ill., 20.

Displaying better team work and more shooting ability, the Crescent Athletic Club five from Brooklyn defeated the Northern Paper Mills outfit by the score of 45 to 30. The Brooklyn quintet showed itself from the start to be a group of seasoned veterans. Their passing was superb, and they played together at all times. The one fault seemingly in the play of the Crescent Club was the attempt at too many spectacular goals. This could hardly be called a fault, however, for a remarkable number of their long shots counted. Standing almost in the middle of the court, time after time a red-jerseyed player would fling the ball through the basket without even grazing the sides of the rim.

The lineup:

CRES. CITY A.C.(45)	NORTH. P. M. (30).
Kinney, R.F.	Wilson
Farmele, L.F.	Medley
McTigue, C.	W. Leaper
Nicholas, R.G.	Wheeler
Griffin, L.G.	Dwyer

Goals from floor—Kinney (5), Farmele (3), McTigue (3), Nichols (4), Medley (5), Wilson, W. Leaper, Wheeler (3), Dwyer (2). Foul goals—Crescent City A. C., 13; Northern Paper Mills, 16.

Substitutions—Crescent A. C.: Griffin for McTigue, Dayton for Griffin; Paper Mills: Rosenow for W. Leaper, G. Leaper for Wheeler.

Referee—Mr. Lange. Umpire—Tom Tharp. Time of halves—Twenty minutes.

Violets Wins Easily.

The New York University quintet entered the basket ball series at the expense of the lighter and less experienced aggregation of the Houston Y. M. C. A. without any difficulty. The New York players piled up a total of 86 points, while the Texans were held to a feable 21.

The Houston "Y" team was never able to solve the New York system of passing, and seemed to be at sea practically throughout the game. Once or twice during the game, for short periods, the Texas team seemed to take new life and exhibited some great passing. These spurts were always nipped in the bud before they could do any damage, however, and then the game went merrily on as before, with the ball in Houston's territory most of the time.

During the second half, Lamotte, playing at forward for the Houston team, came into violent contact with one of the New York players, and was knocked out. A flying elbow caught him directly on the point of the chin and floored him. He struggled gamely to his feet, however, after a few minutes rest, and pluckily finished the game.

Cann, at forward for New York, shot a total of 28 points, all of these representing goals from the floor. He was closely followed by Goeller, at forward, and Mooney at centre, with 24 and 20 points, respectively.

The lineup:

N. Y. U. (86).	HOUSTON "Y" (21).
Cann, R.F.	Lamotte
Goeller, L.F.	Letterest
Mooney, C.	Secor
Delaney, R.G.	Davis
Baker, L.G.	Webb

Substitutions—Houston: Johnson for Webb, Cann for Secor; New York: Storey for Delaney, Holman for Goeller.

Goals from floor—Cann (14), Goeller (12), Mooney (11), Delaney, Baker (2), Storey, Lamotte, Letterest, Secor (3), Davis (2), Johnson. Goals from foul—Letterest (2), Secor (3), Mooney (4).

Canadian Curlers Invited to Visit Scotland Next Winter

Special to The New York Times.

MONTREAL, Quebec, March 10.—Secretary G. S. Pearcy of the Ontario Curling Association has received a communication from Davidson Smith of Edinburgh, Secretary of the Royal Caledonian Curling Club, dealing with the proposed trip of the Canadian curlers to Scotland next year. Mr. Smith suggests that the tour be made so that the games can be played next January and that the team of six rinks be chosen from the various associations throughout Canada and be as representative as possible of each district. Mr. Pearcy is requested to communicate with the Secretaries of the Canadian, Quebec, Manitoba and Nova Scotia branches regarding sending representatives. The last trip was made in 1909. Secretary Pearcy will send out circulars to members of the O. C. A., asking that they nominate a candidate for the trip.

DEVANEY HITS TAPE IN FRONT OF LESLIE

Millrose Star Wins Two-Thirds of a Mile Feature Run in Legion Games at Newark.

Special to The New York Times.

NEWARK, March 10.—Mike A. Devaney of the Millrose A. A. won a sensational victory in the two-thirds-of-a-mile run in the Frank B. Whitney Post, American Legion, games held in the First Regiment Armory, Newark, tonight. Devaney was timed in 2:44 3-5, which is one-fifth of a second slower than the world's outdoor record, held by Mel Sheppard.

Sidney Leslie, also a Millrose representative, was second, two yards back, and Allen Swede of Princeton University, third. Harvey Reed, Yale University, also started from scratch, but quit the task when far in the ruck in the final lap.

A great fight ensued for the lead throughout. Swede led at the half-way mark, but was soon passed by Leslie. The latter held command until the starting of the final lap when Devaney sprinted past him. In assuming the lead Devaney collided with Leslie, knocking the latter back. Leslie gave mad chase, but the accident made it impossible for him to make up the lost ground.

Princeton University easily defeated Columbia in a match relay race at one mile. The Tigers led throughout, setting a killing pace for their rivals.

Gus Desch of Notre Dame captured the 30-yard low hurdle race in 6 1-5 seconds. This effort equals the world's record for the distance over four hurdles. However, only three hurdles were used.

John Murphy of Notre Dame University turned the tables on Egon Erickson when the pair met in the running high jump. Both started from scratch, Murphy clearing 6 feet 3 inches and Erickson one inch less. Murphy later attempted a height of 6 feet 5 inches to establish a new world's indoor mark, but failed.

It was announced that Loren Muchinson, was announced that Loren Muchinson, New York A. C., had won the 150-yard special in 14 4-5 seconds. This is one second better than the world's outdoor straightaway record credited to Charles H. Sherrill. It later developed that the timers stationed themselves at the wrong finish line.

The summaries:

150-Yard Dash, Special Scratch—Won by Loren Muchison, New York A. C.; Dan Caprio, Knights of St. Antony, second; Frank Conway, Morningside A. C., third. Time—0:16 1-5.

880-Yard Run, Handicap—Won by F. P. Reffellinger, Yale University (13 yards); Jack Sellers, New York A. C. (scratch), second; Eliot Balestier, Knights of St. Antony, (8 yards), third. Time—1:35 2-5.

RAY WINS "1,000" RACE.

Illinois Star Captures Feature at American Legion Games.

TRENTON, N. J., March 10.—Showing their heels to the field in club competition, the crack Meadow Brook Club of Philadelphia carried off the point trophy in the American Legion games at the Second Regiment Armory here tonight, amassing a total of 45 points. Pennsylvania was second with 10 points, while Princeton finished one point behind the U. of P. flyers. The other clubs were outclassed.

Joie Ray of the Illinois A. A. was returned the winner in the special 1,000-yard invitation race, which proved to be the feature of the meet. Bob Crawford, the Lafayette star, and W. E. Irwin of the University of Pennsylvania, opposed the Illinois athlete, but Ray romped home in front by seven yards, with Crawford second.

The three-mile run was won by A. Hisler, Jr., of the Meadowbrook Club, who barely nosed out H. C. Ackerman of the same club.

One of the surprises of the meet was the defeat of Willie Plant, the national walking champion, who was forced to surrender to W. J. Rolker of the New York Athletic Club. Rolker had a substantial handicap on the champion and made the best of it, finishing with a splendid display of speed. "Dick" Hamer was third.

Walter Whalen, the Boston A. A. star high jumper, was the winner in the event, crossing the bar at the height of 6 feet.

OPPORTUNITY FAILS TO RUN A DISTANCE

William Woodward's Sprinter Is a Disappointment in Race at New Orleans.

NEW ORLEANS, La., March 10.—The form players at Jefferson Park had a chance today to learn that William Woodward's Opportunity, though a consistently good performer, is only a sprinter and is not entitled to confidence over a greater distance than six furlongs. Proof of this was offered in the running of the Magnolia Purse at a mile and seventy yards, in which Opportunity was made the favorite, but had to be content to finish third to Dixie Carroll and Hadrian in a field of eight starters.

As Opportunity had shown very good form in the sprint events in which he has taken part here he was made a favorite at 2 to 1 in the feature event today, and had the race been the distance he is accustomed to, he would have been the winner. For six furlongs he had all of his usual speed and led the others a merry chase but when it came to going on he failed miserably and folded up in the run through the stretch so that a 5-to-1 shot took the long end of the purse.

The summaries:

FIRST RACE—For maiden two-year-olds, purse $600; three and a half furlongs. Superb, 115 pounds (Lyke), 7 to 1, 2 to 1 and 2 to 1, first; Buddie Kean, 115 (Rodriques), 2 to 1, even and 2 to 5, second; Oh Yes, 112 (Wilds), 7 to 2, 6 to 5 and 1 to 2, third. Time—0:43. Loch Levon, Crutches, Mary Erb, Voormel and Handsel 2 also ran.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., March 10.—Penn continued its unbroken record of basket ball victories by defeating Yale tonight, 44 to 16. From start to finish the Elis were outclassed and the Quakers scored practically three times as often, leading, 27 to 5, at intermission.

Captain Van Slyck of Yale, who began the game leading the league by four points as individual scorer, was passed by Sweeney, who registered twenty points to Van Slyck's ten during the contest.

Pennsylvania's smoothly operating team game reeled off scores with machine-like regularity. Yale scored only one field goal in the first half, when Hamill toted a long basket side-third the length of the hall. Yale penetrated the visitors' defense more easily in the second half, tallying 11 points to 17 for Penn. Rosenast and Sweeney were in excellent scoring form, while the defensive work of Peck and McNichol checked the Eli attack.

This was Yale's first game of the league season.

The lineup:

PENN. (44).	YALE (16).
Rosenast, L.F.	Van Slyck
Sweeney, R.F.	Alderman
Grave, C.	Hamill
McNichol, L.G.	Flynn
Peck, R.G.	Cohen

Goals from floor—Rosenast (5), Sweeney (7), Grave (4), McNichol (2), Peck, Van Slyck, Alderman (3), Hamill, Cohen. Goals from foul—Van Slyck, 6 out of 13; Sweeney, 6 out of 7.

Substitutions—Yale: Jameson for Alderman, Crane for Cohen, Pennsylvania: Scott for McNichol, Hustenger for Rasmusen, Yates for Grave.

Referee—Mr. O'Shea of Brooklyn. Umpire—Mr. Cochran of New York. Time of halves—Twenty minutes.

MIDDLETOWN, Conn., March 10.—Edward H. Tomlinson of Elizabeth, N. J., was today elected captain of the Wesleyan University basketball team for next year.

SURPRISE SPRUNG IN HAVANA RACE

Belle of Elizabethtown Shows Sudden Improvement and Wins Handicap in Cuba.

HAVANA, Cuba, March 10.—Belle of Elizabethtown proved a surprise when she galloped off with the fourth event, a six-furlong handicap for three-year-olds and upward, at Oriental Park today. Her sudden improvement was anticipated. She was well supported, being held at 5 to 2. It was a very close finish, the first four horses coming to the wire heads apart, and Belle of Elizabethtown was up in the last stride to gain the decision.

The third race went to Phedoden, the even money favorite. He appeared to be defeated in the last sixteenth, but he gamely stuck it out and won by half a length.

The summaries:

FIRST RACE—For four-year-olds; claiming purse $600; six furlongs. Buster Clark 107 pounds (Wilson), 6 to 1, 5 to 2 and 6 to 5, first; Avion 110 (Barsse), 6 to 5, 1 to 2 and 1 to 4, second; Top Rung 101 (Chiavetta), 5 to 1, 2 to 1 and even, third. Time—1:13 1-5. Lady Langden, Cafeteria, Sky Man and Mike Dixon also ran.

SECOND RACE—For three-year-olds and upward; claiming; purse $600; six furlongs. Arthur Middleton 106 pounds (Chiavetta), 8 to 5, 7 to 10 and 1 to 5, first; Timothy A. Hogan 103 (Tryon), 5 to 1, 3 to 1 and 8 to 5, second; Rose 99 (Fletcher), 5 to 1, 6 to 5 and 3 to 5, third. Time—1:14 1-5. Baby Bonds, Quin, Miserlcurde, Lady Ivan and Manokin also ran.

PRIMAKOW WINS ANOTHER.

Defeats Owles in National Three-Cushion Billiard Tournament.

G. E. Van Arsdale	0	4	5	.000

Joseph Primakow added another victory to his string at Joe Thum's Academy last night in the national three-cushion championship tournament of the American Amateur Billiard Association. His latest victim was Fred G. Owles. The score was 50 to 46, and, while the game lasted 119 innings, it was close and interesting play. As a result Primakow is now tied for the lead with William Blumenthal, each of these players having won three games and lost none.

The form that Primakow has shown in his matches in this event has elevated him to the position of favorite. Although Owles gave him a real battle and the lead alternated between the players, Primakow gave the impression of a player who was playing well within himself. In other words, the faster Owles played just so much faster did Primakow play. It was a game of thrills, with both players making high runs of 5.

EDGAR APPLEBY IS BEATEN BY SPEAR

Loses Handicap Match to Class C Player in Poggenberg Cup Billiard Tournament.

One of the biggest surprises of the season was sprung at the National Recreation Academy last night when George Spear, a Class C player, defeated Edgar T. Appleby, a Class A player, by a score of 115 to 112. Playing in the fourth annual 18.2 balkline billiard handicap tournament for the J. F. Poggenberg Cup, Spear, who plays for 115 points while Appleby plays for 250 points, defeated Appleby even. The afternoon match Robert Steinbugler defeated Louis A. Servatius 115 to 64. Both men are Class C players.

Naturally, the match between Appleby and Spear was the centre of interest. It was the first appearance of Appleby since he finished third in the national Class A championship tournament at Boston. He has shown such excellent form in the Hub that he was generally favored to win last night's match in spite of the big handicap he was compelled to give his opponent. But Edgar could not get going. His best effort was a cluster of 23, but in a number of the innings he failed to count at all.

Spear realised that his only chance lay in a liberal application of "oil" and he played Appleby safe continually. After the game Appleby advanced one of the most novel alibis ever heard. He said the balls were too light and got away from him continually. Usually players complain that the ivory is too heavy, but seldom does a player complain of its being too light. In other words, Appleby said the balls were too good. He explained that they were much lighter than the balls that were used in Boston.

Steinbugler jumped into the lead soon held it to the end.

The scores by innings:

Mount Pleasant Five Wins Game.

The Mount Pleasant Military Academy's basket ball team scored an easy victory over the Washington Irving High School on the former's court at Ossining yesterday afternoon by a score of 58 to 16. The winners took the lead soon after the start of the game and were never headed. They scored almost at will.

Columbia Riflemen Score 967.

The fourth match in the intercollegiate rifle competition yesterday afternoon at Columbia resulted in a score of 967 targets out of 1,000 for the Blue and White marksmen. Captain L. R. Condon was high man yesterday with 107 out of 200. Other scores were: F. B. Monell, 196; J. P. Kleninger, 194; W. F. Schweitzer, 191, and R. W. Kerr, 190.

THOMPSON VICTOR IN LONG GOLF TILT

Yale Player Puts Medalist, Gammons, Out of Palm Beach Tourney on 22d Hole.

Special to The New York Times.

PALM BEACH, Fla., March 10.—In a remarkable match that went 22 holes and was played close to par, each man having a medal score of 72 for the first 18, John A. Gammons, medalist in the tourney for the championship of Palm Beach, was put out in today's second round by a youngster, J. S. Thompson, of St. Paul, a member of the Yale Golf Team. In the lower half of the bracket, the Lake Worth champion, Charles Amory, of Brookline, was beaten 3 and 2 by Hugh J. Willoughby, Jr., Marion, a former South Florida titleholder. Willoughby, in the semi-finals, will meet Harold Webber, Inverness and Thompson is to meet N. P. Bingham, who had a fine round today, defeating T. J. Moran, of the Country Club of Rhode Island, 7 up and 5 to play.

Gammons was 2 down at the turn, in his match with Thompson. He won the tenth in 3, and on the next was dead to the hole in 2, but Thompson's putt, which ran down for a four, knocked him out of position, the hole was halved and it was not until the seventeenth that the match was squared. On the nineteenth Thompson drove into a thicket, but made a fine out, a short pitch over a bunker, and ran down an eighteen foot putt for a half. Gammons missed a short putt, which cost him a half on the twenty-second, and gave Thompson the match.

The summaries:

Second Round—First Division—J. S. Thompson, St. Paul, defeated John A. Gammons, Wannamoisett, 1 up, 22 holes; N. P. Bingham, New York, defeated T. J. Moran, Country Club of Rhode Island, 7 and 5; Hugh J. Willoughby, Jr., Marion, defeated Charles Amory, Brookline, 3 and 2; Harold Webber, Inverness, defeated J. S. Kenyon, Wannamoisett, 3 and 2.

Second Division—George Nicolai, Oakland, won from J. P. Magee, Omaha, by default; E. J. Northwood, Scarborough, defeated B. H. Pelser, Essex County, 5 and 3; Myron L. Keith, Brockton, defeated A. R. Gibson, Rosedale, 1 up; G. W. Bartlett, Bangor Hill, defeated Phillip Corbin, Shuttle Meadows, 5 and 3.

Columbia Riflemen Score 967.

The fourth match in the intercollegiate rifle competition yesterday afternoon at Columbia resulted in a score of 967 targets out of 1,000 for the Blue and White marksmen. Captain L. R. Condon was high man yesterday with 107 out of 200. Other scores were: F. B. Monell, 196; J. P. Kleninger, 194; W. F. Schweitzer, 191, and R. W. Kerr, 190.

MRS. MORROW IS WINNER.

Defeats Mrs. Stetson in Golf Match on Florida Links.

Special to The New York Times.

BELLAIRE HEIGHTS, Fla., March 10.—Mrs. G. K. Morrow of the Engineers' Club will meet Miss Edith Cummings of Chicago in the finals for the women's championship of Bellaire. Mrs. Morrow defeated Mrs. G. Henry Stetson of Philadelphia today by 3 and 2, and in so doing made her best score of the tournament.

She was around in 93, after a rather poor start. At the eleventh hole she was 1 down, but played fine golf from that point in. Mrs. Morrow won the championship here in 1918, but last year she played little golf on account of sickness.

APPOINTS PRINCIPAL OPPOSED BY PUPILS

Education Board Names Arthur A. Boylan to New George Washington School.

BRONX MUST TAKE WADE

Recommendation by Controller as to Spending of $15,000,000 Is Rejected.

The Board of Education at its meeting yesterday unanimously appointed Arthur A. Boylan as Principal of the new George Washington High School on Washington Heights. A large delegation of residents of that section, including pupils of the school, who wanted Frank M. Wheat, Acting Principal, appointed to the place, was present. Mr. Boylan was nominated by the Board of Superintendents.

John E. Wade was elected District Superintendent to represent the Bronx by a unanimous vote in spite of the protest by President Henry Bruckner of the Bronx and others who, last Monday, asked that a Bronx resident be elected to the place. Mr. Wade is a Principal in Manhattan. The board appointed Mrs. Evelyn W. Allan of the Julia Richman High School as Principal of the new Commercial High School for Girls in Public School 42, Brooklyn. Several women who wished to speak for Rowena Keyes, Principal of the old school, were informed by President Prall that the name of Miss Keyes was not before the board, and there was no use hearing speeches in her favor. Joseph M. Sheehan was appointed Principal of the Eastern District Evening High School for Men.

The board refused to comply with Controller Craig's recommendation as to the expenditure of $15,000,000 granted by the Board of Estimate for new buildings. It submitted a revised program of building which it requested the financial authorities to approve. The report said the Board of Education "should be permitted to exercise its functions to determine where school buildings shall be erected and where school sites shall be selected."

Resolutions were adopted notifying the Board of Estimate of the action taken and requesting that the school authorities be permitted to proceed with the school building operations in accordance with its own program the cost to be paid out of the proceeds of serial bonds authorized in 1919 and 1920. The Board of Estimate was also requested to consider as "unused school sites" and as such available for sale, plots of ground purchased especially for school playgrounds and for protection of light and air in school buildings. Such plots, it was said, have been intended for the erection of school buildings.

HELD IN HIGH POKER PLAY.

Krohnberg Under $1,000 Bail on Cheating Charge.

Louis Krohnberg, President of the Bijou Waist Company, 303 Fifth Avenue, was held yesterday in $1,000 bail by Justice Kernochan in Special Sessions for examination on Saturday on a charge of obtaining money by fraud or deceit in a game of chance. The warrant followed Justice Kernochan's investigation into a "poker tournament," in which participants are alleged to have lost $350,000 by means of marked cards used by one of the players.

The complainant was Jacob M. Silverman of 1,211 President Street, Brooklyn, whose testimony implicated Krohnberg in the alleged cheating. He described a game in which he said Krohnberg won $15,000 from a player named Lewis. In his testimony and supporting affidavits Silverman asserted that the decks of cards were frequently changed and he lost $7,350.

Silverman testified that he became suspicious of a game being played in Krohnberg's home at 789 West End Avenue and put the deck of cards used in his pocket as he was leaving. Krohnberg accompanied him to the street, he said, and at the latter's suggestion they went to a Turkish bath. They stayed there for the night, Silverman said, occupying the same room. The next morning in his home when he examined the pack of cards he said he discovered another deck had been substituted during the night.

A Japanese butler employed in the home of Joseph Schenck, husband of Norma Talmadge, and employes of a hotel where many of the games were said to have been played, testified at the hearings which have been in progress for several days. Neither Max D. Steuer, attorney for Krohnberg, nor Isadore Kresel of Jerome, Rand & Kresel, representing the group of alleged lessers, would discuss the case last night.

First Census Arrest in Jersey.

PERTH AMBOY, N. J., March 10.—Charged with refusing to give information to the census enumerator, Harry Dubois of Cranbury was held in $100 bail today by United States Commissioner John A. Delaney. This is the first case of the kind in New Jersey.

THEATRICAL NOTES.

Percy MacKaye's "George Washington" will be withdrawn from the Lyric Theatre on Saturday night and Walter Hampden's Hamlet will be seen at that playhouse on Monday.

James K. Hackett will begin his tour in "The Rise of Silas Lapham" at the Montauk Theatre, in Brooklyn, on March 22. His company will include Nanette Comstock, Marjorie Vonnegut and Grace Knell. Mr. Hackett was recently seen in the play at the Garrick Theatre.

Edith Day will leave the cast of "Irene" on Saturday night, and will sail a week later for London, where she is to play the same part. The London production of "Irene" will be made at the Empire Theatre on April 5.

Marjorie Gateson has been engaged for Owen Davis's comedy, "A Week-End Marriage."

Performances of the Ziegfeld Midnight Frolic will be resumed next Monday night. There will be several additions to the company, including Brandon Tynan and Andres Bolanity.

Oliver Morosco will present seven new plays in Los Angeles during the Summer and will also take the original companies of "Mamma's Affair" and "Linger Longer Lotty" to the coast.

Cyril Chadwick and Ethel Remey have been engaged for "Three Live Ghosts," which Mar Marsh is producing.

The company for Maurice Browne's special matinees of "Medea," to begin at the Garrick Theatre on March 22, will include Ellen Van Volkenburg, Morgni Olsen, Janet Young, Henry Stillman, Ralph Roeder and Byron Boulger.

MUSIC NOTES.

Rafael Diaz and Cecil Arden of the Metropolitan, with Oliver Denton, pianist, will appear in a concert at the Hotel Pennsylvania tonight in the interest of the Brooklyn Federation of Jewish Charities.

Geraldine Farrar has recovered from a recent indisposition and will appear as announced tomorrow evening in "Carmen."

John Charles Thomas, baritone here of the Kreisler-Jacobi "Apple Blossoms," will give his annual recital tomorrow in Aeolian Hall.

ORCHESTRAS ASK INCREASE IN PAY

Union Rules, if Accepted for 76 Men, Would Add Expense of $60,000 to Metropolitan.

The high cost of orchestras, a matter of growing interest when contracts are renewing for next season, has been brought home to the Metropolitan management by special provisions under the head of "grand opera" included among 600 changes of bylaws now under discussion by the Musical Mutual Protective Union, Local 310, A. F. of L. Some of the proposed rules call for $50 minimum pay for "eight three-hour performances weekly," or at least $10 a performance, with $5 for each added hour or fraction, and another $5 to go out of town, "including Philadelphia."

While the matter has not been put before the opera directors as yet, it was said yesterday that the changes, if accepted, on the present basis of an average orchestra of seventy-six men at the Metropolitan, would raise the annual cost of this department of opera by some $50,000 or $60,000. The present year has seen the cost of manufactured materials used in costumes and scenery advanced about $70,000, as officially admitted recently, and other "fixed" charges have not declined."

The musicians' new proposals are understood to mean a minimum salary of $2,500 for a twenty-four weeks' season to each orchestra man, who is free to earn more by teaching and playing elsewhere outside that time. A feature of the proposed changes is that of allowing "no free rehearsals."

It is proposed to ask $2 an hour for all rehearsals, none to be less than two hours, or $4 a man, and overtime in proportion of 50 cents a quarter-hour. All the suggested rates, if adopted by the union, will be the subject of negotiation in making the contracts this Spring.

"PARSIFAL" SUNG AT NIGHT

Third Performance of Wagner's Work Again Fills Metropolitan.

"Parsifal" in English for the third time filled the Metropolitan last evening, its only night performance so far. The regular opera subscribers were reinforced by several hundred persons who paid Caruso rates to stand from 7:30 till after 11:30, as the new and massive scenes were again disclosed and the drama of Monsalvat enacted with newly studied sincerity of impersonation and distinction of lyric speech.

Mr. Harrold and Mr. Whitehill, both Americans, again held foremost claim to praise in these particulars. Mme. Matzenauer reappeared, as did also Messrs. Rothier, Diaur, Ananian and others, and the orchestra performed its leading part in Wagner's music under the direction of Mr. Bodanzky.

Anna Case and "Re-Creations."

Anna Case sang soprano airs from "Louise," "La Bohème" and "Pearl of Brazil" at a concert in Carnegie Hall yesterday in combination with Edison "re-creations" of her voice in the same music. Willard Osborne similarly gave the violin "Meditation" from "Thais," and with Victor Young, pianist, the Schubert-Wilhelmj "Ave Maria." The occasion was a special one to illustrate the Edison research work in sound reproduction, and was largely attended.

'WHITEWING' ZONES, PLAN OF LAGUARDIA

Board of Trade and Transportation Hears Street Cleaning Method Suggestion.

EXPECTS BUT ONE TERM

Aldermanic President Foresees His Return to Law Practice in Two Years.

F. H. LaGuardia, President of the Board of Aldermen, who yesterday addressed the New York Board of Trade and Transportation, urged the dividing of the city into zones for street cleaning. He stated that the problem of keeping the streets of this city clean was the most important question now before public officials.

"The fact is," said Mr. LaGuardia, "the city had no equipment with which to meet the emergency the big storms put upon us. The old contract system is antiquated and one of the most vicious things in pubic administration, but its day is past.

"There is one way in which you as business men can be of aid. I believe the city should be divided into zones for street cleaning—the river front, for instance, in which you are all interested. Make that one zone, and have the steamship companies, the transportation lines and the houses whose business is dependent upon access to the river piers assign their own men to the work. The city will pay, of course, and the problem of snow removal would be solved in great measure."

Refering to the traction problem Mr. LaGuardia said:

"No matter how this question is decided, the men who decide are politically dead. I expect to go back to law practice in two years. We don't need any legislation. What we need is management, and above all we need a higher code of ethics, a better realization of duty to the public that is served. The whole trouble has been one of management, and to put it mildly the management has been rotten."

The board through the Executive Committee went on record as opposed to any continued Government control of private business.

WANT STADIUM IN PARK.

Bronx Meeting Favors Placing Rice Memorial at Pelham Bay.

About fifty members of the Taxpayers' Alliance of the Bronx voted unanimously in favor of allowing Pelham Park to be used as the site for the Isaac Rice Memorial Stadium after hearing the plan opposed by Park Commissioner Joseph P. Hennessy and advocated by several others at a meeting at Borough Hall in the Bronx last night.

Commissioner Hennessy argued that the stadium would injure the park by destroying part of its natural beauty and asserted also that the authorities had received no assurances that the money for the structure would actually be turned over to the city.

Borough President Bruckner of the Bronx asserted that the fullest guarantees had been given that the money would be forthcoming. He and others argued that the stadium would add much to the public benefits of the park without detracting from its natural beauty.

TRY TO BIND CAUCUS TO GERRYMANDER

Republican Senators Fail in Effort to Press Burlingame Measure.

FIVE REFUSE TO SUPPORT IT

Sponsor Asserts Jacob L. Livingston, Brooklyn Leader, Wants It —Many Protests Received.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, March 10.—Despite protests from the Bar Association, Judges on the bench and civic organizations against the Burlingame bill, which provides for a partisan gerrymander of the First and Second Judicial Districts, an attempt was made at a conference of the Republican Senators today to insure its passage by making it a caucus measure.

Senator Charles C. Lockwood of Kings declared that the bill was purely political, that what it proposed to do was "bad politics and bad policy." Senator Burlingame asserted the gerrymander was wanted by Jacob L. Livingston, leader of the Republican forces in Kings, and that he was entitled to some consideration.

It was learned after the conference that five Republican Senators had indicated their unwillingness to support the bill. Thus it can be passed only with the aid of Democratic votes, but as Tammany would have a community of interest with the Kings Republicans, there is little doubt that there will be Democratic support for the measure.

Justice Jenks, presiding in the Appellate Division in Brooklyn, sent a telegram to Senator Lockwood protesting against the gerrymander on behalf of himself and his associates, and the New York City Bar Association, the Richmond Bar Association, the Bronx Bar Association, the Republican Organization of Suffolk County and the Brooklyn Young Republican Club have also filed protests.

Naval Orders.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, March 10.—The Bureau of Navigation published the following orders today:

Beehan, Lt. Comdr. J. T., to Train. Sta., Newport, R. I.
Cohen, Lt. M. Y., to command the R-21.
Conover, Lt. J. F., to the AA-1.

Smith, Lt. R. E., to the Reina Mercedes.
Frost, Lt. R., to New York for further duty to Buenos Aires.

The Weather.

WASHINGTON, March 10.—Pressure is quite low over interior districts west of the Mississippi. Although rising rapidly in the extreme Northwest, there is but a single centre of disturbance, which is over Southeast Colorado, and this with the high pressure to the southeastward has caused several rains in the Middle Mississippi and Lower Ohio Valleys and the Gulf States. There were also light local rains and snows in the northern portions of New York and New England and quite general rains and snows west of the Rocky Mountains. In the Plains States and the lake region the weather was generally cloudy.

Temperatures remain high in the Plains States and the Upper Mississippi Valley and have risen generally to the eastward. At Washington the temperature rose above 60 degrees for the first time since Dec. 14, 1918. In the Far West temperatures have fallen and now are nearly normal.

General rains may be expected Thursday and Friday in the lake region, the Ohio Valley and the East and South, except that generally fair weather will prevail Thursday in New England.

In the lake region the rain possibly will turn to snow Friday, with falling temperatures, and it will also be colder Friday in the Ohio Valley and Western Tennessee.

In the Atlantic and Gulf States temperatures will change but little during the next two days.

FORECAST.

Eastern Pennsylvania—Cloudy Thursday, rain in afternoon or night; Friday rain.

Western New York—Rain Thursday in west and Thursday or Thursday night in east; Friday rain possibly turning to snow, colder by night.

Eastern New York, Southern New England—Partly cloudy Thursday, Friday, probably rain.

Northern New England—Fair Thursday, rain or snow Friday or Friday night.

New Jersey and Delaware—Partly cloudy Thursday; Friday rain.

Upper Mich.—Partly cloudy Thurs.; Fri. cloudy, colder, probably snow.

Ohio—Rain Thurs.; Fri. rain in s., rain or snow in n., colder.

The temperature record for the twenty-four hours ended at midnight, taken from the thermometer at the local office of the United States Weather Bureau, is as follows:

1920.	1919.		1920.	1919.
3 A. M.	34	35	4 P. M.	53	50
6 A. M.	33	36	6 P. M.	51	48

The Civil Service.

United States.

The examination announces that as sufficient eligibles to meet the needs of the service have been secured from the examination for accountants for vacancies in the Bureau of Efficiency at salaries ranging from $2,000 to $4,500 a year, no application for this examination will be received until further notice, unless filed with the commission at Washington, D. C., prior to closing business March 30. The paragraph in the original announcement of this examination (No. 535, issued Oct. 27, 1919), stating that competitors who attain an eligible rating in this examination may be required to report in Washington, D. C.; Chicago, Ill., or New York, N. Y., for oral examination, &c., is hereby amended to provide that eligible competitors may be required to report at some nearby convenient point for oral examination to determine their fitness. The examination will be rated in the order of standing, and only to such a number as the service requires. An applicant who fails to pass the oral examination will not be eligible. Applicants will be notified of date and place.

90 barrels of gasoline pass through your engine

What really explodes in your engine

GALLON after gallon—day after day—gasoline pours through your engine. 90 barrels in the life of the average car.

What is this fuel doing to your engine? How is it affecting your valves, your pistons, cylinders and bearings?

Engineers state that ordinary gasoline is the cause of many of the most common engine troubles. Such fuel vaporizes slowly, contaminates the lubricating oil, often causing friction and wear that will cost you hundreds of dollars in repairs.

See that this great flow of fuel does not injure your engine. Made to operate best on the famous lean 15 to 1 mixture, Tydol, the Economy Gasoline, prevents trouble. Tydol vaporizes fast. That's why it burns clean with less carbon, gives you pickup and power and high mileage. Even where Tydol costs more than ordinary gasoline it is always an economy.

Look for the orange and black sign. Fill up with Tydol today.

How to make the 15 to 1 adjustment

Fill gasoline tank with Tydol. Run engine till warm. Lift hood. Turn gas adjustment on carburetor, decreasing gradually flow of gas. When engine slows, turn gas adjustment back, slightly increasing flow to get maximum engine speed. This is 15 to 1 adjustment.

Tydol will operate on rich, wasteful mixtures required by inferior gas. But you can use 15 to 1—more air, less fuel.

VOICE OPPOSITION TO THE BONUS PLAN

Mondell Tells House Committee That Action Now Would Involve Heavy New Taxes.

HOSTILITY SHOWN IN SENATE

Opponents in Upper Chamber Are Said to Outnumber Advocates of Special Legislation.

WASHINGTON, March 10.—A bond issue to pay adjusted compensation to former service men "would endanger a panic and send prices ballooning," said Republican Leader Mondell of Wyoming before the House Ways and Means Committee today.

He opposed any relief legislation at this time, on the ground that heavy additional taxes would be necessary, whatever plan of relief was adopted.

"I don't believe we can issue bonds," Mr. Mondell said. "If they were intended for investment they would threaten the specie basis of currency. A popular issue would have all the ill-effects of an investment issue, besides inflating currency.

"Extension of financial relief is utterly impossible unless the people are willing to stand heavy additional taxes. A consumption tax, always unpopular, is the only tax which could be collected from month to month, producing revenue continuously."

Many former service men are anxious to assist in reclaiming Government lands to provide homes for themselves, Representative Mondell told the committee.

Mr. Mondell did not urge passage of any such legislation at this time, saying he appeared before the committee to explain the advantages of the land bill which he has introduced at the request of the Interior Department.

At a Government land opening in Wyoming several days ago more than 3,000 former service men applied for fifty-eight small farms open to settlement, he said.

Representative Swope, Republican, of Kentucky, urged adoption of a bill granting an extra year's pay to all those in the service, except those who served less than two months. He estimated that such a plan would require an outlay of $2,800,000,000.

The cash payment plan of the American Legion for $50 for each month of service was endorsed by Major A. B. Critchfield, Infantry School, formerly of Akron, Ohio. Members of the committee challenged his statement that "former soldiers will get what they want."

Representative Garner, Democrat, of Texas, commented that "former soldiers, if they continue to be as well organized as at present, will get all their demands."

Replying to a question by Representative Kitchin, Democrat, of North Carolina, as to when representatives of soldier organizations may be expected to make another request for financial aid from Congress, Major Critchfield replied:

"Nobody can tell. Any body of men which thinks it can get something out of the rest of the American people will try to get all they can."

Relief Opposed in the Senate.

Soldier relief also came up in the Senate, where opponents of such legislation out-numbered those advocating it.

Chairman Warren of the Appropriations Committee and Senator Sterling, Republican, of South Dakota, presented petitions from soldiers opposing cash payments to former service men.

Senator Sterling said a bonus would cost $2,000,000,000, while the people already were struggling under an enormous debt, and Senator Thomas, Democrat, of Colorado, interjected that if another bonus were given it probably would be followed by a request for still another one.

Speaking in favor of a bonus, Senator Trammell, Democrat, of Florida, declared it would be a "tribute of recognition similar to that given Union veterans of the civil war."

"It's not a matter of commercializing our soldiers' service," he said, "but a tribute of honor and respect, to pay a debt of gratitude. It is not a cheapening of their patriotism. If that is true France, Great Britain and Canada have cheapened it for their soldiers."

NAVY "BLIMP" VISITS CITY.

Drifts from Grant's Tomb to Times Square Before Homeward Trip.

A naval dirigible from the Rockaway Air Station paid a two-hour visit to the city yesterday. The "blimp," a single-motor craft 125 feet long, driven by Lieutenant Grant Carpenter, U. S. N., went up the North River to Grant's Tomb, and drifted down over the city, passing above Times Square at about 2:45 o'clock.

It had been planned to communicate with an army truck in Times Square by wireless telephone, but due to a misunderstanding the truck did not appear. Instead, those on the dirigible confined themselves to taking photographs of Grant's Tomb and various sections of the city. The ship, which maintained altitudes ranging from 1,000 to 4,000 feet, was back at Rockaway by half past three.

Mediators End Dental Strike.

Through the efforts of M. J. Reagan and John K. Bealin of the Bureau of Mediation of the State Industrial Commission, the strike of 1,300 mechanical dentists employed in the 130 dental laboratories in New York has been settled, it was announced yesterday. The new agreement runs for a year. First-class bridge workers are to receive $75 a week; second-class bridge workers, $60 a week; assistant bridge workers, $50 a week; general assistants, $38 a week; plate-men, $60 a week; plaster workers and polishers, $35 a week, and crown men, $40 a week.

FAIL TO CUT ARMY BELOW 299,000 MEN

Three Attempts by "Little Army" Men to Cut Down the Figure Are Beaten in House.

DENT LEADS THE ATTACK

Foe of Selective Draft Act Again Meets Defeat by Large Pluralities.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, March 10.—Three attempts to reduce the size of the army below 299,000, the number agreed upon by the House Military Affairs Committee, were rejected today by the House while discussing the army reorganization bill. The total of 299,000, for the coming fiscal year, is that suggested by General Pershing.

Memories of the fight upon the draft act were revived when Representative Dent of Alabama, former Chairman of the Military Affairs Committee and now ranking Democratic member, led the attempt to cut down the size of the army, while Julius Kahn of California, former-ranking Republican upon the committee and now Chairman, defeated Mr. Dent's tactics.

Mr. Dent endeavored today to have the army cut from 299,000 to 185,000, or 10,000 more than it was in the days before the war. His motion was defeated by a vote of 79 to 25.

The second attack upon the bill came from Representative Jones of Texas, Democrat, who wished the army's size put at 175,000, the pre-war figure. This amendment was lost by a vote of 76 to 25.

The final onslaught was made by Representative Harreld of Oklahoma, Republican, who tried to have the figure set at 130,000. Mr. Harreld lost through a viva voce vote.

The House refused to agree to Mr. Dent's amendment that Congress should, under the National Defense Act, fix virtually all the details of the army organization.

The pending bill allows wide latitude to the War Department in the matter of arranging a skeleton organization.

"As soon as the reorganization bill is passed, I will appoint a special committee to frame universal military training legislation, and it will be reported and acted upon later this session, with the understanding that it goes into effect one or two years hence," said Kahn.

"The Military Affairs Committee will have a majority of one in favor of such a bill, even if the Committee on Committees should fill the vacancy on the committee with a man opposed to universal military training."

This last statement by Mr. Kahn was an allusion to the recent course of the Committee on Committees in appointing Representative Harreld to a vacancy upon the Military Committee.

WASHINGTON, March 10.—In addition to authorizing a regular army 100,000 stronger than provided by the National Defense act of 1916, the House today also accepted a lesson of the World War by adopting the principle of permitting the tactical organization of the army to be prescribed by the President instead of by law.

Likewise it approved of making separate corps of the Air Service, the Chemical Warfare Service and the Finance Department, but refused to divorce the transportation and construction services from the Quartermaster Department.

DANIELS IGNORED APPEALS, SAYS SIMS

Admiral Insists Quick Action Would Have Ended War Much Sooner

AND SAVED 500,000 LIVES

His Advice on Policy, He Says, Was Not Adopted Until Six Months After It Was Given.

SOUGHT HELP OF PAGE

America Might Have Had 1,000,000 in France by March, 1918, He Declares, and Prevented Drive.

WASHINGTON, March 10.—Read Admiral Sims gave the Senate Naval Investigating Committee today what he asserted was indisputable evidence that the Navy Department fell down almost completely in the first six months of the war.

Messages sent by the Admiral to the Navy Department during the early days of America's participation in the conflict and other documents were offered as proof that, despite the officer's urgent requests that every available vessel be sent to the area of submarine activity, the department neither followed his recommendations nor informed him of its plans. Six months after the United States entered the war, the Admiral said, the department adopted many of the policies he had urged from the first.

The lack of American co-operation with the Allies from the start, the Admiral said, resulted in prolongation of the war until November, 1918, when it could have been ended in July, needless sacrifice of 500,000 lives, expenditure of $15,000,000,000, which might have been saved, and destruction of 2,500,000 tons of shipping. If the Navy Department had acted promptly, he asserted, the United States would have had 1,000,000 instead of 300,000 soldiers in France by the time the Germans began their great drive on the western front in March, 1918.

Says He Was Not Kept Informed.

Explaining that his recommendations in many cases were made after conference with the allied naval commanders, the Admiral said that the failure of the department to keep him properly informed as to its plans was a source of great embarrassment to him.

Much of his information regarding American naval plans, he said, was obtained accidentally at the British Admiralty or through visiting armed guard officers.

"When he recommended that the convoy system, proposed by the British Admiralty, be put into immediate operation, Admiral Sims said that he received a cable dispatch from Secretary Daniels stating that "in regard to convoy I consider that American naval vessels, having armed guards, are safer when sailing independently." Later adoption of the convoy system, he said, indicated the wisdom of his recommendation.

Taking up the situation created by the submarine campaign, Admiral Sims said that in June, 1917, he told the department that the efforts then being made to curb the U-boats was not succeeding and presented the necessity "of sending all destroyers, tugs, yachts and other craft which can reach the critical area by themselves or be towed part way."

The department in reply, he said, stated that "the department recognizes the necessity of sending all anti-submarine craft which can be spared from home waters into active European waters and when such craft become available will send them," and announced "willingness to co-operate in every way" and that it would "consider the question of supplying additional naval forces other than anti-submarine craft whenever the advisability of so doing is justified."

This reply, Admiral Sims said, convinced him that the department misunderstood the situation and caused him to appeal to Ambassador Page for assistance. In a letter to the Ambassador on June 25, 1917, he made most of the assertions that brought the present investigation, reviewed the situation, quoted from messages sent to the department and closed with the statement that the "war will be won or lost within the next few months," for "if the shipping losses continue at the present rate it must be lost, because the Allies cannot win." The Admiral did not say what was the result of the letter.

Urged Concentration Abroad.

A cable dispatch sent by Admiral Sims late in April, 1917, said the critical area where the war would be won or lost was in the eastern Atlantic at the focus of all lines of ocean communication to England and France. He also recommended, he said, that two divisions of the American dreadnoughts be sent to base on Brest to guard against raids in the English channel by German cruiser forces, but this recommendation was disregarded.

Admiral Sims said that the German offensive of 1918 was due to the failure of the German submarine campaign and that in all probability it would never have been undertaken and the morale of the German people would have broken if the American troops had been more promptly dispatched to France.

The Navy Department's first real decision as to participation in the war, Admiral Sims said, was contained in a cable dispatch to him twenty-seven days after America entered the struggle. The message said that the department intended to send thirty-six destroyers, one tender and a mother ship to the British Isles, and asked for information regarding the possibility of obtaining supplies at Berehaven, the probable base.

"All of these plans should have been worked out long before we entered the war," said Admiral Sims, "and should have been placed in effect in substance at least, the day we entered the war."

Admiral Sims's testimony was far from complete when the committee adjourned until tomorrow after a two hours' session.

Boston Symphony Orchestra May Get Women Musicians

Special to The New York Times.

BOSTON, March 10.—Today's developments in the trouble between the trustees of the Boston Symphony Orchestra and the thirty-five members who struck on the eve of last Saturday night's concert included the refusal of the thirty-five to have anything more to do with the orchestra save as full-fledged union members under full union conditions; the likelihood of the trustees being compelled to recruit players to fill the vacancies from the ranks of women musicians, owing to the union's hostility preventing available men from accepting positions with the orchestra, and a statement by the trustees to Symphony concert patrons setting forth their side in the controversy.

The trustees in their statement say that for the judgment and discretion of a Board of Trustees the rules of the American Federation of Musicians would substitute the judgment of the Executive Board of the federation, a body with whom the musical supremacy of the Boston Symphony Orchestra would be, and probably ought to be, of an importance quite secondary to the welfare of the federation.

MAYOR SUPPORTS RENT CONTROL BILL

Comes Out for Donohue-Boylan Measure Giving Courts Power Over Increases.

ASKS FOR QUICK PASSAGE

Broadens Profiteering Committee's Scope to Include Other City Departments.

After a conference with the members of the Mayor's Committee on Rent Profiteering, city officials and others, Mayor Hylan announced last night that he would support the Donohue-Boylan bill introduced at Albany, which would give the courts power to decide what rent was reasonable and how much of an increase was justifiable in specific cases.

Telegrams urging quick action on the bill were sent by the Mayor to Senator Boylan and Assemblyman Donohue. The scope of the Mayor's Committee on Rent Profiteering was broadened to include additional city departments so that co-operation might be further obtained from these sources.

It was also announced that a mass meeting of citizens, under the auspices of the Mayor's Committee, would be held on a few days' notice in Central Opera House, Sixty-seventh Street, near Third Avenue, to discuss the rent situation and to urge passage of the Boylan-Donohue measure.

The quick action of the city officials was stimulated, it was said, by threats of a general strike of all labor in New York to protest against rent profiteers. Edward I. Hannah, President of the Central Federated Union, told the Mayor that urgent demands for a general strike were made at recent meetings of the federation of which he is president. Organized labor as well as those workers outside of labor organizations, said Mr. Hannah, were made desperate by the numerous increases in rent on the part of profiteering landlords.

Arthur W. Hilly, Chairman of the Mayor's Committee, on leaving the meeting, said it was felt by those present that the law of supply and demand should be applied to the rent situation as the pending situation was concerned. Because there was a great shortage of apartments, he said, was no reason why any one should be permitted to profiteer.

"A man who owns property is not entitled to receive what he can for his apartments just because people are unable to obtain places to live," he declared. "Nobody should be allowed to profiteer in such a necessity. A man is entitled to do what he pleases with his own, but not to injure his neighbor."

Under the Boylan-Donohue bill the amount that a landlord shall receive under his equity in a building will be decided by the courts. He will then get what he is entitled to, what the court thinks is a fair and just return.

Announcing the purpose of adding new members to his Committee on Rent Profiteering, Mayor Hylan said: "It was done so that the committee might obtain additional co-operation in order to protect the interests of the tenants and landlords as well.

"There is a class of profiteering landlords which is taking an undue advantage of conditions and making exorbitant increases in rents. These profiteering landlords are of the speculative kind.

"We are all in favor of the Boylan-Donohue measure, and I have telegraphed Senator Boylan and Assemblyman Donohue requesting them to advance their bill as rapidly as possible."

The next meeting of the committee will be held on Friday afternoon. It is hoped to arrange the mass meeting for next Tuesday night.

The additional members of the Mayor's committee appointed yesterday were Health Commissioner Royal S. Copeland, Police Commissioner Jacob A. Cantor, Police Commissioner Richard E. Enright, Commissioner of Accounts David Hirschfield and Corporation Counsel William P. Burr.

AMERICAN CAPTIVE RELEASED BY VILLA

State Department Urges Rescue of Another Victim— Suggests Stronger Guard.

EL PASO, March 10.—Joseph Williams, of El Paso, an employe of the American Smelting and Refining Company, captured and held for ransom by Francisco Villa when the bandit wrecked a train on the Mexican Central Railroad on Thursday last, has been freed, according to a telegram from Williams to his employers received today.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, March 10.—Announcement was authorized by the State Department today that, following receipt of news that Joseph Allen Williams, an American, had been captured by bandits and held for ransom by Villistas, the department had directed the American Embassy at Mexico City to urge upon the Mexican Government "all possible measures" to effect Williams's release "with due regard to his safety" and has also instructed the American Consul at Chihuahua to make similar representations.

The embassy was directed to make similar representations in the case of Peter Summers, the American who was kidnapped by a rebel band under Jesus Marelo at Salina Cruz, and to urge "the desirability of immediate reenforcement of Federal troops" at Santa Lucrecia.

EL PASO, March 10.—Chief Yeoman K. C. Hinton of the El Paso Navy Recruiting Station is missing in Mexico, according to reports made by Lieutenant J. S. Hupp to the American Consul at Juarez. Hinton, whose home is in Chicago, was last seen in Juarez while visiting there Saturday, according to Hupp.

Mining Property is Wrecked.

AGUA PRIETA, Sonora, Mexico, March 10.—Buildings and the mining plant of the Chicago Exploration and Development corporation near Tonichi, Sonora, were wrecked by dynamite two weeks ago by renegades, said Franklin B. Harding, consulting engineer of the company, who arrived here today. He says the loss is $125,000.

SOME REPUBLICANS TO BOOM HOOVER

Nation-Wide Campaign for Presidential Nomination Is Formally Launched.

TO ORGANIZE EVERY STATE

"Independent Progressive" Stand Qualifies for Party Leadership, Say Backers.

Accepting Herbert C. Hoover's statement in his letter on Tuesday to California friends in this city that he is an "independent progressive" to mean that he is a Republican, and that he is available as a candidate for President upon the Republican ticket, his supporters here announced yesterday that they would begin immediately a nation-wide campaign for the purpose of bringing about his nomination at Chicago in June.

The Hoover boomers, chief among whom are M. L. Requa, a prominent engineer; Captain J. F. Lacey and Ralph Arnold, spokesman for the California group of Hooverites, declared that if Hoover received the Republican nomination he would sweep the country and nothing would be able to stop him. They declared that the Republican party was in danger of thinking it has a "cinch" this year and consequently would throw away its opportunities if it permitted small groups to dictate the nomination. Hoover, they said, was the best candidate because of his ability to handle the big economic problems of the country.

The main proposal, it was stated, is to organize the Hoover sentiment which the Hoover men declare exists all over the country. To bring about this result, the Hoover boomers intend to depart from old-style campaign methods and adopt a system of nation-wide publicity which will result in such a popular demand for the Californian that even the Republican bosses will be unable to resist it.

To Start Big Petition.

One feature of the publicity campaign will be the preparation of a petition to which millions of names may be signed, and which, it is believed, will convince the Republican Party leaders that the entire country wants Hoover for President.

As a working nucleus in the Hoover campaign, the "Make Hoover President" movement which originated in California is to be used. Similar clubs are to be formed all over the country, later to be welded into a national Hoover league. As a first step, a prominent Republican of progressive beliefs will be obtained as national manager of the Hoover movement. State managers will be obtained later. The first gun was fired in the form of a joint statement by Mr. Requa and Mr. Arnold, it read:

"The California group of Republicans who came to interview Mr. Hoover have given consideration to his reply, and are more than ever convinced that he is available as a candidate upon the Republican ticket. We can sympathize with his reluctance to inject his personality into the campaign, but have determined to redouble our efforts. In this we are enthusiastically supported by letters and telegrams from strong committees in nearly every State in the Union.

Demand Business Administration.

"Both political parties are today having difficulty in reaching agreements on the fundamental issues before the country. No one knows just what the position of his party is whether radical or reactionary or progressive. We believe we must have a business administration, and want to be assured that the business reorganization of the Government is to be undertaken by a business man, free from entangling alliances on progressive issues. We believe that a majority of the American people are alive to the issues before us and want these issues treated in a progressive and enlightened way in the interest of all the people.

"We believe that the time has come when the only way to make certain of the proper handling of the grave economic problems of the country, the sound business organization of the Government by a business man, is by putting forward a candidate who has the ability to successfully accomplish all these tasks.

"We believe Herbert Hoover is such a man and that as the candidate of the Republican Party he would sweep the country. We believe that there is danger that the party may again throw away its opportunities by permitting small groups to dictate the nomination upon the theory that this is a Republican year, regardless of issues or platforms.

"Many of us have known Mr. Hoover all his life, well his unusual capacity for leadership in co-operative organization and team play. We want a candidate who believes in the development of the common weal of the whole people a man who never quibbles in his attitude toward any issue; a man who will meet fearlessly the problems that are before us and seek their solution in ways that will best serve the welfare of the nation. Herbert Hoover will give us this kind of administration, and will represent in the classic sense, we shall call what we can to have his name presented and favorably considered at Chicago."

At the headquarters of Major Gen. Leonard Wood word was received from Colonel William Cooper Procter, national manager, vigorously denying rumors that it was the intention of Wood managers to have Frank H. Hitchcock displace Will H. Hays as Chairman of the Republican National Committee after the Chicago Convention.

"Every staunch Republican knows the party has made great progress under the very able leadership of Chairman Hays," wired Colonel Procter, "and General Wood will trust his interests in Mr. Hays's capable hands when he is nominated."

Following the news of General Wood's victory in New Hampshire at the primaries on Tuesday Representative Norman J. Gould and Thomas W. Miller, General Wood's Eastern managers, declared that most encouraging reports were being received from Tennessee, New Mexico and Colorado. Mr. Gould said:

"With New Hampshire now safely in the Wood column, interest has shifted to North Dakota, where the next State primary is to be held next Tuesday. General Wood has a strong following in North Dakota and it is confidently believed he will receive the votes of the delegates from that State who are recognized and seated at the Chicago convention. Complying with the urgent request of the Republican State Committee of North Dakota, which has officially informed General Wood that it will support him, his managers withheld his name from the primary lists, leaving to Senator Johnson much support as will seem to him from the irregular Non-partisan League delegates are seated at Chicago is another matter."

Professors' Poll Favors Wood.

Announcement was also made that a poll of college professors in all parts of the country showed the following result: Wood, 205; Lowden, 108; Johnson, 48; Butler, 46; Harding, 12 and Penrose, 8.

"The college professors," said Mr. Gould, "were polled irrespective of political affiliation. Many of them replied that they were Democrats. Of these Hoover polled a distinctive majority as the preference for nominee on the Democratic ticket. Every poll thus far sent to Wood headquarters from different sections of the country has given Wood a substantial lead over the other aspirants for the Republican nomination."

Governor Frank O. Lowden of Illinois, who came here to speak before the Kings County Republican Committee, left last night for Jamestown, N. Y., where he will make an address. From there he will return to Chicago. He refused to discuss his candidacy.

At the headquarters of Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler in the Hotel Commodore it was announced that Robert S. Maloney, Director of Health and Charities of Lawrence, Mass., a leading Roosevelt supporter in 1912, had declared for Dr. Butler.

Black Bear, Prowling on Shepard Estate, Starts Hunt by a Posse of Lyndhurst Workers

Special to The New York Times.

TARRYTOWN, N. Y., March 10.—Black bears been prowling on the grounds at Lyndhurst, the country estate of Mrs. Finley J. Shepard, and on adjacent properties, has resulted in a search of the surrounding country for the animals by a posse of workers on the estate.

The animals have been seen by several persons in the vicinity, but the best view was obtained of one of the bears by Richard Murray, Mrs. Shepard's chauffeur, as he was leaving the house at Lyndhurst last night at 6:30 o'clock. He saw the animal standing on the Croton Aqueduct, about 500 feet from the house, and quickened his steps as the animal started toward him. After reaching the house and closing the door, Murray, who says the bear was three feet high, saw it make its way into the bushes.

Murray said today that he also saw a bear last Saturday night, but that it was further away, so he paid no more attention to it. He telephoned Superintendent Russell at Lyndhurst, telling him about his experience, and several men about the estate formed a party and, armed with clubs, started out in search of the animal, which made its escape, although its foot-prints were clearly discernible in the snow.

Two bears have been reported on the estate of Caspar Whitney, which adjoins the Shepard place on the south. Several bears have also been reported in Nyack, and it is thought that the animals seen in the vicinity crossed the Hudson River on the ice.

CLARK URGES FREE HAND FOR DELEGATES

Former Speaker Tells Georgia Democrats That He Opposes Giving Instructions.

SEEKS NO PRIMARY VOTES

But Remarks That No Man Would Refuse a Nomination for President.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, March 10.—Former Speaker Champ Clark has lined up with Herbert Hoover and William Gibbs McAdoo in their desire that their names shall not be used in the Presidential primaries. In a letter sent today to Georgia Democrats, Speaker Clark expressed his opinion that his name should not be placed upon the tickets, saying that he preferred that delegations should be sent uninstructed to the San Francisco convention in June.

Mr. Clark stated that the two things for the Democratic Party to do were to adopt a platform and nominate a man to fit it. His letter indicated that he was in a receptive mood toward the nomination, for he said: "No man will decline a Presidential nomination tendered him freely by a great party."

The letter follows:

"Hon. Hiram L. Gardner, Secretary Georgia State Democratic Committee, Statouton, Ga.

"I am profoundly grateful to my Georgia friends who have suggested that my name should be placed on the ticket at the preferential Presidential primary. My own opinion is that it is best not to do that. In my judgment the San Francisco convention should be absolutely free, consisting only of two things:

"1—Adopt a thoroughly Democratic platform, made of time tried and fundamental Democratic principles, progressive and up to date. 2—On such Democratic platform nominate the ablest and most thoroughgoing Democrat than can be found.

"No man will decline a Presidential nomination tendered freely by a great party, for the Presidency of the United States is not only the most powerful office known to our political system, but the greatest ever used by the wit of man. It should not be bestowed upon any man to gratify his personal ambition, but solely for the good of the country, for the only reason for a political party is to promote the prosperity, the happiness and glory of the American people.

"So believing, I think it would be fortunate for both the party and the country if all the delegates to San Francisco should go uninstructed, so as to be free after consultation to agree on the best men possible for President and Vice President on a platform thoroughly Democratic in every plank.

"The record of the Democratic Administration and the Democratic Congress is beyond all praise. On it we can go to the country with confidence, to the end that the National and State Governments shall be maintained in their full constitutional vigor, and that law and order may prevail everywhere under our flag. But even if we should fail with such a platform and such candidates, our party would emerge from the contest in splendid fighting trim for future conflicts.

CHAMP CLARK."

TWO SAFES BLOWN OPEN.

Burglars Escape After Looting West Thirty-sixth Street Office.

Two safes in the office of the American Education Press on the second floor of the loft building at 227 West Thirty-sixth Street were blown open by burglars Tuesday night and stamps, liberty bonds and cash amounting to several thousand dollars taken.

The police are looking for a band of burglars believed to have robbed a safe last Saturday night in William Schriderman's jewelry store at 953 Westchester Avenue, the Bronx, obtaining $5,000 worth of jewels, and the fur store of Nathan Friedlander at 2,605 Broadway on the night of Dec. 27 last, when $2,000 booty was taken. In each instance the burglars cut a hole in a narrow pane of glass on the side of the store window, through which they crawled into the store.

Magistrate Levine in the Jefferson Market Court honorably discharged William and Emil Lichtenfels, brothers, wholesale grocers at 144th Street and Willis Avenue, the Bronx, who were arrested on March 8 last when detectives under Captain McQueeny of the Tenderloin Bureau found a quantity of silk and rugs in a warehouse owned by the merchants. Captain McQueeny told the Magistrate that although the goods had been on display in the West Thirtieth Street Station ever since, nobody had claimed them, and therefore he could not say the merchandise was stolen property.

Don P. Collins, 27 years old, who said he lived at the Hotel Stanley, was convicted of grand larceny in the second degree by a jury in General Sessions and remanded for sentence on March 16. Assistant District Attorney Waugh said Collins made a business of "robbing robbers of their loot." Collins was prosecuted on the charge of stealing $5,000 a watch and several pieces of jewelry from the rooms of Frederick Robb, an American Railway Express messenger at 27 West Sixty-fourth Street, which Robb was accused of stealing from the express company.

$25 HAMS VETOED BY JURY'S VERDICT

Dealer Who Sued Loses, and Jubilant Customer Donates $500 to Charity.

MENACE TO CUPID REMOVED

Marriage Licenses Fewer If It Cost $7 to Cook a Ham, Says Justice.

Even a specially prepared Virginia ham is not worth $25, according to the verdict of a jury in the Fifth District Municipal Court, before Justice William Young yesterday, in the famous ham suit brought by the Reuben's Pure Food Shop, Inc., of 2,120 Broadway, against Robert H. Mainzer, Nassau Street banker and honorary Deputy Chief of the Fire Department.

Mr. Mainzer had demurred at a charge of $25 for a lone ham, purchased on Dec. 31 last. After getting the opinion of several delicatessen experts that $1 a pound allowed sufficient margin of profit, he deducted $11 in sending his check, which included payment for other purchases. Aaron Reuben, President of the company, sued for the $11. After the verdict for Mr. Mainzer, Justice Young taxed the plaintiff with the costs, $12.20.

Elated over the verdict, Mr. Mainzer wrote a check for $500 as a gift to the Henry Street Settlement. "I am no pike," he said with a smile, "but I am exceedingly happy over the verdict in this case and the fact I won't have to pay the remaining $11 asked for the ham, because of the principle involved."

Among the witnesses for the defendant was Mrs. Julia Richman, President of the National Housewives League. She testified that she was offered a Virginia ham at Reuben's place for $13.50. A ham said to have been purchased at Reuben's place for $18.50 was offered as an exhibit. Another exhibit was a bottle of olives, also one and brand alleged to have been billed by Reuben's store to Mr. Mainzer for $2, which could be purchased almost anywhere for $1.25.

Mr. Reuben testified that the ham sold to Mr. Mainzer weighed twenty pounds, and cost him 67 cents a pound, and that if he had sold it in the raw state he would have got 90 cents a pound for it. It was especially prepared for Mr. Mainzer, he said, at a cost of $7. He used, he said, 50 cents worth of cloves, one gallon of cider at a cost of $1.50, and two witnesses at $2 and five hours of his time was required in the work. A ham, he testified, deteriorates 40 to 60 per cent. in weight in boiling and roasting. He declared he had a particular way of preparing ham known only to himself.

Delicatessen dealers testified that a ham could be prepared for not exceeding $2.

When the verdict had been returned Justice Young remarked that if it cost $7 to cook a ham there would be fewer calls for marriage licenses at City Hall.

A complaint against Mr. Reuben has been filed with Federal Food Administrator Arthur Williams. Two men who said they represented Attorney General Palmer questioned Mr. Reuben after the verdict. "Our report will be filed when we get back to Washington," they said.

FIGHTING HAS BEGUN AMONG THE CHINESE

Eight Provinces Form a League to Combat Militarists of Peking and Canton.

SHANGHAI, March 7 (Associated Press).—Warfare has broken out in Honan Province because of the effort of the Peking Government to appoint Wu Kwang-Hsin Governor of the province to supplant Chao Yi, whose forces are opposing those of Wu Kwang-Hsin. This and the outbreak of hostilities in Kwangtung Province, where fighting is proceeding between southern factions, has brought to light a league of eight provinces—Fukien, Kiangsu, Chihli, Honan, Szechwan, Hupeh, Shantung and Kiangsi—aiming to effect peace by uniting against the militarists both of Peking and the south and forcing dissolution of the Parliaments at Canton and Peking.

The forces supporting Chao Yi in Honan are moving on Changchow and a cordon has been drawn along the Peking-Hankow railway north of Chengchow to resist the Peking troops.

The Kwangtung warfare is the outgrowth of an attempt by the Governor of Yunnan to send a new commander of the Yunnan troops into Kwangtung. The new commander, General Li Lieh-Chun, is attacking the old leader, Li Kung-Yuan, who is supported by the troops in Kwangtung and Governor Moh Yung-Hsin. General Li Lieh-Chun is holding the Fe-Kiang valley and the railroad and is bombarding Shiuchow, about 118 miles north of Canton. He has stopped reinforcements sent from Canton by Governor Moh Yung-Hsin.

Refugees from the fighting areas are pouring into Canton and Hongkong.

Inside Story of Austro-German Intrigue

In the Book Review Section of The New York Times next Sunday will appear an illuminating criticism of a new book on "The Inside Story of the Austro-German Intrigue," which culminated in the World War. The author is Dr. Joseph Goricar, an Austrian diplomat of fourteen years' service.

Maurice Francis Egan, formerly United States Minister to Denmark, has written the review. Mr. Egan is peculiarly well fitted to pass judgment on the diplomatic questions preceding the outbreak of war which are discussed in Dr. Goricar's book.

THREE FLIERS DIE IN FORCED LANDING

Charles T. Sims of New York and Kenneth Earle of Montclair Are Victims.

SEAPLANE STRIKES GROUND

Engine Trouble Drives Machine Down Too Far Away to Reach the Water.

Special to The New York Times.

PALM BEACH, Fla., March 10.—Charles T. Sims, of New York; Kenneth Earle, of Montclair, and Maxwell Blanchard, of Chicago, were killed twenty miles south of Palm Beach last night while making a forced landing in a hydro-aeroplane belonging to the Newport Flying Corporation of Newport, R. I.

Blanchard and Earle were pilots, and had seen service in France, where, it is said, Blanchard had two German planes to his credit. Sims was a student aviator. Their bodies, found this morning by fliers, were sent North tonight on the Seaboard Limited, due in New York Friday afternoon. C. H. Rhinehardt, of the Service Corporation, accompanied them.

The fliers rose from Lake Worth at 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon in front of the Palm Beach Hotel, where they were stopping, for a flight to Miami, and were not again seen, although a lighthouse keeper telephoned about dusk that he had seen a plane falling. When Sims and his companions failed to arrive in Miami a searching party was organized and spent the night looking for them in the territory indicated by the lighthouse keeper.

This morning a number of planes took up the search and found the bodies in the brush 200 feet west of the ocean, twenty miles south of here. The machine did not fall but developed engine trouble, making a landing necessary, and being too far west could not quite reach the water. Another 200 feet of leeway would have prevented the accident.

It was estimated that the machine was gliding fifty miles an hour when it struck, and the result was much like that of an automobile accident. All the passengers were thrown out and killed, probably instantly.

MONTCLAIR, N. J., March 10.—Kenneth Earl, who met death in a seaplane near Miami, Fla., last night, was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Earl of 185 Gates Avenue. His father is Vice President of the Nicholas Power Company of New York, of Enos Richardson, Sewers, also of New York, and of the Richardson Manufacturing Company, jewelers, of Newark.

MAIL FLIER DIES IN PLANE.

Lieut. Clayton Stoner's Airplane Falls in Indiana.

ELKHART, Ind., March 10.—A Government airplane mail carrier identified by marks on his clothing as Lieutenant Clayton Stoner was burned to death in his airplane when it fell near New Paris, Ind., about 10 o'clock this morning.

Stoner probably became lost in the mist, and was seeking the Wabash Railroad, which the mail carriers follow daily in their flight over this section of the country.

The machine landed in a wood. Wood choppers were unable to extricate the aviator before he was burned to death, following the explosion of the gas tank on the plane. The machine was destroyed. The mail was only slightly burned. It is believed Stoner swept so low seeking the railroad that his plane struck the trees.

EXCESS PROFITS TAX ASSAILED BY HAWES

Bankers' President, in Chicago Speech, Says It Contributes to High Living Costs.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, March 10.—Richard S. Hawes of St. Louis, President of the American Bankers' Association, addressing the Chicago Association of Commerce today, declared that "the excess profits tax is a contributing factor to the high cost of living.

"The war revenue law, for the most part, needs revision to bring it back to the sound principles necessary to rectify the present banking situation," Mr. Hawes added. "Taxes that can be passed on from one person to another with a profit, or taxes repressive or confiscatory, are a detriment to our economic life.

"Beginning with the producer, Mr. Hawes pointed out that the excess profits tax is passed on successively to jobber, wholesaler, retailer and other middlemen until it reaches the consumer with half a dozen additions.

"As the law now stands it is a detriment to sane industrial development," the speaker continued. "It has outlived its usefulness. Although it takes the form of a direct tax on profits, it is in effect a most unsatisfactory commodity tax. The manufacturer or merchant subject to the tax is required to estimate in advance the amount he is compelled to add to the selling price of the commodity and in turn pass this on to the ultimate consumer in order to protect himself against imposition. The uncertainty of the tax has made it an obnoxious burden both to the one taxed and the ultimate consumer."

Much of the prosperity enjoyed by Americans is unreal, according to Mr. Hawes. People overemphasize the significance of wages and money which are being paid in terms of an inflated price level both for goods and service. In this connection the speaker said the money situation is certain to play an important part in the coming years and may confront the nation in the form of bimetalism, demonetization of gold or other suggestions for abandoning the gold standard.

Unfavorable business factors of the present situation were summed up by Mr. Hawes as follows:

"Enormous increase in prices has produced speculation, waste and extravagance.

"Inflated currency of all of the leading nations of Europe has been accompanied by danger to the gold standard.

"Possibility of large decrease in the sale of goods to our chief customer—Europe.

"Increased demands from labor.

"The Presidential election is a disturbing factor in business.

"Continued heavy demand for capital invested, especially in public utilities and railroads.

"Increased and unscientific tax methods."

Mr. Hawes urged straight thinking and calm judgment as the best aids to solve these problems, and called attention to the counter-action of more favorable conditions which he cited, including adjustment between capital and labor on a more equitable basis, scientific study of the railroad problem, curtailment of extravagance, greater economy and efficiency in Government, decrease of speculation, increase of immigration, large stock of gold and gradual recession to normal prices.

Mr. Hawes in a speech before the Central States Bankers' Association, which is holding a convention here, advocated the formation of a national public relations committee to promote more "sympathetic understanding" between investor and banker.

"I am in favor of direct communication between the bankers and the people of the country at large," said Mr. Hawes. "Too much distrust exists at present and too much ill-founded criticism is thrown at the bankers."

Mr. Hawes said that in order to obviate this misunderstanding a public relations committee would be formed as a subsidiary to the American Bankers' Association.

Would Raze Tariff Walls to Admit American Goods

LONDON, March 10.—Sir George Paish, speaking before the National Liberal Club tonight on the national financial position, said:

"Friendship with America must be the cornerstone of our policy. We must take down our tariff walls and admit American goods into our empire on the same terms as we have admitted goods produced within the empire."

THREATENS GERMANS FOR 'ROWDY' ACTIONS

Imperial Government Warns That Attacks on Foreigners Will Bring Punishment.

MORE CASES ARE REPORTED

Prince Joachim Freed by Magistrate but Ordered to Prison by High Official.

BERLIN, March 10.—The Imperial Government has issued a proclamation, signed by Premier Bauer, condemning attacks on members of Entente missions. It declares that the Minister of Defense will act with the greatest severity in punishing excesses.

The proclamation warns against "this demoralization of public life, which has nothing to do with patriotism and only leads to the serious injury of the Fatherland." It calls on every German to bear himself with dignity and reserve toward the members of foreign bodies, as any other attitude may lead to serious complications.

After threatening punishment against military excesses, the proclamation declares that the Government will not hesitate to punish civil offenders and is not disposed to let its policy be thwarted by "rowdy patriotism" which pursues its wretched and dangerous game at the expense of the entire nation.

"The only consequences of things like these we have experienced the last few days," it adds, "will be that the few voices abroad which have gradually been making themselves heard in behalf of our distress and our rights will become silent again."

The Magistrate at the preliminary inquiry held today regarding the conduct of Prince Joachim Albrecht of Prussia in the dining room of the Hotel Adlon Saturday night, when bottles, plates and other missiles were hurled at members of the French Mission, refused the Public Prosecutor's application for the remand of the Prince in custody, saying that he considered that a prima facie case had not been made out. The commander in chief for the Mark of Brandenberg, however, ordered the Prince detained in the Moabit prison and it is expected that a charge will be preferred against him in a few days.

Eight men, said to be members of a French military aviation commission, who drove into Wernitz, near Potsdam, in a motor car from Berlin yesterday, were attacked by the inhabitants, who accused them of poaching and summoned them to surrender. Four obeyed but the others tried to escape, one being wounded and later dying while being taken to a doctor. Two of the others later surrendered and the fourth man escaped.

A report on the incident has been transmitted to the French Charge here by an allied officer.

PARIS, March 10.—Dr. Mayer von Kaufbeuren, German Charge d'Affaires here, called on Premier Millerand today and presented Germany's regrets for Saturday night's demonstration against members of the French mission at the Hotel Adlon in Berlin, which Prince Joachim Albrecht of Prussia is alleged to have instigated.

Premier Millerand directed the attention of Dr. von Kaufbeuren to other similar incidents. He added that these would probably not have happened if Germany had shown greater promptness and energy in suppressing the violences of last Winter, of which General Niessel, head of the allied Baltic mission, and later the Supreme Council, had notified Germany.

Members of the Allied Military Commission at Breslau were attacked yesterday by a mob and were saved from injury by the intervention of the police, the dispatch continued. "It has outlived its usefulness. Although it takes the form of a direct tax on profits, it is in effect a most unsatisfactory commodity tax. The manufacturer or merchant subject to the tax is required to estimate in advance the amount he is compelled to add to the selling price of the commodity and in turn pass this on to the ultimate consumer in order to protect himself against imposition. The uncertainty of the tax has made it an obnoxious burden both to the one taxed and the ultimate consumer."

Much of the prosperity enjoyed by Americans is unreal, according to Mr. Hawes. People overemphasize the significance of wages and money which are being paid in terms of an inflated price level both for goods and service. In this connection the speaker said the money situation is certain to play an important part in the coming years and may confront the nation in the form of bimetalism, demonetization of gold or other suggestions for abandoning the gold standard.

Unfavorable business factors of the present situation were summed up by Mr. Hawes as follows:

"Enormous increase in prices has produced speculation, waste and extravagance.

"Inflated currency of all of the leading nations of Europe has been accompanied by danger to the gold standard.

"Possibility of large decrease in the sale of goods to our chief customer—Europe.

"Increased demands from labor.

"The Presidential election is a disturbing factor in business.

"Continued heavy demand for capital invested, especially in public utilities and railroads.

"Increased and unscientific tax methods."

Mr. Hawes urged straight thinking and calm judgment as the best aids to solve these problems, and called attention to the counter-action of more favorable conditions which he cited, including adjustment between capital and labor on a more equitable basis, scientific study of the railroad problem, curtailment of extravagance, greater economy and efficiency in Government, decrease of speculation, increase of immigration, large stock of gold and gradual recession to normal prices.

Mr. Hawes in a speech before the Central States Bankers' Association, which is holding a convention here, advocated the formation of a national public relations committee to promote more "sympathetic understanding" between investor and banker.

"I am in favor of direct communication between the bankers and the people of the country at large," said Mr. Hawes. "Too much distrust exists at present and too much ill-founded criticism is thrown at the bankers."

Mr. Hawes said that in order to obviate this misunderstanding a public relations committee would be formed as a subsidiary to the American Bankers' Association.

Allied Officers Stoned by Germans.

LONDON, Thursday, March 11.—When General Nollet, head of the French mission, and M. de Marcilly, French Charge d'Affaires in Berlin, received the apology of the German Minister of Foreign Affairs, Herr Mueller, for the Adlon Hotel incident, they called attention to a more serious affair, the details of which have not previously been published, says The Daily Mail's Berlin correspondent.

This, the newspaper continues, was a violent and apparently organized attack on three uniformed officers on March 4, when a British Lieutenant Colonel and French and Belgian comrades were visiting the barracks at Prenslau, Province of Brandenburg, in connection with the demobilisation of the German Army. While being escorted through the camp by a single German officer they were hooted and stoned by soldiers, who ignored the orders of the escort to desist. The Britos and the Belgian were wounded by stones. Their escort took to cover.

The visitors continued to walk toward the officers' quarters, where the commandant advanced to meet them and ordered the yelling soldiers to "fall in." They immediately obeyed, showing, says the correspondent, that they were not out of hand, and giving the impression that the demonstration was arranged to continue until it was ordered to cease.

Swedes Want a Wireless to America

STOCKHOLM, March 9.—The royal telegraph department has requested that the Government appropriate funds with which to build a high power wireless station for commercial communication with America. The Swedish station, if the necessary funds are forthcoming, will be located near Falkenberg on the Swedish west coast. The approximate cost of the station is estimated at 10,000,000 kronen.

Controller Charles L. Craig yesterday accused Henry L. Stimson, counsel for Job Hedges, Receiver of the New York Railways Company, of having acted as "errand boy" for Public Service Commissioner Nixon in carrying information to Federal Judge Mayer.

The accusation of the Controller was made during the continuation of the Board of Estimate's traction inquiry at City Hall in a discussion of the method adopted of reaching the 36 per cent. maintenance reserve which Judge Mayer had ordered set aside when the Receiver was appointed. Controller Craig contended that the percentage was too high, adding that it "let one believe, erroneously, that the roads were being operated at a loss." Mr. Craig said that in the past the railroad had been permitted by the Public Service Commission to set aside 26 per cent. of the operating expenses as

FEDERAL SHIPPING SHOWS BIG PROFIT

$166,493,990 to June 20 Last, with $165,000,000 Owing, Chairman Payne Says.

CONDITIONS NOW CHANGING

Government Should Quit the Business and Stay Out, He Tells Senate Committee.

WASHINGTON, March 10.—Government operations in the shipping business resulted in a net profit of $166,493,990 up to last June 20, Chairman Payne today told the Senate Merchant Marine Committee, making public for the first time complete statistics covering the financial aspects of the board's balances due from other Government departments, he said, adding that the Food Administration owed the board about $15,000,000 and the War Department about $150,000,000.

Not one cent would be asked of Congress by the board to complete its construction program, since funds from operation and sale of ships would take care of estimated expenditures of $307,000,000 for the next fiscal year.

Any charges that the shipping board had more accidents and difficulties in operating vessels than could otherwise be expected, he said, were disproved by the fact that the insurance rate on the Government fleet was only 3½ per cent., while the general commercial rate was 4½ per cent., and that repairs were costing only a round 67 cents per month per ton operated.

Chairman Payne reiterated, however, that the "Government should get out of the shipping business as soon as possible, and stay out." Operation of the present fleet he did not consider very profitable, though the Government had some cash from it.

"When the amount of the investment is taken into consideration," he explained, "and the fact that ocean freight rates have been so high as to make conditions extraordinarily favorable for ship operation, we cannot expect that to be a permanent condition."

Individual Americans could operate ships successfully at a profit, in competition with foreign-owned vessels and each of the eleven standard types of ships owned by the board could be duplicated in commercial yards at less than their cost to the board.

"Very much too much has been said by private interests seeking to buy ships," he continued, "since some people appear to have the impression that Congress has directed the Shipping Board to sell its vessels for $100 or $150 a ton. This has made many prospective purchasers hold off, but when the debate is over they will move faster."

He asked that only two sections be added to merchant marine legislation, one turning over to the Shipping Board the North German Lloyd and Hamburg lines docks at New York, now under army control, and the other requiring owners of American vessels to obtain Shipping Board permission before selling them to aliens.

On Feb. 1, he said, the board was operating 1,897 bottoms of 8,383,000 deadweight tons, including 1,046 steel cargo ships, 276 wooden vessels, 48 tankers and 16 refrigerator ships. A total of 126 companies held operating charters for vessels owned by the board. On the first day of February, 208 ships were listed as "under repair," 230 "laid up for winter," and 1,179 "in actual operation."

The sales department up to Feb. 21 had disposed of 297 ships for a total of $111,322,410. Included in the total sold were 96 steel cargo ships, 20 wood cargo, 10 composite, 5 steel passenger and cargo and 1 refrigerator. Redelivories to former owners brought the receipts for ships to $192,280,631.07.

The "active" construction program of the Emergency Fleet Corporation comprised 2,311 ships, with a total tonnage of 13,502,000. More than 10,000,000 tons had been delivered to date, 1,200,000 tons were now being outfitted and about 2,000,000 were on the ways. The balance represented ships the keels of which were yet to be laid. About 5,000,000 tons of the total, Mr. Payne said, were oil-burning.

Further protest against sale of merchant vessels by the Shipping Board was made by the Midwest-Gulf-South Atlantic Foreign Trade and Transportation Committee in a letter today to the Senate Commerce Committee.

The attention of the committee was called to the sale of ships of three to five thousand tons to French and Belgian firms, and the argument presented that Americans might better have used them in the development of trade routes from South Atlantic, Gulf and Pacific ports.

Scrymser Will Gives Reversion to Red Cross and Hospital.

James A. Scrymser, who established the first cable to Cuba and the first American-owned cable to Brazil, and who was President of the Mexican Telegraph Company and the Central and South American Cable Company, left an estate of $2,923,940 when he died at his home, 107 East Twenty-first Street, on April 21, 1916.

The appraisal of his estate filed yesterday shows that upon the death of his wife, Mrs. Mary A. Scrymser, who inherited the residuary estate of $2,423,784 for life, it will be divided equally between St. Luke's Hospital and the American Red Cross. These bequests are said to be the largest single gifts ever left to these organizations in a will filed here.

Mr. Scrymser remembered many of his business associates. He left 75 shares of the Central & South American Cable Co., valued at $8,625 each to James Beard and John L. Merrill, and 25 shares each to Clarence Rupkin, Richard Tyers, Frank K. Warren and J. Langdon Erving. He gave annuities of $2,000 to two sisters and of $1,000 each to a number of nephews and nieces. He gave gifts ranging from $1,500 to $500 each to household servants. The Metropolitan Museum of Art received Japanese and Chinese art objects appraised at $3,473.

The largest asset of the estate was 9,946 of the total issue of 49,553 shares of Mexican Telegraph Company stock, appraised at $1,913,312, or nearly $200 a share, based on the book value. Other assets of the estate were 4,207 shares of the Central & South American Cable Co., worth $450,149; the residence at 107 East Twenty-first Street, worth $87,500; bank deposits $109,287, silverware and pictures $15,000, jewelry $536, and Liberty bonds, $9,836.

Young, dealing in crockery and glassware, under style of Mildred Young and Young Auction Rooms, at 114 West 125th Street, by the following named creditors: J. J. Rothschild, $812, and Abraham Ash, $1,101. Liabilities are said to be about $6,500 and assets about $1,500. An assignment was made March 9.

DE BELLE DOLL CO., INC.—Judge Hand has appointed Maurice L. Shaine receiver for De Belle Doll Co., Inc., manufacturing dolls, at 186 Goerck Street, in $10,000 bond. The debts of this concern are said to be closely related with those of Blum & Bates Co., Inc., manufacturer of toys, at 19 West Twenty-ninth Street, against which company a petition in bankruptcy was filed on March 4, when an assignment was made.

BLUM & BATES CO., INC.—Judge Hand has appointed Maurice L. Shaine receiver for Blum & Bates Co., Inc., manufacturer of toys, at 19 West Twenty-ninth Street, in $5,000 bond. The assets of the concern are said to consist of orders for the dolls in the amount of upward of $100,000, some samples and fixtures and some outstanding accounts, the ownership of which is said to be in dispute, and a stock interest in the De Belle Doll Co., Inc. At a meeting of creditors recently called to consider an offer of settlement at 50 per cent., 25 per cent. in cash and 25 per cent. by secured note, a committee was appointed to examine the offer and make a report.

BLUM & BATES CO., INC., manufacturer of toys, at 19 West Twenty-ninth Street, has filed schedules in bankruptcy, with liabilities of $49,944, represented by secured claims of $19,750, and unsecured claims of $30,194, and assets of $14,900, consisting of stock, $900; machinery, &c., $100; Accounts due, $14,500. Among secured creditors are Credit Finance Trust Company, $6,500, and Kaufman & Gordon Co., $4,000. Among those unsecured creditors are Manchester Textile Mills, $3,287, and Perfect Toy Company, $1,402.

LEON MARCUS.—Judge Hand has issued an order dismissing the petition in bankruptcy filed Feb. 24 against Leon Marcus, jobber woolens, &c., at 320 Fourth Avenue, upon a settlement with creditors on a basis of 20 per cent. in cash and 10 per cent. in interest, payable in three and five months.

MATZA & KAPLAN.—Justice Erlanger of the Supreme Court has granted an application for the appointment of a receiver of the partnership property of Leon Matza and Joseph Kaplan, trading as Matza & Kaplan, dresses, &c., at 53 Allen St., pending a suit brought by Matza against Kaplan for an accounting and dissolution of the partnership, which was formed on Jan. 1, 1920. Joseph Kaplan will be appointed receiver on filing a bond of $5,000.

SEEKS MORE BILLS AGAINST ARNSTEIN

District Attorney Asks Two Superseding Indictments in Bond Theft Plot Case.

FIRST SAID TO BE FAULTY

"Nicky's" Reluctance to Return Said to be Due to Fear of New Charges.

The Grand Jury is expected to hand up two superseding indictments today against "Nicky" Arnstein, still a fugitive from justice on an indictment returned against him several weeks ago in connection with the alleged $5,000,000 plot to steal securities from brokerage houses in the financial district. It was said at the Criminal Courts Building yesterday that the new indictments are being sought on charges of grand larceny and receiving stolen securities, based on the charge in the original indictment that Arnstein received from Joseph Gluck, one of seven men under arrest in connection with the plot, $42,000 worth of securities stolen last Oct. 27 from Clark, Childs & Co., brokers, at 135 Broadway.

Assistant District Attorney Dooling, it was said, appeared before the Grand Jury with additional evidence against "Nicky," which, it was alleged, will strengthen the case against him. The original indictment, it is understood, was found to be faulty in one or two respects, and it was said District Attorney Swann feared it might result in the case against "Nicky" being thrown out of court unless superseding indictments were obtained.

It was reported yesterday that Arnstein's reluctance to surrender is based on his desire to learn whether other indictments may be returned against him and on which his bail may be increased over the $100,000 which the District Attorney declared he would demand on the original indictment. It was said Arnstein's friends in this city learned on the night Eugene F. McGee, law partner of his counsel, William F. Fallon, and detectives left this city to meet "Nicky" at Erie, Pa., that there was a possibility of other indictments being returned against him. It is understood that when the lawyer and the detectives reached Erie McGee telephoned to another city, where he expected to get in communication with the fugitive, but instead of Arnstein answering the wire another man spoke to McGee and informed the latter that "Nicky" had changed his mind about surrendering and had left for another city.

William L. Griffin, First Vice President of the National Surety Company, declared yesterday that the epidemic of thefts of securities in the financial district had been brought to a close through the insertion of "riders" in policies issued to brokerage houses and banks requiring the holders to take greater precautions in employing persons as messengers. He admitted that $3,000,000 to $5,000,000 worth of negotiable securities disappeared.

Judge Rosalsky, in General Sessions yesterday, reduced from $100,000 to $50,000 the bail fixed in the case of "Big Bill" Furey, following his arrest and indictment in connection with the $5,000,000 bond plot.

Retail Selling Picks Up.

Those who contended that bad weather had a good deal to do with the slump in retail sales had an argument yesterday in their favor as a result of the large increase in the number of shoppers brought out by a pleasant day. Investigation showed, however, that the large army of bargain hunters gives no sign of losing many from its ranks. The departments holding sales were well patronized, and as so many are holding sales it was not so easy to discover through casual observation the policy of shoppers toward the newer and higher priced merchandise.

***

Rafia Fruits and Flowers Good.

One of the newest and most successful ways of using rafia in millinery is to cover fruits with it and fashion leaves of it. This way of using the material is much in vogue in Paris. It is also employed here for the same purpose, particularly when the straw is shellacked. Apples, plums, and other fruits are seen covered with shiny rafia, but generally in sizes smaller than the real article in order to avoid clumsiness in appearance. These fruits are used chiefly for trimming sport and beach hats. Rafia leaves, some of them lacquered, are also used for the same purpose.

***

Object to Restricted Lines.

A large jobber of woolens has stopped purchasing from one of the leading mill organizations because the latter has made a practice of "concentrating" on a few lines. This concentration, it was explained, has had the result of piling up large supplies of two or three lines in the market with a loss of profit to every one handling them. On the other hand, where the range of fabrics and values is more comprehensive, second hands find it easier to sell and get more profitable sales. He admitted that specialization has its advantages, but it also means operation on margins that are too small to be attractive.

***

Business in the Right Way.

According to the representative of a large piece goods jobbing concern, there is no uncertainty in the outlook to the buyers who are making their purchases along proper lines. Some of the largest operators in piece goods, he said, have been making large purchases and the demand from them is increasing rather than showing any let-down. He explained, however, that it is still a question of buying the "right goods at the right time," and not of buying any kind at any time." A short time ago, he pointed out, his house bought 6,000 yards of broadcloth and today has only 600 yards left. In velour checks and French serges, he said, the same situation is to be met.

***

The Tailors as a Gauge.

The manufacturing branch of the clothing trade has been more than interested this season in watching the progress made by the tailors to the trade division. The latter get out their books and start business earlier than the retail trade commences selling, and are thus in a better position to judge the extent and nature of the demand. When the tailors first started in their operations for the Spring quite a nice business was understood to be coming their way, but now there are signs, it is said, of less activity than is desired. Whether this is an indication that the retailers may expect a subnormal Easter trade or not is the question the clothiers are considering. Some are inclined to believe that the new condition may be traced to bad weather.

***

Sales of Luxuries Continue.

Despite the fact that labor troubles in the jewelry industry are not yet settled in full, salesmen who have made trips since the first of the year have turned in remarkable business. In the case of one manufacturer, for instance, with a smaller sales staff than last year, about $1,000 a day more business was taken during January and February than in the same months of 1919. Quite a little of this gain, of course, was due to the higher prices charged for the goods, but there is no question about the willingness of the retailers to buy. In another instance, which concerns a manufacturer of silver toilet wares, a business was done during February of last year which was twice the volume for the same month in 1919 and every one was jubilant. This February, however, the record set in February, 1919, was quadrupled.

***

How Allotments Worked.

The method followed in the woolen market of allotting goods is held responsible in some quarters for the present unsettled condition of the trade. It is said that allotments made to some of the large buyers were of so generous a nature that part of them had to be refused. On the other hand, the smaller buyers received only a small portion of their requirements. When the big buyers turned back part of the yardage assigned to them, the mills in turn gave the smaller operators an opportunity to add this surplus to their purchases but with a different result than the one calculated. The additional yardage offered to the smaller buyers made them suspect that the total supply of goods was even more than normal. As a consequence, both the large and the small operators got the impression there was plenty of material to be had.

***

Silverware Demand is Large.

Reports from the Maiden Lane district indicate that the present demand for silverware is of generally large proportions. The call for staple articles is big, and the orders being placed for toilet wares and novelties are said to be phenomenal. Buyers who follow trade conditions closely are ordering toilet wares for deliveries running well into the year, and in some instances orders are being written for merchandise wanted for the next holiday season. This is regarded by wholesalers as showing good judgment, in view of the shortage of brushes due to the scarcity of bristles, as well as the short supplies of glass for mirrors, perfume bottles, powder containers, &c. In addition to this there is reported in prospect a scarcity of the kind of steel which is used in the manufacture of manicure scissors, shoe horns, button hooks and other boudoir essentials.

***

Gray Goods More Active.

At least so far as printcloths were concerned, yesterday was the most active day that the local gray goods market has seen for some time. Sales of fine-yarn goods and sheetings were nothing to brag about, nor was there much done in the printing styles, March-May deliveries of 39-inch 64-104 sateens were again sold, however, at 40 cents. In the printcloths there was considerable activity in 48½-inch 64-60s, which sold in a large way at 22½ cents for March and April shipment. May-June deliveries of this construction were sold at 22½ cents, and buyers also took Eastern 64-60s for shipment in June and July at 21½ cents. As a result of this activity, spot and March deliveries are now quoted at 23 cents. March-June lots of 39-inch 64-72 sold at 22½ cents. March business was done on 36½-inch 80-48s at 21 cents, with 26½ cents paid for April-June shipments of 39-inch 72-76s.

Are They Buying Less?

Without wishing to say definitely that the condition is general, an authority on retail conditions in this city said yesterday that he had seen distinct evidence in his place of a lessening buying power on the part of persons who are sometimes referred to as the "working class." The reckless spending of money that marked their buying during the period of the war and for several months thereafter has apparently come to an end, he said, and these consumers are now thinking twice before they buy some expensive thing that they do not really need. Another thing brought out was that the so-called "exclusive shops" are again getting the great bulk of their business from the clientele they were established to cater to, but which during the boom period got a good deal of business from shoppers who paid hard cash for their purchases. The latter trade, it was asserted, has largely reverted to the more popular-priced stores.

Railroad Issues Take Lead in Upturn of Stocks—Exchanges Strong.

Railroad stocks swung into the foreground of yesterday's active dealings and recorded a strong price trend all the way to the close. Constructive sentiment prevailed in all departments of the market, however, and the fact that net gains of the rails overtopped most of the industrials was particularly significant of the altered speculative attitude in the last few days, the result, evidently, of immediate developments among the carriers. Railroad managements are rapidly voting acceptance of the railway law's proposal for a six months' continuance of the standard return, and substantial orders for new equipment tell of a quickening of transportation plans under private control. It has been many a day since Reading assumed leadership of the market in so positive a fashion as yesterday—the net gain was more than 6 points—and it has also been a long time since Atchison, New York Central, Southern Pacific, Union Pacific and others have been in so persistent a demand. Presumably, buying was mainly for the account of speculators. The impression prevailed also that traders who make their chief business the buying and selling of stocks were the most active participants. This quality of dealings was of a sort to promote caution in attempting to estimate the course of railway shares in the early future.

Either the credit situation has been ignored in this week's events in the stock market or the feeling has gained strength that underlying factors are being improved. Call money stood at 7 per cent. for both renewals and new loans yesterday, a rate which might be thought to show some easement from the dominant quotation of Tuesday. There was no lessening of tension in the time money market and commercial paper commanded 7 per cent., yet the comment of brokerage offices indicated an impression that the position of credit was being gradually improved through conservative action of banks in regard to mercantile loans. Also, emphasis has been laid in banking quarters of late upon the tightening of accommodation extended into channels for financing foreign trade, a process expected to show results in bank statements before long. From one point of view, a decline of trade credits to domestic exporters presupposes a falling off of exports through an influence not directly connected with the foreign exchange market, which in itself has acted to curtail sales of American goods in Europe, and it remains to be seen whether a forward movement of industrial shares may make progress if exports decline.

News that $1,100,000 more gold had been bought by a New York banking house in London was received as constructive for the credit outlook. The gold that is coming from the mines at auction, together with the probability of sizable shipments from British bank holdings, is looked upon as a highly important adjunct to our reserves, especially as the outflow to South America and the Far East promises to continue on a broad scale. Provided that the new gold is used solely to restore reserves and not as an instrument for expanding the existing credit structure, imports will be welcomed. The question may be raised whether the growth of speculation in stocks has not been directed in part by the thought of an expansion of credit, and, if it has, the market may not supply clear sailing.

Strength marked the European exchanges, except Swiss rates, and there were evidences of extensive speculation in this market, too. Sterling demand bills were lifted 10¾ cents to the pound, rising as high as to 3.76½ and closing at 3.75. Mark quotations rose to 1.66 cents each, an enhancement of more than a quarter cent for the day. French exchange followed London in a brisk advance of 50 points to 13.18.

BANKERS LIMITING RETAILERS' CREDIT

Larger Loans Refused to Old Customers in Shopping District, Says Financier.

NEW APPLICANTS REJECTED

This Is No Time for Expansion, Merchants Are Told—Policy Called Contraction.

In the uptown retail district, where banking credit is extended mostly to the better class shops, there are evidences aplenty of the efforts which are being made to curtail loans. Bankers in that part of the city say that the contraction accomplished thus far has not been so much in actual dollars, but that it is beginning to make itself felt and that within a short time they expect it to appear in the bank statements.

Probably the greatest single factor used to date is the refusal of many uptown banks to enter into new credit agreements with either old customers or those who desire to become clients. Customers in the retail district who have established lines of credit are finding that the banks live up to their agreements, but applicants for new lines, it is said, are being sent away with the advice that the present is no time for further expansion.

The loan officer or one of the largest banks in the neighborhood of Fifth Avenue and Forty-second Street said yesterday that his institution was holding old clients down to what they always have had and is turning away new business.

"The situation up here is somewhat different from what it is in Wall Street," he said. "A good many of our depositors never come into the bank for loans. They simply keep a working balance with us and draw against it and then replenish it as occasion demands.

"But for those who have what we call 'loan accounts' we, like most other banks in this section, have an established rule. It is to give to these clients a maximum line of credit in the ratio of 5 to 1 of their deposit balance. In other words, if the client keeps $10,000 on deposit with us, leaving that sum at least here all the time, we extend him a credit line up to $50,000. Now, few of these lines ever are reached. That is, the man or the firm with a credit line of, say, $50,000, rarely ever borrows as much as that from us. His borrowings usually average somewhere between $25,000 and $30,000. But if his reasons are good, we consider that he is entitled on occasion to the full $50,000.

"For clients who have these established lines, we are still supplying accommodation. But we are not making new agreements of this kind. There have been many applicants for the arrangement lately, but we have refused to consider them. If people want to come in here and open regular deposit accounts, we are glad to receive them, but we simply will not accept their funds on condition that we extend them big lines of credit.

"All loans, as a matter of fact, are being more carefully scrutinized than ever before. If a man comes to us and wants $10,000 or $50,000, he has to show cause why he is entitled to it. If the loan is to be used for current needs, all very well. But if he wants it to purchase goods which he will hold over into another season, we tell him this is no time for such practice. We could do a lot of business of that kind if we wanted to. But we don't, and personally I think we will not want to for some time to come."

This banker said that a good many new shops have been opened in recent months and that many which have been in business a long time have expanded considerably within the last year or so. Considering the increase in business, this banker said that the policy of his bank in holding clients to the old lines of credit really was tantamount to contraction.

"If the dollar has been cut in halves, as many economists maintain, then we have cut credit lines in halves by holding them at what they were previously," he said.

RAIL EXECUTIVES TO MEET.

Will Discuss Road Groupings and Valuations Today.

Probably the most important meeting of railroad executives since the transportation act went into effect will be held at the office of the Association of Railway Executives today, when the association's Standing Committee and Law Committee will discuss plans for the presentation of testimony at the special hearing before the Interstate Commerce Commission March 22. The Commission has announced that testimony will be taken on the question of a grouping of the railroads as provided in the act, as well as on the question of whether the roads should be valued as a whole or as groups.

It is not known that any of the executives have prepared tentative rate groupings and it is believed that the meeting today will result in a general discussion of these two important phases of the railroad situation. At the same time it is believed that the meeting may result in the adoption of some definite plan regarding both the grouping of the roads as provided for in the law and for the valuation of the railroads.

That there will probably be a difference of opinion among the representatives of the carriers which are the most firmly intrenched and those which are not in such favorable position was learned yesterday in authoritative quarters. That system carrying a large volume of traffic will object to being grouped with others which would not be able to carry that traffic away when it is transferred them is the opinion in some quarters, while in others it is expected that some of the compact systems will object to being grouped with transcontinental lines where competition for business would be on an uneven basis.

That the March 22 hearing will terminate quickly is not believed, as the Commission has announced that testimony will be heard from those who will be affected by the formation of rate groups or by the valuation of the carriers. This will mean that a large number of persons will testify and that the hearings may string out into the Summer months.

TOPICS IN WALL STREET.

Britain's February Trade.

To those who have been becoming enthusiastic over the progress Britain has been making in regaining her overseas trade, the official figures for February came as something of a disappointment and a surprise. There was a contraction of £13,000,000 in imports, but a contraction of nearly £20,000,000 in British exports and one of nearly £3,000,000 in re-exports. Thus, on the display of all imports as compared with all exports, the adverse balance for the month moved up about £10,000,000, amounting to £62,331,000, as compared with £52,126,000 in January and £52,004,000 in December. It certainly was not the sort of exhibit one might have expected, in view of all that has been said anent British trade and after what had been shown for several months.

***

Foreign Exchanges Up.

Such items as the British February trade statement, showing a balance against England of £62,000,000 for the month, did not prevent the exchange market from bounding forward. Sterling rose to $3.76¾, up 12¼ cents at the top, and closed at $3.75, while French francs were up 50 centimes. Belgian francs were up 38 and Italian lire 46. In fact, all of the European exchanges were very strong, with the single exception of the rates on Holland, which declined about 1 cent. Business in bills of exchange, too, was on an expanded basis and there was an aggressive demand and at times a large supply of drafts. The supply, however, at times fell off abruptly, and on such occasions quotations were marked up rapidly.

Money at 7 Per Cent.

Call money at 7 per cent. all day looked attractive to stock market operators and there were many predictions that the rate had come down to stay. Talk of this kind was heard in many commission houses, but to the conservative observer it may be doubtful whether this optimism is well founded or not. It would not be surprising to see some flurry before the week is out, as the big tax payments due next Monday have as yet to make a real impression on the market. If the stock market were predicating its movements entirely on the call money rate—which obviously it is not—it might be considered to be in for at least a brief period of unhappiness.

***

Usury.

The Senate's resolution calling upon the Federal Reserve Board to supply it with enlightenment as to why "usurious" interest rates are being charged on demand collateral loans is not expected to bear much fruit, for, at least in this State, it is well known that call loans for amounts to $6,000 or more are specifically exempted from the usury laws. It is a State matter, furthermore, with no Federal statute covering usury. But the action of the State of Mississippi, which recently enacted a law inhibiting any bank from remitting exchange on the collections of checks, in contravention of the Federal Reserve act, may decide just where the line is drawn between State and Federal authority in these matters, for the Mississippi law is expected shortly to be brought before the Supreme Court.

***

Steel Orders Increase.

Another gain in the unfilled tonnage of the United States Steel Corporation was reported yesterday, the February total of forward bookings being an increase over January of 216,640 tons. This figure, however, is decidedly below the gain announced on Feb. 10, when the increase over December amounted to more than 1,000,000 tons. There are two factors to be considered in accounting for the pronounced difference. In the first place shipments were undoubtedly on a much more free scale last month, and, secondly, there has been a reluctance on the part of manufacturers to crowd their books with too extensive forward bookings. Both would serve to lower the unfilled tonnage gain. But whether or no the gain was the equivalent of that which was expected, the fact remains that the Steel Corporation has more orders than at any time since September, 1917. This is certainly significant of the situation in the iron and steel markets. Much of the present total of orders has undoubtedly been booked at the so-called stabilization prices, the old bookings at much lower prices having been largely eliminated by delivery against them during the first half of 1919.

Corn Products.

Corn Products came into prominence in yesterday's trading, a heavy volume of transactions being recorded. The advance of more than 3 points was one of the largest recorded among the industrial shares. While the present dividend rate on Corn Products is $4 a year there is a belief that extras will be a big factor in future disbursements and there are even some who talk of a stock dividend. Last year's earnings indicated beyond all cavil that the company is in a position to make heavier distributions without danger of cutting a course that runs too close to net income. The annual report issued a few days ago showed earnings of better than $23 a share for the common stock in 1919.

***

General Motors Loans Flat.

General Motors new shares surprised traders yesterday afternoon by loaning flat. It might perhaps be construed from this that there is a large short interest in the subdivided shares. Thus far there are some 308,000 shares of the new stock listed on the New York Stock Exchange, this representing the amount of old stock that was exchanged for new on a basis of ten of the new shares for one of the old.

***

Copper Stocks Strong.

The copper stocks, which have been following a lazy course in the market for many months, shook themselves free from their lethargy yesterday and moved forward under the influence of a more cheerful trading sentiment. While domestic buying of copper has been dull recently, there appears to be a better prospect of the long-talked-of foreign purchasing developing. There are rumors that Germany is making inquiries here, even that she has bought some copper. Before the war German buying usually supplied the impetus to any well-sustained domestic buying of copper, and if some large amounts of copper are taken by the Germans now it may be that the domestic market will be stimulated.

***

Reading Leads the Rails.

The turnover in Reading yesterday was the largest that had been seen for some time, and the stock was easily the leader of the rail shares, which sought higher ground. Issues which were inclined to hold back when the low-priced railroad shares were making their sensational recoveries following the passage of the Transportation act, seem to be coming into their own again, and in recent days have regained a considerable portion of losses registered since the first of the year. Among the stocks which advanced yesterday from 1 to more than 3 points were Chicago and Northwestern, Great Northern preferred, Louisville & Nashville, Southern Pacific, Union Pacific, Delaware, Lackawanna & Western and Reading. Lackawanna gained 8 points on a turnover of only a few hundred shares of stock, while the turnover in Reading was 90,000 shares and the net gain more than 6 points.

***

Deferred Maintenance Estimates.

Claims which the railroads of the country have against the Government for deferred maintenance during the Federal control period have been roughly estimated at between $230,000,000 and $300,000,000, but so far no definite figures have been issued by the roads or the Railroad Administration. In some quarters it is suggested that the maximum figure may be exceeded when the matter is finally settled. In many instances it is reported that roadbeds will have to receive special attention following Spring thaw, and it is known that some of the roads in the northern section of the country have even considered the advisability of slowing down schedules until the track work has been done.

The Pittsburgh Railways Company, one of the subsidiary companies, has heretofore been treated as a non-revenue producer.

The more favorable position, due to the increase in cash fares from $.05 to $.10, is reflected in an increase in gross receipts from about $32,201 per day in 1914 to about $58,700 per day in 1919.

4,000,000 TONS SET NEW SUGAR RECORD

American Refining Co. Reports 1919 Consumption 500,000 Tons Ahead of 1918.

HALF COMES FROM CUBA

With 27 Per Cent. of Country's Business, Annual Report Shows Net Income of $9,418,674.

The United States consumed more sugar during 1919 than ever before in its history according to the annual report of the American Sugar Refining Company, issued yesterday. The total consumption approximated 4,000,000 tons, which is 500,000 tons greater than in 1918 and 200,000 tons more than than that of the previous record year, 1915. Half of the amount used here came from Cuba and only about one-quarter from domestic cane and beet. The balance was made up by supplies from Porto Rico, the Philippines, Hawaii and various other regions. Cuba's output of sugar last year, it is asserted, was one-quarter of the world production, whereas domestic production was only one-twentieth.

The American Sugar Refining Company increased its volume of business during last year to $300,000,000, as compared with $200,000,000 in 1918. The operating profit, as compared to total business, was only 3 cents on each dollar of turnover, and is described as a margin so narrow as to be very near an even break. As regards the entire sugar business of the country the report states that the portion falling to the American Sugar refining Company was only 27 per cent. in 1919, whereas in 1900 the company was doing 60 per cent. of the business. The activity of competitors has grown correspondingly. It is to place the company in a position to share in the general growth of the sugar business that it is increasing its capacity, making ready to build a refinery at Baltimore and has purchased a raw sugar plantation in Cuba. The company owns six of the twenty-two sugar refineries in the country.

Net Income Is $9,418,674.

The report shows a net income after all charges and Federal taxes of $9,418,674, which is equivalent, after preferred dividends, to $13.93 a share on the common stock. In the preceding year the amount available for dividends was $8,434,875, or the equal of $11.74 a share on the common after making provision for the preferred requirements. The surplus after dividends last yeair was $1,708,705, this added to previous surplus bringing the total surplus up to $23,152,138.

The balance sheet shows a big increase in cash, this item amounting to $28,161,879, an increase of about $4,500,000 over the preceding year. Inventory totals $15,033,491, as compared with $13,199,709. Bonds and stocks held, however, have decreased some $7,500,000.

Some of the chief items of the income account are shown in the following table:

	1919.	1918.
Operating profit	$10,283,082	$6,661,684
Other income	4,967,837	5,925,902
Total income	$15,250,619	$12,587,486
Depreciation	2,000,000	2,000,000
Net income	9,418,674	8,434,375

Earl D. Babst, President of the company, in his remarks to stockholders, says in part:

"The volume of refining operations was the largest in many years. This is largely accounted for by a contract entered into by various refiners under the authority of the United States Sugar Equalization Board by which the Royal Commission on the sugar supply sent 813,414 tons of raw sugar purchased by it in Cuba to the United States for refining. This contract resulted in a larger volume of business. It enabled us to operate our reserve refinery at Philadelphia from Feb. 18 to Oct. 11. It so increased the volume of business of all United States refiners that they were enabled to meet the steadily increasing refining costs without increasing domestic prices.

Operations Average $1,000,000 a Day.

"The total business of the company, including all its operations in sugar, syrup, molasses, cooperage, timber, lumber, land, tank cars and railroads, approximated $300,000,000. The range of higher prices as well as increased volume of business brought our operations approximately to $1,000,000 a day average. On this business we secured an operating profit of $10,283,081.93, a return of about 3 per cent. on sales, or 3 cents on each dollar of turnover. This operating profit is a margin so narrow as to keep us very near an even break.

"Speaking in terms of sugar, a tenpenny nail means refining one-third of a pound; an ordinary blotter three-quarters of a pound; an empty carton to hold granulated sugar 1¼ pounds; each desk blotter 12 pounds; a stenographer's note book 18 pounds; an ounce of rubber bands, 22 pounds; a new empty 100-pound sugar bag 78 pounds; and a ball of twine over 90 pounds."

"If the industry of the United States and of Cuba has the continued support of the respective Governments," says the report, "there are many reasons to expect that it will hold a large part of the business which has come so unexpectedly during the course of the war."

The report explains the shipments of refined sugar to the Royal Commission on the Sugar Supply representing Great Britain, France and Italy, which created "considerable confusion in the public mind." This sugar, it says, was the property of the Royal Commission and was merely refined here for its account, forming no part of the supply allocated to the United States.

This business benefited domestic consumers, the report points out, in that the increased volume helped to overcome rising costs of refining. The company maintained for more than sixteen months up to Jan. 13, 1920, a wholesale price on domestic business of 9 cents less 2 per cent. cash discount. All sugar refined by the company, regardless of destination, was handled on the margin agreed upon with the Equalization Board for domestic business. The real exports of refined sugar from the United States to foreign countries were 182,539 tons in 1919, compared with 150,556 in 1918, 451,221 in 1917 and 703,862 in 1916.

The destruction of beet sugar factories in Europe dering the war, the report says, shows that 4 in Belgium, 21 in Poland and about 150 in France were apparently put out of commission. The Russian industry is described as demoralized.

At the annual meeting yesterday George F. Baker was elected to the Board of Directors.

CHALLENGES RULINGS OF TRADE COMMISSION

National Coal Association Seeks Injunction Against Its Requirements for Reports.

WASHINGTON, March 10.—Suit to test the powers of the Federal Trade Commission was instituted today in the Supreme Court of the District of Columbia by the Maynard Coal Company of Columbus, Ohio, the first of several legal actions planned by the National Coal Association to determine how far the commission may go in requiring private corporations to furnish information about their business.

An official announcement by the association said that the suits were started in friendly spirit, and in no way constituted an attack on the commission. Believing that the commission has exceeded its authority in requiring statistical reports in the form and manner prescribed, the association has gone into court to settle judicially the extent to which basic industries are subject to control by the Government through the commission. It was said that the association had every reason to believe the commission would not be unwilling to have these questions placed before the courts.

The action instituted today took the form of a request for an injunction to restrain the commission from requiring monthly reports showing costs, income and tonnage, and an annual report of financial condition. It was recited that the commission issued forms and instructions for the preparation of the reports, which in effect prescribed a system of accounting for coal mining operations differing substantially from those commonly in use. Existing accounting methods, it was said, had been developed to meet the requirements of the revenue law and Treasury Department regulations.

An injunction was requested on the three grounds that the order of the commission requiring the reports exceeded the authority vested in the commission by Congress, that if Congress gave the commission authority to require such reports the act was unconstitutional, and that any power vested in the commission to require reports was transferred to the Fuel Administration by Presidential order.

BUY $1,000,000 A DAY OF GERMAN BONDS

Recent Exchange Rate Advance Has Stimulated Demand for Marks and Securities.

SEE ONLY RISE IN FUTURE

Investors Who Awaited Further Decline Said to Hasten Purchases at Present Price.

The American demand for German internal bonds is now running at the rate of approximately $1,000,000 a day, according to a partner in one of the big international banking houses which has been accepting orders for these securities. At current rates of exchange, this means that German marks totaling somewhere between 60,000,000 and 70,000,000 a day are being purchased by Americans who desire either to speculate in the bonds or to hold them for investment. In addition, it is said that importations of German goods are now considerably in excess of what they were a month or so ago, and this, too, is creating a huge demand for marks.

Last week these marks could be purchased at the rate of $1.03 per 100 marks. On Tuesday there was a sharp advance, the price rising to $1.18 per 100 marks. Yesterday there was a sensational further gain and at the close of the exchange market the rate was quoted at $1.66 per 100 marks. This advance, it was declared, had greatly stimulated the demand both for marks and for German internal bonds, for many who had been waiting in anticipation of a further decline had suddenly become convinced that the turn had come and were hurrying to make their purchases before the rate rose any more.

So great has the demand for these German securities become that most of the larger dealers now refuse to accept orders for less than 50,000 marks, and a few have placed the minimum at 100,000 marks. At yesterday's closing quotation of $1.66 per 100 marks, this would mean a minimum, for the 50,000 marks of $830 and of $1,660 for the 100,000 mark minimum.

The only reason marks have not advanced much more than they have, foreign exchange bankers say, is because of the extensive buying of American raw materials which the Germans are now indulging in. One big dealer in bills of exchange said that he was handling bills for about 2,000 bales of cotton a week, and also that he had marketed bills covering some large shipments in copper. The detailed trade figures for February have not yet become available, but it is believed that when they do appear they will show some great increases in both German exports to this country and in the volume of goods which Germany has been buying from us. Thus far in March, furthermore, it is said that the February shipments and receipts have been considerably exceeded.

TO ABSORB THE PANHANDLE.

Pennsylvania Road Will Take Over All Minority Stock.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, March 10.—The shares of the Panhandle Railroad now held by the minority stockholders will be taken over by the Pennsylvania Railroad or the Pennsylvania Company, a holding company. That action was authorized today by the Directors of the latter two companies in order to make the control of the Panhandle by the Pennsylvania absolute.

All of the stock of the Panhandle, excepting about 20 per cent., is now owned by the Pennsylvania. The acquisition of the minority holdings will be accomplished by an exchange of bonds of the Pittsburgh, Cincinnati, Chicago & St. Louis Railroad. The bonds will bear 5 per cent. interest and will be guaranteed by either the Pennsylvania Company or the Pennsylvania Railroad Company. Further details have not been made public.

The following changes in the directorate of the Pennsylvania Company were announced today: To be retired—E. T. McCabe, E. B. Taylor, Benjamin McKenny; to become Directors—W. W. Atterbury, George Dixon, and M. C. Kennedy.

In local banking circles the report from Philadelphia yesterday that the Pennsylvania Railroad or the Pennsylvania Company would offer to take over the minority stock of the Panhandle was explained as an intercompany affair involving no new financing. Total outstanding capital stock of the Panhandle system as of Dec. 31, 1918, was $84,518,322. Of this the Pennsylvania Company owned $65,117,200 and the Pennsylvania Railroad Company $450,000, leaving some $18,956,000 in the hands of the minority stockholders.

SLOSS-SHEFFIELD REPORT.

Company Shows a Decline in Operating Profits of $2,219,330.

The Sloss-Sheffield Steel and Iron Company reports operating profits of $3,276,197 in 1919, a decline of $2,219,330 from the preceding year's total. Federal and State taxes absorbed $420,000, in contrast with $1,000,000 in 1918, and after paying interest and providing for depreciation a balance of $2,094,826 remained. Partly because the tax item was much less than in 1918, this balance was considerably higher than the report for 1918 showed and the surplus available for common stock dividends amounted to $1,525,826, against $1,508,071.

At the annual meeting of stockholders yesterday Hugh Morrow, James N. Jarvie and George W. Davidson were elected Directors to succeed L. Sevier, M. C. Branch and the late James N. Wallace in the order named.

STEEL ORDERS INCREASE.

United States Corporation Reports Gain of 216,640 Tons in February.

The United States Steel Corporation yesterday reported a gain of 216,640 tons in forward orders during February. This brings the total of unfilled tonnage on the books of the company up to 9,502,981, the highest level that has been recorded since September, 1917, when bookings amounted to 9,883,477 tons. This amount of orders is practically the equivalent necessary to keep the Corporation operating at capacity for the balance of the year.

The increase in orders during February, however, is much less than that reported for January, when the gain was 1,020,075 tons. There were not a few who predicted yesterday that when railroad buying begins to make itself felt the unfilled orders of the corporation will soar above 12,183,083 tons for April, 1917, which up to now has been the peak.

Why Standard Oils~

The moderate investor, seeking for security of his principal, prospects of enhanced values, and ready marketability of his security, can well investigate Standard Oil Stocks.

Since the dissolution of the parent company, the earnings of the principal subsidiaries have increased from 100 to 400 per cent. and net assets from 50 to 100 per cent.

The United States Supreme Court has rendered its decision that stock dividends are not taxable as income and this has a special bearing upon these stocks.

We have prepared a letter on Standard Oil Securities which we will be pleased to send you on request.

1919 TOBACCO SALES LARGEST IN HISTORY

American Company's Earnings Dropped $1,574,046 Under 1918, However.

$15,972,572 FOR DIVIDENDS

Inventory Shows an Increase of $16,000,000 Over Preceding Year to $90,611,434.

The American Tobacco Company's annual report for last year shows sales of $146,023,730, largest in the history of the company and an increase of approximately $1,500,000 over the gross of 1918. Net earnings, however, dropped to $15,922,687 from $17,496,733 in 1918. The net income for 1919 was $18,722,128. In 1918 the total was $19,924,761. After providing for interest and bond premiums there was a balance available for dividends last year of $15,972,572, which was the equivalent, after preferred dividends, to $31.83 a share on the common stock. In 1918 the net available for dividends was $16,613,039, or $33.42 a share, after providing for distributions on the preferred.

The balance sheet shows assets of $116,000,000 and liabilities of $25,600,000, leaving a working capital of more than $90,000,000, or 63 cents for each dollar of sales. The inventory was $90,611,434, compared with $74,624,822 in 1918. Cash in the current report totals $6,801,059, as compared with $10,685,049 in the preceding year. The tax reserve amounts to $4,136,360, about half of the amount in 1918. The reduction in this item is ascribed to lessened requirements in the meeting of the tax schedule. Accounts payable amount to $24,333,188, as against $8,425,122 in the previous report. The increase is due largely to the heavy amount of leaf tobacco carried at the end of the year.

TO KEEP OFFICES MERGED.

Consolidated Ticket Exchanges Will Be Continued by Roads.

The consolidated railroad ticket offices established in the first year of Federal control will be continued, according to George A. Cullen, Passenger Traffic Manager of the Delaware, Lackawanna & Western Railroad Company, who is Chairman of the Special Committee appointed to consider carrying the consolidated offices into private operation. Under the Railroad Administration plan several lines were grouped together. Each road now will have its own section.

Off-line ticket and freight offices of roads which do not enter New York will be opened by many lines for the convenience of the traveling public. Most of such offices opened in New York will be placed on the second, third and higher floors of buildings on the principal thoroughfares. The Illinois Central announced the opening of an off-line office yesterday at 299 Broadway. Others will be opened with the next few weeks.

FINANCIAL NOTES.

The Otis Elevator Company has declared a quarterly dividend of $2 a share on the common stock, placing the shares on an annual $8 basis in place of the $5 formerly paid. The usual quarterly dividend of $1.50 on the preferred was also declared. Both disbursements are payable April 15 to stockholders of record March 31.

The Southern California Edison Company has sent a circular to its stockholders announcing an issue of 50,000 shares of new common stock, which is to be sold at not less than $90 a share. The proceeds of the sale are to be used for additional hydro-electric construction. Stockholders of record Feb. 25 may subscribe to the new stock at $90 a share.

Harris, Forbes & Co. and the the National City Company are offering an issue of ten-year 6 per cent. gold bonds, due 1930, of the Province of Manitoba, Canada, to yield 7 per cent.

The consolidated income account of Robert Reis & Co. for the year ended Dec. 31 last shows manufacturing and merchandise profits on sales of $766,913, total income of $769,765 and net profit after Federal income and profits taxes of $492,172.

The New Netherland Bank has declared its regular semi-annual dividend of 4 per cent., payable April 1, and an extra dividend of 1 per cent., payable at the same date, to stockholders of record March 21.

Peter B. Olney and Olin Potter Geer of New York have formed a partnership for the general practice of law under the firm name of Olney & Geer, with offices at 2 Rector Street.

The Bank of Taiwan, Limited, has announced that Masumi Esaki, its New York agent, has been elected a Director.

The regular quarterly dividend of the Coal and Iron National Bank was increased yesterday by the Directors from 2 to 3 per cent., thus putting the dividend on a regular 12 per cent. yearly basis.

STEEL BUYERS WARY.

Trade Journals Report, However, $25,000,000 Railroad Orders.

Purchases of cars and locomotives by the railroad companies are growing in volume with less speed than had been expected when the carriers were turned back to their owners, according to steel trade reviews. At the same time, equipment at a cost between $20,000,000 and $30,000,000 has been ordered by several of the larger systems, and the steel mills are awaiting contracts for many freight cars. Production is still handicapped by inadequate transportation facilities, and there are signs of caution on the part of buyers who feel the prices are approaching the peak.

The Iron Age says:

With production at the highest rates in more than a year on the prospect of further increase as Spring comes on, the steel trade expects gradually to work out of the serious hampering of recent weeks. There has been no rush thus far on the part of the railroads to buy equipment, and the week has rather added to the evidence that the strained conditions in the industry are yielding.

Some of the steel that will be applied to railroad needs was apparently reserved in anticipation of the return of the roads, and the mills that have been able to get the highest prices for their output will probably not figure largely in the equipment tonnage.

Locomotives bought since the first of the year and those now under negotiations, including 280 for the New York Central, 100 for the St. Paul and nearly as many for the Illinois Central, are upwards of 1,200. Inquiries for about 11,000 more cars (including car repairs) have taken definite form, making more than 25,000 for early contracting.

The Iron Trade Review says:

Whatever spirit of caution among steel buyers is shown in the present market, does not apply to automobile builders. Two of the principal Detroit builders, unable to get sheets of automobile quality in the open market, have paid $90 and $92, Pittsburgh, for 3,000 to 5,000 tons of prompt open hearth sheets, bars which are being turned over to certain mills for conversion. With bessemer sheet bars, which are not suitable for automobile specifications, selling at $70, Pittsburgh, an unheard of spread of $20 from open hearth steel has been created.

REJECTS RAIL GUARANTEE.

Pere Marquette Is First Creditor Road Not to Accept Offer.

Following a meeting of the Board of Directors of the Pere Marquette Railway Company it was learned yesterday that the Board had decided not to accept the extension of the Government guarantee for six months contained in Section 209 of the Transportation act. This is the first so-called creditor road, which earned more than the standard return during Federal control, to indicate that it expected to continue to earn more, and does not want to share its excess with the Government in the next six months.

Some confusion has appeared in the financial district regarding Section 209 of the law which covers the guaranty provisions. Counsel for three lines have interpreted the law to mean that unless the roads agree to all of the provisions contained in the section they do not have to return any of their earnings during the six months to the Government.

While the news that the Pere Marquette Board had decided against accepting the guaranty was not a particular surprise to the financial district, the later news that the St. Louis-San Francisco Railway Company Board had decided to accept the section, did cause some comment. This was due to the fact that the road was one of the so-called creditor systems before March 1.

SPOT COTTON HIGHER THAN FOR 50 YEARS

Exchange Rates' Advance Proves Very Important Influence in Market's General Rise.

LATE MONTHS IN DEMAND

Foreign Buying Sentiment Improves and Large Purchases for Germany Are Rumored.

Most of the factors which were at work in the cotton market yesterday were favorable and the market, after a very brief period of uncertainty and irregularity at the opening, moved forward well, the greatest display of bullishness occurring in the late months. In October the high price of the day showed a gain of 66 points, while in December there was a rise of 58 points. The near months were not in such good demand, although March rose about half a cent to 39½ cents. Spots were quoted at 41 cents, an over-night gain of ¼ of a cent, and the highest price reported here in more than fifty years.

The sharp advance in the foreign exchange market was a very important influence. This served to improve sentiment regarding continuance of foreign buying, and it also brought into the market a good amount of buying for Liverpool account, where the strength of exchange tended to reduce the spread between American and British prices. On the Liverpool market futures closed down 30 to 50 points and spots were down 114 points to the basis of 27.03d. for middling.

There also were rumors of big buying for Germany. It was said in the trade that the demand from this quarter has been persistent and steadily growing of late and in recent weeks there has been a good sized amount of the staple to leave American ports consigned direct to Germany. The strength of German marks, which went up to $1.66 per 100 marks yesterday, was another bull argument on cotton.

Exports for the day, which were somewhat late in being reported, totaled 30,499 bales, making the total for the week to date 120,142 bales, as against 128,126 bales for all of last week.

Yesterday's quotations follow:

	Open.	High.	Low.	Close.	Prev. Day.

TENANTS TAKE OVER APARTMENT HOUSES

Syndicate Buys Fine Park Av. Structure Arranged for Occupancy of Fifty Families.

HOUSE HELD AT $1,700,000

Corporation Representing Tenant Interests Also Acquires $400,000 Morningside Avenue Building.

Tenant syndicates acquired two valuable apartment houses yesterday. Max N. Natanson resold to a group consisting of four tenants and ten outside interests the twelve-story fireproof apartment house at 850 Park Avenue, southwest corner of Seventy-seventh Street, on a plot fronting 155 feet on the avenue and 100 feet on the street. The structure was held at $1,700,000 and at present returns an annual rental of approximately $175,000. The new owners will conduct it on a co-operative basis, and it is figured it will return about $250,000 under the new schedule of rents. Pease & Elliman arranged the sale. Title is to be taken in the name of the Park Avenue and Seventy-seventh street Corporation formed at Albany on Monday, with A. E. Outerbridge, F. H. Jones, George Richards, H. E. Moller and others, and having a capital of $500,000. The structure is arranged for fifty families and was acquired by Mr. Natanson last October from the 850 Park Avenue Corporation, Frederick Johnson President, which erected the building. The suites are from seven to ten rooms and the house is considered among the finest along Park Avenue.

Tenants in the Latham apartment house at 92 Morningside Avenue, northeast corner of 122d Street, also formed a company and contracted for the purchase of the property from Joseph Shenk, who acquired it a few weeks ago. The company was incorporated at Albany recently with Israel and Emma Stone and Martha S. Spitz, tenants, as Directors, the company having a stated capital of $50,000. The Latham is a seven-story elevator structure, on a plot fronting 100 feet on the avenue and on the street, and contains accommodations for fifty families. It was held at $300,000 and returns an annual rental of about $40,000.

Mr. Shenk also sold to Jacob Fish through A. Bluznesich, as broker, the Hudson View, a six-story elevator apartment house at the southeast corner of Broadway and 148th Street, on a plot 100 by 125. The structure returns an annual rental of about $48,000. It was held at $375,000.

Herman Denzer sold for the William Oppenheim Realty Corporation the three five-story non-elevator apartment houses, on plot 75 by 116 at 809, 811 and 813 St. Nicholas Avenue, between 150th Street and 151st Street. The purchaser is an investor.

William J. Gabel sold for Mary S. Guerrier to J. Cohen the two four-story flats, 1,833 and 1,835 Lexington Avenue.

The Amer Realty Company, Inc., J. E. Mautner, President, resold 511 West 186th Street, on plot 75 by 107, a five-story walk-up apartment held at $125,000.

Max Marx has sold to Edward W. Browning the two five-story flats, 50 by 100, at 25 and 27 West Ninety-ninth Street. Millard Veit was the broker.

Charles Wynne and Louis H. Low bought from John H. Block of Rockville Centre, L. I., the five-story apartment house, 523 West 123d Street, on a lot 33.4 by 100, held at $50,000. O'Reilly & Dahn were the brokers.

Sharp & Co., and J. A. Wood have sold for the Feld estate to Rubin Solov 10 and 12 West 107th Street, two five-story flats, on plot 50 by 100.

Price Brothers bought from J. Wiener 2,509 Seventh Avenue, a five-story apartment house, 41 by 100.5, held at $50,000. S. Lanes was the broker.

Suburban Buying.

The Robert E. Farley Organization sold for Mrs. Hettie Murgatroyd, a plot on Columbia Avenue, Hartsdale, N. Y., to Mrs. J. E. Walker of Hartsdale.

George W. Both sold John H. Thompson's residence in the Post Road section of Scarsdale to Harris MacNeish of New York City.

Pell & Tibbits sold to Mrs. Jane Schuyler Morse, a water front place at Sands Point, L. I., with large new Colonial house, and garage, formerly owned by Sarah Gibbs.

$77,500 Vesey Street Sale.

J. Clarence Davies sold for Cutner & Crystal the five-story loft building at 48 Vesey Street, to Abraham Straus of 75 Fulton Street, for $77,500. This is the fourth loft building in this district sold by the same broker in the last few weeks.

FIGURES FEDERAL LOSS AT HALF A BILLION

Roper Estimates Effect of Stock Dividends Ruling on Income Returns.

WASHINGTON, March 10.—The loss to the Government as a result of the Supreme Court's decision declaring stock dividends not taxable as income will be nearly $500,000,000, according to an estimate today by Commissioner of Internal Revenue Roper.

With some 4,000,000 dividend returns on the bureau's files, it will take months to make an accurate estimate as to the effect of the decision, Mr. Roper said, but a hasty search indicated that $10,000,000 paid in 1917 and 1918 would have to be returned, while the loss in uncollected taxes in 1919 would be $100,000,000 and that for 1920 $300,000,000.

Some of this loss the Commissioner said, would be offset by the tax on stock sales. Mr. Roper emphasized that the estimates were not official and that the loss might be found larger.

Navy Radio Bill Passes Senate.

WASHINGTON, March 10.—Senator Poindexter's bill authorizing the Navy Department to operate certain radio stations for the transmission of press and commercial messages was adopted by the Senate today after an amendment that private business should not be handled at less than cost. The bill expressly provides special low rates for press dispatches.

Names New Destroyer After Peary.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, March 10.—Secretary Daniels today announced that the new destroyer for the American Navy, No. 226, now under construction at Cramps Shipyard, Philadelphia, has been named Peary in honor of the late Rear Admiral Robert Edwin Peary, discoverer of the North Pole, who died in Washington on Feb. 20 last. The late Admiral's widow, who lives in Washington, has been asked to designate a sponsor for this destroyer, which is to be launched on March 18.

Pittman Refused to be Delegate.

WASHINGTON, March 10.—Senator Pittman said today that the action of the Nevada Democratic Central Committee in not choosing him a delegate to the national convention was due to the fact that he had notified the committee that he would not permit his name to be presented as a candidate for delegate and would not accept such a place if chosen. Both Senator Pittman and Senator Henderson said they expected to attend the convention in any event.

STRONG AUCTION DEMAND.

Bryan L. Kennelly Disposes of Widely Scattered Holdings.

Buyers were readily found for miscellaneous kinds of property yesterday when Bryan L. Kennelly disposed of a number of holdings at auction. Mr. Kennelly declares that the demand for real estate has become so strong as to even result in the disposition of properties before the auction sale gets under way. He sold at private sale yesterday 351 Bowery, a five-story business building; 2,886 Valentine Avenue, Bronx, a three-story dwelling, and 396 Hicks Street, Brooklyn, a four-story tenement, for prices decidedly satisfactory to the owners.

The auction offerings occasioned spirited bidding, with the following results: 117 West Ninety-sixth Street, 5-story apartment house, sold to Theredorus Bailey, $41,500; 402 West Forty-sixth Street, 5-story apartment house, sold to Ellen G. Madigan for $31,500; 420 and 422 East 163d Street, a vacant plot 50 by 100, to Philip J. Knoblock for $6,000; 376 Bleecker Street, a four-story tenement, to John H. Nussbkern for $15,000; 331 West Fourth Street, southeast corner of Jane Street, a three-story tenement, to C. W. McGill for $18,500; the plot, 50 by 100, on the west side of Jerome Avenue, 100 feet north of 183d Street, to A. E. Barker for $10,300; plot 100 by 105 at the northeast corner of 170th Street and Stebbins Avenue, sold to S. B. Jackson for $14,500; 387 Riverside Drive, four-story dwelling, to Harry S. Hochberg for $41,000; two-story dwelling on block front on south side of Adee Avenue, between Barnes and Mathews Avenue, Bronx, to John J. Monohan for $23,000; the plot, 100 by 100, on the west side of Holland Avenue, 100 feet north of Burke Avenue, to Tommaso Giordano for $31,000; 128 West 130th Street, a three-story dwelling, to Charles Fiedler for $9,200; 208 and 212 West Fordham Road, two four-story apartment houses, to J. Edwards for $68,250, and 1,625 Van Buren Street, Bronx, a two-story dwelling, to D. E. Crocheron for $6,700.

Other auction results yesterday were as follows:

BROOKLYN DWELLING DEMAND

Investors and Homeseekers Both Active as Purchasers.

The demand for residential properties in Brooklyn continues without abatement. The Frank C. Sauter Agency has sold for the estate of William A. White eighteen frame dwellings on Twenty-second Street, near Fifth Avenue, to Rose & Latter. The purchasers will modernize the houses, which were held at $75,000.

E. T. Newman, in conjunction with the Chauncey Real Estate Company, sold the four-story dwelling 182 Washington Park for a Mr. Jacobs to a client for occupancy.

Bulkley & Horton Company sold 792 East Twenty-first Street, between Farragut and Glenwood Roads, two and one-half story dwelling, plot 50 by 100, for Frank B. Pappi to client for occupancy.

Charles Partridge sold the two-story house 676 Sterling Place for Emanuel Phillips to a client for occupancy.

Meister Builders sold to a client of H. Sperling 1,500 Bedford Avenue, a four-story double flat, on a plot 34 by 97, and held at $35,000.

Frank H. Malone sold the store property 6,906 Third Avenue for Philip Costa to a client for investment.

Good Demand for Dwellings.

Charles A. DuBois sold for the Kings County Savings Institution to Lawrence S. Goldberg the three-story dwelling at 523 West 150th Street.

Porter & Co. sold for Angela de Socarras to Simon S. Friedberg the three-story brownstone dwelling at 213 West 127th Streeet.

The Payson McL. Merrill Company sold for Mrs. Hattie Stern to a client for occupancy 18 East Ninety-third Street, a four-story dwelling, on a lot 20 by 100.

Spear & Co. sold the five-story American basement dwelling on a Columbia College leasehold, 51 West Forty-eighth Street, to the Diomedians of New York, Inc.

Frederick Schlucter sold for Mrs. P. T. Starin, the four-story and basement dwelling on a lot 20 by 100, 30 West Ninety-first Street, to Mrs. Sarah Davies for occupancy.

D. Pear; purchased from the Clark estate through the Brown, Wheelock Company, Inc., the four-story and basement high-stoop dwelling at 34 West Seventy-third Street, on a lot 20 by 102.2, near Central Park West, held at $45,000. This is the eighteenth house sold by the same brokers for the Clark estate recently.

John H. Pierce sold for T. Robinson 113 West 136th Street, a three-story and basement dwelling, on a lot 16.8 by 100.

Charles Diehl sold to J. J. Upton the three-story and basement dwelling at 235 West Seventh Street, on a lot 19 by 100.

William R. Ware sold for Louis T. and Gerard Romaine the five four-story dwellings, on a plot 85.2 by 100.2, at 128 to 144 West Ninety-fourth Street.

The George Comfort Company sold for Philip Friedman a twenty-one-year lease on the dwelling at 34 West Forty-seventh Street to Mrs. Edwin C. Parker.

Frederick Zittel & Sons sold for Nina Chatillion to Ennis & Sinnott, 34 West Ninety-fifth Street, a three-story dwelling, 18 by 100. Lester H. Goodkind represented the buyers.

Park Theatre Leased.

The Park Theatre, on Columbus Circle and extending through to Fifty-eighth Street, has been leased by Mrs. Nellie Flake and another, trustees, to William Cort for fifteen years from May 1, 1921, at $50,000 a year net. Last June Mrs. Flake leased the building at 8 and 9 Columbus Circle, with the exception of the theatre, to Walter J. Salmon for fifteen years, with a six-year renewal privilege for about $50,000 a year net. The property was leased to the Pabst Brewing Company about nineteen years ago, and it is this lease that is about to expire. At the new rentals the owner will receive about $100,000 a year net, or nearly three times the rental of ten years ago and twice as much as it is returning today.

Brooklyn Auction Result.

There was a large attendance at the Brooklyn Real Estate Salesroom Tuesday evening, when the Jere Johnson, Jr. Company, Auctioneers, sold at public auction a number of Brooklyn properties. There were six parcels, five of which were in the Bay Ridge section and one in the Rugby section. They brought a total of $40,325. Among the purchasers were Morris Burger, Michael Cooper, V. Celano, H. G. Harrington and Clarence Houser.

Strong Bronx Market.

Adolf Lang sold for Mrs. Manon E. Massey the three-story dwelling at 1,497 Bryant Avenue, 20 by 100, to Max Glanta.

ASTOR SALE SETS RECORD.

Biggest New York Auction Nets $633,775 Above Assessed Value.

The Astor estate sale on Tuesday established a new record for real estate auction offerings in this city. Not only does the grand total of $5,159,575 paid for the 141 parcels comprising the Henry Astor trust estate exceed by a comfortable margin the former auction record of $4,911,500, paid in 1905 for the Aldrich estate holdings, but the successful bidders paid for the Astor property $633,775 more than the city's assessed valuation for the property sold. The total assessed valuation represents $4,525,800.

Realty men discussed the results of the sale, conducted under the auspices of J. Clarence Davies and Joseph P. Day, with keen interest yesterday, and, as many of the leases expire May 1 next and on May 1, 1921, it is confidently expected that some important improvements will be seen, especially in those parcels near Broadway, in the very near future. The desirability of the property in view of its location in the Times Square centre, in the heart of the hotel and theatre section, naturally stimulated the bidding. The Astor estate auction in its price results, will doubtless stand unrivalled for many years.

A brief summary of some of the more important auction sales of realty in the city, some of which required several days, while others were held at different times extending over periods of several months, is:

Sales.	Year.	Price.
Astor estate	1920	$5,159,575
Aldrich estate	1905	4,911,500
Joshua Jones estate	1888-89	3,939,260
Morris Park	1913	3,779,800
Dyckman estate, 2 sales		3,000,000
Mrs. Margaret O. Sage estate	1920	2,619,250
Bruce estate	1910	2,230,450
Pinkney estate	1911	2,166,650
Doherty estate	1917	1,913,856
Bennett estate	1919	1,786,900
Colonel V. K. Stevenson estate	1886	1,664,025
Morgenthau sale, Upper Washington Heights	1891	1,494,300
Van Cortlandt estate	1912	1,449,715
Whitney estate	1908-9	1,300,325
Jumel estate	1883	1,089,027
R. F. Carman estate	1873	901,738
G. L. Lorillard estate	1886	648,700
Hunt's Point	1910	427,050

It is interesting to note that very few parcels in the Astor estate went for less than the assessed value. It is seldom that so much good property in one of the busiest sections of the city comes on the market, and the prices paid were a splendid illustration of the stability of the real estate market, which has been so well exemplified by such an exceptional number of large transactions during the last few months.

Business Buildings Sold.

William A. White & Sons sold for Miss Helen C. Butler and others the four-story building, 25 by 100, at 549 Pearl Street, near Broadway, to William Lubock, who has bought for restaurant purposes. The property has been in the hands of the A. T. Stewart estate for a generation.

E. Sharum bought from the Sheridan estate 157 and 159 East 128th Street, a seven-story loft building, 50 by 100. All the leases in this building expire May 1, 1920.

The Amer Realty Company, Inc., J. E. Mautner, President, purchased the six-story loft building at 136 Prince Street, on a lot 25 by 101. The building is all leased to 1923 at a yearly rent of $13,000. It was held at $70,000.

The Arundel Dock Company, J. W. Mengel, President, has sold to Aaron Porter the eleven-story loft building, 28 by 92, at 15 West Seventeenth Street, near Fifth Avenue. The property rents for $25 000 and was held at $185,000. Spotts & Starr, Inc., were the brokers.

The Charles F. Noyes Company resold for Louis Eskwith of 17 and 19 Ferry Street, a five-story loft building, about 50 by 52, to George B. Ritchie & Co., dealers in wool and hair. The property was valued at $75,000. This is the third sale of the same property announced within the last forty days by the same brokers.

Edward Wolf sold for Geis Brothers and J. Carner the seven-story loft building at 158 West Twenty-third Street for a reported price of $140,000. H. Heidenrich is the buyer.

Strong Bronx Market.

Bernessdee Realty Company, Inc., Bernard S. Deutsch, President, purchased 2,077 Mapes Avenue, five-story flat, plot 25 by 100, and has resold it to Walter Siennick; also has purchased the southeast corner of Belmont Avenue and 179th Street, on plot 91 by 100, two five-story apartments; purchased 671 East 158th Street, the northwest corner of Trinity Avenue, a five-story apartment with stores on plot 50 by 100, and purchased through K. M. Goldner 760 East 165th Street, three-story brick dwelling with store, on lot 20 by 100.

Harry Cohn purchased from the Rhinelander estate 3,047 Hull Avenue, adjoining Mosholu Parkway on the north. Walter L. McLaughlin was the broker who negotiated the sale.

William Peters & Co. sold for Henry Boschen to Julius C. Schoppaul the four-story apartment house at 2,070 Vyse Avenue.

Samuel Cowen sold to Mr. Jacobson the five-story flat 1,210 Evergreen Avenue, on a plot 40 by 100, held at $35,000.

Julius Trattner sold for Philip Stein to August Jatzen 647 Fox Street, a five-story new law apartment house on a plot 40.6 by 125.

H. Berg has sold for Daniel L. Korn to Shaffer & Lipson the five-story apartment house, 40 by 100, at 1,161 Hoe Avenue.

Angelo L. Frumento sold for M. Eichiherest a four-story house at 2,038 Hughes Avenue, on plot 50 by 75, to Nihiel Realty Company; also 2,130 Hughes Avenue for Frank Schubert to Louis Paff, and 2,068 Clinton Avenue, a three-story house, for M. Palmier to H. Klein.

Isaac A. Benequit purchased from Rebecca M. Trube, the two houses at 893 and 897 East 167th Street, through Adolf Trube.

Wood-Dolson Company sold for the Friedman Marble and Slate Works six lots on the west side of Whitlock Avenue, 225 feet south of East 156th Street. The purchaser will build a factory on the site, which will also take in adjoining property.

J. Clarence Davies sold for the estate of Simon Bernheimer 1,053 and 1,037 College Avenue, two three-story flats on plot 44 by 92.

Queens Borough Transactions.

The Lewis H. May Company sold for the S. & L. Construction Company, to the F. S. R. Realty Corporation, 170 Harriman Court, Edgemere, L. I., consisting of a two-and a half story furnished dwelling.

Lizzie Sulzberger sold through Frank J. Magerie two cottages with garage at 8,534 and 8,536 107th Street, between Brandon and Emerson Streets, to a client who will occupy one of the houses.

H. R. Williams & Son sold the corner property at Ashland and Cedar Avenues, Richmond Hill, on plot 85 by 100, with a dwelling, to Professor Stilson, who will occupy the premises after improvements have been completed.

J. Albert Johntra has sold the property on the southwest corner of Percy Street and Cypress Avenue, Flushing, owned by Robert Bruce, to Samuel H. Serena, of Forest Hills.

The Rickert-Brown Realty Company sold to C. C. Scheffler a two-story dwelling, on Ditmars Avenue, between Lawrence Street and Chauncey Street, Arleigh, L. I., a reported consideration of $10,000.

Rector Street Sales.

E. S. Willard & Co. sold the southwest corner of Rector and Washington Streets, 40.6 by 89.2, for Benjamin S. Welles, who had owned the property for two generations. The deal involves about $180,000 and the purchaser was Elias M. Rahhal, who will renovate the building for occupancy. The same brokers sold 70 Greenwich Street for Saladi Brothers, the purchaser being Regina E. Saportas, and also the property at 30 Washington Street for the John McCroden estate.

Plans for Lamont Home.

Plans have been filed for the new $250,000 home which Thomas W. Lamont, of J. P. Morgan & Co., will build in the Lenox Hill section, at 105 to 109 East Seventieth Street. The house, 40 by 92, has been designed by Walker & Gillette and will be five-stories in height.

VOTE ON COMMISSIONS.

Standard Rates Adopted by Long Island Board.

The Real Estate Exchange of Long Island at a luncheon meeting yesterday at the Cafe Boulevard, voted to place into operation a uniform scale of commissions affecting Long Island realty transactions. With few exceptions, the report of F. H. Reeve, Chairman of the committee in charge, was adopted. The sales commissions for Queens (excepting Long Island City and Woodside), Nassau and Suffolk Counties, will be 5 per cent. on improved and unimproved properties on sales of less than $1,000, the commission will be 10 per cent. and for selling leases and leaseholds, 5 per cent.

In Long Island City and Woodside, the rate on improved properties will be 2½ per cent. and for unimproved, 5 per cent. Rates were also adopted for leases, exchanges, acreage sales, leaseholdes, &c. The proposed 10 per cent. rate for the renting of summer residences created such a discussion that it was deemed advisable to refer the matter to a special committee which will report back at the next meeting. Several of the members interested in Rockaway property urged that the prevailing rate of 5 per cent continue in force. The same committee will also take up the matter of commissions on mortgage and building loans. The complete scale of commissions, as finally adopted by the Exchange, will shortly be made public for general distribution.

Other interesting matters came up for consideration yesterday. It was decided to appoint a committee with authority to arrange a dinner conference between leading architects, builders and supply men to discuss the building situation and endeavor to stabilize construction costs. James Frank, reporting for the Legislative Committee, said that strictly real estate bills had already been introduced at Albany, most of them by Legislators seeking to appease their tenant constituents.

He declared that Governor Smith was greatly interested in the landlord and tenant situation in New York City and had made up his mind that some remedial legislation would be passed during the present session.

MANAGEMENT

IS THE MOST IMPORTANT JOB

TO BE FOUND.

The highest salaries are paid to executives, who are the hardest men to be found. This is because there are so few men with the knowledge and training to become managers.

One of the largest captains of industry in the country recently authorized the statement that he had positions for all the $10,000 men he could find; his only regret was that he could not find men sufficiently trained for executive work.

The rule of thumb management, based on guesses and previous mistakes, no longer goes. Complexities of modern business demand that business judgment shall be based upon adequate information and an understanding of every phase of the case.

SHORT CUT TO REAL JOBS.

The La Salle Problem Method, given by the foremost business training institution in the world, is the surest and shortest road to an important managerial position for the man who has the capacity for development. This training will take you step by step through processes and problems of administrative work—by the extension plan—right in your own home—during your spare evening hours. You will get business knowledge, training, service—all organized in a way to be of immediate and practical use.

unless you are truly ambitious and are already an executive, or have the stuff for an executive in you. We are primarily a detail man, a mechanic, clerk, or messenger, it would be better for you to take a specialized course dealing with your immediate interests; but if you are interested in men and business and have commercial sense, we will work with you and stay with you until you have attained higher place, power and income. The man of executive type who starts the La Salle course in business administration does not have to wait until he finishes it to cash in on it. He begins to cash in almost immediately.

CALL, TELEPHONE, OR WRITE,

A. C. Shaughnessy, Business Counselor, LA SALLE EXTENSION UNIVERSITY, 1918 Chemical Bldg., New York, and General Eastern Office. Evening appointment can be arranged.

PUBLIC SPEAKING.

Men who can talk effectively to others, singly or in groups, are needed in business. Visit, without obligation, the first session of a new class in public speaking at Pace Institute, 30 Church St., New York, which will be held on Saturday afternoon, March 13, at 4 o'clock; observe for yourself the methods which have trained others to talk convincingly. Write or telephone (Cortlandt 1465) for informative Booklet 10, Pace & Pace, 30 Church St., New York.

WHAT ABOUT YOUR FUTURE?

The all-important question is: Where will you be 5 or 10 years from now? To know what your life work should be, to be directed step forward to successful future. From the study of the face, our analysts can determine the right job for you; no trade tests; no psychological tests; ask us all about it; Booklet "F" on request. Morgan Institute, Inc., 96 5th Av. (at 15th St.); New York. Telephone Chelsea 4054.

EXPORT LESSON FREE

tonight at 6:30 P. M.; come as our guest, see how practical our method; demand for trained help far exceeds supply. Come or write for particulars.

Printing Facts

Now this paragraph has been justified. The ragged edge at the right has disappeared. One of the tests of composition, whether by hand or machine, lies in the justification.

Sometimes you see too many words crowded into a line. This makes for difficult reading.

When there are too few words to a line, the spaces between the words are too conspicuous, and the result is distinctly unpleasant.

The skilful compositor is exceedingly particular about his justification, because this perhaps above all else makes for good or bad typography.

STRAIN TELLS ON ACCUSED

Ex-Premier Appears Perturbed at Array of Evidence—Blames Embassy's Failure to Warn Him.

PARIS, March 10.—Only two witnesses were heard today at the trial of former Premier Joseph Caillaux before the Senate as a High Court on the charge of intriguing to promote a dishonorable and premature peace with Germany. They were Charles Roux, Counselor of the French Embassy at Rome, and Commandant Noblemaire, former Military Attache at the same Embassy.

Their testimony as to the activities of the accused in Italy in 1916 was of such a character that the ex-Premier appeared considerably perturbed at several points, and toward the end of the day he gave signs of weakening from the strain of the proceedings. He recovered his poise ultimately, however, and finished the day in apparently good spirits.

M. Roux swore that Caillaux's relations in Italy were confined to pacifists, the former Premier associating exclusively with men at present under indictment on the charge of having had intelligence with the enemy. The witness added that Caillaux was not a victim of imprudence, but had chosen his suspected companions advisedly, which was the reason why the Embassy had warned him, as it had done in the case of Deputy Lebouco a few months before when the latter was frequenting the same company.

M. Caillaux laid emphasis on the failure of the Embassy to warn him, and said that if he had been forewarned he would have ceased his relations with the pacifists immediately.

"The embassy was under the impression that I was in Italy for no good purpose," said M. Caillaux. "It thought I was in Italy on treason bent and laid a trap for me. It wanted to get me and in order to do so was willing to jeopardise the security of France and give me time to accomplish a separate peace, had it ever for a moment entered my mind to do so."

The testimony of M. Roux and M. Noblemaire followed Caillaux's every step in Italy, and a severe cross-examination by M. Moro-Giafferi of the accused's counsel, and by Caillaux himself, was unable to shake their evidence. This evidence was for the purpose of establishing that in 1916 Caillaux was prepared to discuss the peace proposals of Dr. von Bethmann Hollweg, former Imperial Chancellor, and all other peace notes issued around Christmas of that year, especially that of President Wilson, which the witnesses declare Caillaux argued should be replied to by acquiescence in a willingness to talk peace with Germany.

The presence of M. Caillaux in Italy, his pacifist activities, his expressed desire to conclude an alliance of Italy, Spain and France, and the publication of President Wilson's peace note, M. Roux testified, were followed promptly by Swiss, Danish, Swedish, and Norwegian notes. All were interpreted in Italy, the witness declared, as part of the German peace drive.

M. Roux said that among the Italian pacifists with whom Caillaux consorted were Cavallini, Rericcardi and Brunicardi, all of whom were at present under indictment.

Paris Police Form a Union.

PARIS, March 10.—In spite of opposition of the Prefecture of Police, members of the graded force and the judiciary police have formed a union which has taken steps toward cooperating with the Federation of Labor, although it will not be affiliated with that organization.

IN-B-TWEEN

"I Guarantee Enthusiasm!"

"I won't be satisfied with your passive endorsement of In-B-Tweens. I want you to say they are wonders!

"I want you to like them so well you'll talk, and talk lots.

"I want you to like the first box with enthusiasm—I mean so well that you'll resolve never to be without them.

"I want you to think they're the finest 'short' smokes in the world. They are! In-B-Tweens are 'Four Inches of a 25c Cigar'—hand made, of the tender baby leaves of the choicest Havana tobacco.

"Try them today—I guarantee you'll be enthusiastic."

—For Dancing

HERE is an instrument that is unequaled for providing music for an informal dance in your home. It plays with zest, snap and spirit that is irresistibly contagious. You know how much modern dance music—the fox-trots, one-steps and waltzes—depend for their effect on how they are played.

Well, this instrument plays them exactly as the finest Broadway masters of syncopation play them, with all sorts of unexpected little runs and unusual effects. There is nothing mechanical about it; it is as full of life as the players themselves. You can have it repeat your favorite pieces indefinitely, and enjoy a good long dance.

One instinctively associates the Ampico with the playing of such great masters of classical music as Godowsky, Levitzki, Moiseiwitsch, Ornstein, Rubinstein and the great Russian composer-pianist, Sergei Rachmaninoff. But in addition to these, the Ampico reproduces the work of a hundred other talented pianists who have played for your pleasure light classics, selections from grand opera, old songs, popular music of the day and all the latest Broadway dance hits.

The Ampico is invariably chosen when beauty of tone and exactness of reproduction are intelligently judged.

Stetson Hats
for Spring

The proverbial "straight line between two points" seems crooked as a cowpath by contrast with the way of a New Yorker when buying his Spring Stetson.

He brings up at Hat Headquarters in something less than ten seconds; especially when, as now, we can announce that our new Stetson assortments are as varied as they are handsome. Ready NOW.

Complete-To-Wear Clothes
READY-TO-SLIP-RIGHT-ON Tailored By A Merchant Tailor Not Just Retailed By A Retailer

You may gag at the price of some Spring Clothes, but what man, whose head is set tightly in its socket, will grumble at the price of only $50 for a Suit of Long-Wearing Worsted, tailored by a Merchant Tailor?

Don't bracket our prices with the "pay-or-stay-away" kind. We buy our own woolens and cut our own garments. That is why $50 has the purchasing power of $10 to $25 more here.

What 1919 saw in aerial achievements

The first trans-Atlantic flights; the first transcontinental air derby; new speed, altitude, endurance and distance records; the establishment of aerial mail, freight, passenger, patrol service, etc.—in brief, the emergence of the airplane from the experimental stage into commercial utility!

THE AIRCRAFT YEAR BOOK
—1920

Here is the wonder-story of the banner year in aeronautics—bare facts so startling in their significance that they stir like a revelation.

Freight and passengers have been carried, fires fought, prospecting and surveying carried on, new sports started, regions inaccessible to sail and steam opened up, exploration and research facilitated by the airplane—and this is only the beginning!

For the business man, the administrator, the sportsman, for all forward-looking men, this book is indispensable. Net $2.00
